SUGAR LOBBY QUIZ INVOLVES FOUR LEADERS

2 High-Tariff Democrats and Republicans Are Under Probe.

SENATE INVESTIGATOR AT WORK TWO WEEKS

Group's Committee May Go Into Stock Holdings of Certain Men.

(United Press.)

The names of two Republican and two Democratic leaders, all of national prominence, have become involved in the Senate lobby committee's investigation of the report that a member of the Senate received large sums of money from the head of a domestic sugar company during the tariff fight.

The two Republicans are men other than Senator James J. Davis (Republican), Pennsylvania, who appeared before the lobby committee to deny that he had received money for tariff lobbying and to demand a full investigation of the published reports.

An investigator for the lobby committee has been at work for the past two weeks on the books and records of companies allied with the domestic sugar interests involved in the original investigation. The names of the additional political leaders have come to the committee's attention through this source.

Democrats Not in Office.

The four political leaders are two Republicans who have been allied with the high protective tariff group in that party and two Democrats whose views on the tariff have been rather more inclined to the high tariff side than the majority of that party. The two Republicans now hold public office and the two Democrats do not.

If the committee decides to go into the circumstances surrounding the transactions of these four men, its inquiry will be directed to finding out whether these transactions involved anything more than a normal purchase or sale of stock in certain companies.

The lobby committee has temporarily suspended its investigation of the sugar lobby report because Senator Davis informed Chairman Thaddeus Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, he desired to make a trip to California and also because the committee investigator had asked for more time to complete his inquiry.

Denies Film Negotiations.

Senator Davis, in Pittsburgh, denied yesterday that his purpose in going to California is to negotiate for an appearance in a motion picture version of his autobiography, "The Iron Puddler." From California came reports that his prospective visit there was only for social purposes.

It was also learned yesterday that Davis has told other senators that he plans to visit Russia during the coming summer and that he has asked one senator for letters of introduction for use in that country. The purpose of his trip to Russia, if he makes it, was not disclosed.

Jewelry Man Reports Holdup of $100,000

Miami Beach, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Moe Scharozenberg, jewelry salesman for a New York firm, told police today three bandits robbed him of jewelry valued at approximately $100,000. He said the bandits held him up with pistols as he drove in the northern part of Miami Beach.

He quoted one of the three men as saying "We will not hurt you," as he stepped into the car, pointing a pistol at him. A second man, Scharozenberg said, entered the back of the car, also carrying a pistol. The third man followed in another automobile.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The voyage of President Hoover will direct public attention to the importance of our insular possessions. For the most part they came to us as the result of the Spanish War. In population they are about 14,500,000 people. The annual trade with them is more than $350,000,000. This is more than one-tenth of our population and more than one-twentieth of our foreign trade.

These islands all represent a great public duty that in the course of history has come to the United States to discharge. The people involved, for the most part, would not be able to make their own way in the world. They have had no experience in self-government except what has been brought to them under our direction. Without some help, without being attached to some country, they could neither repel foreign aggression nor maintain sufficient domestic order to insure any individual freedom. Our purpose is mainly to help them advance economically, intellectually and politically until such time as they can assume entire charge of their own affairs with safety to themselves and other nations. Our duty is plain, even if it brings no thanks.

Council of Churches Backs Birth Control

Representatives of 27 American Protestant Denominations Indorse Restraint on Size of Families; Oppose Influencing Laws.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The "careful and restrained" use of contraceptive measures to regulate the size of families was indorsed today by an organization made up of representatives of 27 American Protestant churches having a total membership of approximately 23,000,000.

The indorsement was given in a majority report on birth control submitted after several years of study by the committee on marriage and the home of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. It was issued with the approval of the council's administrative committee.

The committee unanimously agreed that because of economic considerations and, in many cases, the welfare of the mother, "there can be no question as to the necessity for some sort of effective control of the size of the family and the spacing of children."

The committee also agreed unanimously that whatever the final decision of the church may be, "the church should not seek to impose its point of view as to the use of contraceptives upon the public by legislation or any other form of coercion, and especially should not seek to prohibit physicians from imparting such information to those who in the judgment of the medical profession are entitled to receive it."

A minority, however, refused to sanction the use of contraceptive measures and called upon the church, "when control of conception is necessary, to uphold the standard of abstinence as the ideal."

The committee agreed, however, that "it should be expected that guidance will find expression through the researches and experience of physicians and men of science as well as through the corporate conscience of the church."

The majority report warns the public against "advertised nostrums, which are beginning to appear in thinly disguised forms in reputable periodicals," and against "so-called 'boot-legged' devices at drug stores."

"It is essential," it states, "to consult the family physician or go so

U. S. RELIEF PLANE NEAR VIKING SCENE

Rescue Steamer With 110 of Survivors on Board Is Caught in Ice Jam.

St. Johns, N. F., March 20 (A.P.).—New woes for the rescued and waning hopes for the missing were today's tidings from turbulent White Bay, where the sealer Viking exploded and sank Sunday with a probable loss of 28 lives.

Meanwhile Bernt Balchen, hero of many an aerial exploit, flew into St. John, New Brunswick, from Boston, Mass., this afternoon in a plane in which he and two companions hope to search the disaster scene.

Caught in a vicious nor'easter, with snow driving all about her, the rescue steamer Sagona, carrying 110 survivors from Horse Island, was caught fast in an ice jam. Her arrival here may be delayed indefinitely.

The sealer Sir William, companion ship of the Viking, ended her rescue efforts at the bottom of the bay. Stuck in a viselike ice grip, she became waterlogged, burst into flames and sank fifteen miles northeast of Horse Island, but her crew of 28 escaped in dories to the sealer Eagle.

After bucking the ice fields in the bay, a half dozen rescue vessels virtually abandoned hope of finding the 28 missing men from the Viking, including the Americans, Varick Frissell and A. G. Penrod, who went north to take sound pictures.

The belief grew that 27 perished when the ship exploded and burned. Tracks on the ice led to the fear the other missing men probably drowned.

Friends of Frissell and the others pinned their hopes on an unconfirmed radio message picked up by a Naugatuck, Conn., amateur radio operator. Yesterday the operator heard vague signals with the signature "Father J. Kerwan, Harbor Briton (Newfoundland) Station VP8L." Today he succeeded in raising what was apparently the same station and was informed:

"I told you yesterday Penrod and two Americans were O. K." A Halifax message said the station is 400 miles cross-country from Horse Island.

Father Kerwan, however, later denied he sent out the message attributed to him. In a message received here he said: "Deny report. Have no such information."

Harry Sargent, the third American on the Viking, already has been reported rescued.

Late today Capt. Abram Kean, of the Viking, and seven other men were still on bleak Horse Island. They were so weak they must be carried off on

SELF-GOVERNMENT LOOMS FOR ISLANDS

Policies of Administration May Be Altered After Hoover's Visit.

U. S. S. Arizona, March 20 (A.P.).—After President Hoover studies conditions in Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands it is possible the administration's policies there may be reshaped looking toward the evolution of complete self-government after a period of years, it was indicated today.

The President, who tonight passed the halfway mark on his vacation trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands, said, however that he was looking forward to a chance of visualizing conditions, but would refrain from any announcement of policies during his visit.

Some sentiment exists in high Government quarters that military jurisdiction eventually would prove less effective than civil. Dr. Paul M. Pearson, of Philadelphia, was inaugurated as civil governor of the Virgin Islands this week, replacing the naval administration previously existing there.

While no immediate change of policy is contemplated, the impression is given that Mr. Hoover's trip can be taken as presaging more direct attention to such questions.

Mr. Hoover said that on his present trip he is interested in touching only American soil and plans no speeches except in reply to official greetings in Porto Rico, where he is due Monday. After spending the night at San Juan he will continue to the Virgin Islands.

The President was in a jocular mood today as rough seas rocked the Arizona, at times causing waves to break over the quarterdeck. Asked if he was planning any fishing in southern waters, he replied:

"There is little chance of catching small fish on a big ship."

For the first time a message broadcast by Herbert Hoover, jr., from his radio station in North Carolina was picked up aboard the Arizona today. The reception was made difficult by a number of amateurs seeking to listen in on the broadcast.

Sunny weather was forecast for tomorrow, replacing the rainfall encountered today. The speed of the Arizona has been slightly increased. The President plans to inspect the crew tomorrow.

The President is sleeping much and enjoying a thorough rest on the voyage, and engages in occasional games of medicine ball with other members of the party. There was a mishap, however, when one of his Infanta Beatriz and Son of Prince of Orleans Linked in Report.

Madrid, March 20 (A.P.).—Well informed circles today said announcement soon would be made of the engagement of the Infanta Beatriz, oldest daughter of the King and Queen of Spain, to Antonio Alvaro de Orleans, second son of Prince Alfonso de Orleans and Princess Beatrice.

Beatriz is 21 years old and Antonio is 20. They are second cousins. The two have been seen together frequently and friends declare it is a real love match. The youth, like his father, is an aviation enthusiast and flies his own plane.

Reports are the king probably will confer the title of Infante on Antonio shortly and after a round of entertainments will officially announce the engagement.

SLEMP PLANS TO ENTERTAIN ESSAY ENVOYS

U. S. Official at Paris Fair Will Be Host to Capital Good-Will Pair.

HIGH SCHOOL PUPILS EAGER TO COMPETE

Many honors are in store for the Washington boy and girl who win the "envoy of friendship" contest now being conducted by the United States Flag Association, among which none can be ranked higher than their reception by C. Bascom Slemp, United States commissioner general to the International Colonial and Overseas Exposition, which will be in progress in Paris on their arrival there. Not only has the commissioner promised to welcome the American boys and girls to the exposition but has promised to have them attend the fair one day as guests of honor.

According to tentative plans, this special day will be known as "children's day" at the exposition, and it is expected that thousands of boys and girls from all parts of France will be present to welcome the Americans and join in the good-will mass meeting which, according to present plans, will be held at the American exhibit, with the replica of Mount Vernon, home of George Washington, which is now being constructed, as a background for the meeting.

Officials of the United States Flag Association feel that there could be no more fitting spot for such a meeting, where the children of America, standing in the shadow of the the replica of the home of the "Father of His Country," can extend greetings and friendly wishes of good-will to the children from the land of Lafayette.

Slemp Expresses Approval.

Commissioner Slemp yesterday expressed his approbation of the splendid, patriotic project to send these American "envoys of friendship" to England and France and his willingness to do anything in his power to promote their interests on the trip. Mr. Slemp said:

"As the American commissioner general to the International Colonial and Overseas Exposition which is to be held in Paris this coming summer and which will be in full progress when our young American envoys of friendship will be there, I shall be most happy to welcome them to the exposition and have them attend this wonderful fair some day during their stay as guests of honor. Knowing the French as I do, I am confident that not only Paris but the whole of France, America's traditional friend, will heartily receive these boys and girls who will cross the ocean to extend to the children of the land of Lafayette and Rochambeau greetings of friendship from the children of the country of Washington and Franklin."

600 CONVICTS HOWL IN NEWEST UPRISING

Prisoners Smash Glass in Cells and Set Fire to Mattresses.

Joliet, Ill., March 20 (U.P.).—The spirit of mutiny still sputtered in Illinois' two sprawling prisons here tonight, like the fuse to a cannon cracker which already had exploded.

A riotous uprising in one of the cheese box cell houses at the new Stateville penitentiary, still in a State of armed siege, brought soldiers, officials and a legislative committee on the run from the old prison 3 miles away.

About 600 prisoners in cell block "F" smashed the glass in their windows, battered their meager furniture, hurled chair legs and tin cans through their bars, and even set their mattresses afire.

So loud was their howling din that it was heard in the three other cell blocks nearby, even on the 35-foot walls surrounding the prison. Guards dropped their iron clubs for guns and troops trundled a machine gun into the cell house.

One Shot Is Fired.

The felons kept up their screaming and cursing in the face of the wave of uniformed soldiers and refused to be quieted until one shot was fired. Then they slumped to their bunks and interrupted the musty silence of the great building only with occasional catcalls.

When Warden Henry C. Hill and the legislative committee which had been investigating conditions and questioning inmates at the old prison, arrived, the disturbance was over.

The warden ordered four more men tossed into solitary confinement cells with about 30 others there since the riot and incendiary fire of Wednesday which ruined six buildings and threw the whole prison into chaos.

"I had been warned of impending trouble in this cell block," said the warden, "but I did not expect it until tonight. We will let the convicts sleep in the wreckage of their cells and will make no attempt to replace the mattresses which they burned."

Doesn't Blame Men.

Michael L. Igoe, member of the legislative investigating committee, said he "didn't blame these men for rioting after being on a bread and water diet for three days."

Deputy Warden Frank L. Whipp later announced that the menu hereafter would consist of bread, coffee, cheese and bologna until the kitchens and dining halls are rebuilt.

After the Stateville uprising had been quelled, the legislative committee continued its attempt to learn the cause for the unrest which has resulted in a series of riots and escape attempts in both prisons.

Warden Hill said he believed overcrowding, unjust laws and improper

6,050,000 Out of Jobs In U. S. Last January

Estimates of Secretary Lamont Issued Along With Special Unemployment Census in 19 Cities; Conditions Now Held Improved.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Lamont estimated yesterday 6,050,000 persons were unemployed in the United States last January.

Since that time, however, he said, indications have been received by the Labor Department and the President's emergency employment committee that conditions have improved.

The Commerce Secretary's statement was issued simultaneously with the Census Bureau's report on a special unemployment census in nineteen cities and its final unemployment report on the 1930 census.

The bureau found 2,429,062 persons out of jobs, able to work and looking for jobs, out of a total of 122,775,046 in April, 1930.

The special census takers found that in January, 1931, 1,930,666 were in the same class out of a total population of 20,638,981 in the nineteen cities. This was a gain of 149 per cent over the 775,865 enumerated in the same territory in April.

The Census Bureau did not attempt to interpret its figures for the January census, beyond stating that percentages used were based on total population instead of the number of gainful workers because the latter figures for all cities have not been completed.

The idle were divided into seven classes. It was the first class—those jobless, able to work and looking for work—that Secretary Lamont estimated.

The report said in the United States there were 758,585 persons laid off without pay last April; 172,661 jobless and unable to work; 273,588 having jobs but idle because of sickness; 87,988 not looking for work; 84,595 voluntarily idle without pay and 82,335 on vacation.

In the nineteen cities 138,572 were laid off without pay last April compared with 368,149 in January; 41,294 jobless and unable to work compared with 19,890 in January; 46,067 having jobs but ill on April against 24,811; 18,906 idle and not looking for work compared with 3,034; 12,905 voluntarily idle in April and 2,387 in January and 13,504 on vacation in April and 4,241 in January.

The January census showed the following number out of a job able to work and looking for a job in the nineteen cities covered:

Birmingham, 22,930; Boston, 69,682; Buffalo, 50,724; Chicago, 369,909; Cleveland, 99,233; Dayton, 17,681; Denver, 19,922; Detroit, 174,527; Duluth, 8,130; Houston, 29,163; Los Angeles, 98,130; Minneapolis, 35,158; New Orleans, 42,482; New York City Brooklyn, 205,192; Bronx, 97,414 and

"Rash and unwarranted insults were rewarded with two slaps upon the face."

He declined even monosyllabic further discussion.

Kassay Cries 'Frame-Up' as Federal Agents Reveal Scheme.

SABOTAGE INDICATED AGAINST OTHER CRAFT

Former Middle European Naval Officer Labeled as Communist.

Cleveland, March 20 (A.P.).—A gigantic sabotage plot to destroy the world's largest dirigible and numerous airplanes was believed to have been uncovered tonight as Department of Justice agents continued an investigation of the wrecking of a Navy bombing plane and an alleged scheme of a worker on the dirigible to freeze rivets ni the framework with water instead of hammering them in.

Paul F. Kassay, the suspected worker, was under arrest at Akron, Ohio, where the giant dirigible is under construction. He denied the accusations and said he was the victim of a frame-up.

Federal investigators said Kassay was a fanatic and they believed he had been planning to die in a crash of the dirigible, if necessary to accomplish his alleged purpose of destruction. They said he was a Communist, but officials of that party disclaimed him.

Intended to Freeze Rivets.

Harold Nathan, acting chief of the Bureau of Investigation at Washington, said Kassay's plan was to put rivets in the frame, but instead of hammering them into place, to wet the hole with water so the rivet would freeze. The deception would not be readily apparent because the ice would not show plainly against a background of duraluminum. The temperature in the hangar, where the Akron is being built, is ten degrees lower than the outside atmosphere.

Several others besides Kassay were probably being investigated, Nathan said, and added that further developments are to be expected.

Department of Justice agents said Kassay confessed the plot to destroy the dirigible, that he "had his own reasons" and refused to implicate others.

Most Formidable Ship.

The giant dirigible, named the Akron, is to be ready for its first trial flight early this summer. It is planned to be the world's most formidable fighting ship of the air and will be operated by the United States Navy.

Officials of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corporation, which is building the ship, and Navy inspectors said no damage had been done in the alleged plot to wreck it, and that no fears were felt for the future safety of the craft. Every part put into the construction is given double inspection, but had it gone out with rivets of frozen water, disaster would surely have overtaken it.

Department of Justice agents had been working on the alleged sabotage plot nearly six months before Kassay's arrest. It was the wreck of a bombing plane in San Diego, Calif., September 3, 1930, that started the probe.

Upper Wing Collapsed.

Pilot W. Y. Ypharraguerre was killed in that crash when an upper wing of his plane collapsed from a mysterious cause. His craft was one of eighteen delivered to the Navy in the spring of 1930 by the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation of Cleveland. Kassay had worked on them as an employe of the builders.

Subsequent investigation of the Navy pilot's death showed that at least two of the planes which had previously passed inspection were dangerously defective. Some one had weakened the wings so they eventually would have collapsed.

Suspicion of the agents began to center on Kassay. Meanwhile he had taken a new job in the dirigible construction. The Department of Justice agents put one of their operatives to Collision in Nearby Virginia Also Injures 10 Persons; Vehicles Wrecked.

Virginia authorities last night were attempting to fix the blame for the highway tragedy which yesterday killed three persons and injured ten when a southbound passenger bus and a giant produce truck collided on the Washington-Richmond boulevard, near Fort Humphreys.

Passengers were questioned by Dr. C. A. Ransom, coroner for Fairfax County, directing the investigation. The bus, belonging to the Great Eastern Stages Co., apparently struck the concrete wall of the bridge over Dogue Run, rebounding into the other vehicle, it was said. The left side of the bus was torn away for half its length.

The dead are Mrs. Ruth Dudley, 35 years old, of Newport News, Va.; Ray A. Morris, an electrician at the Portsmouth (Va.) Navy Yard, and Loyd Mitchell, a former Coast Guardsman, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mitchell was identified by L. A. Phillips, Coast Guard fingerprint expert.

John McCall, of 1114 Fourteenth street northwest, the driver of the bus, is in a local hospital suffering from lacerations, a broken arm and possible internal injuries. J. E. Lawrence, of Woodville, N. C., a passenger on the bus, was in a critical condition at the Alexandria Hospital.

Others suffering minor injuries were Sergt. J. C. Willoughby, Thirty-fourth Infantry, U. S. A., Fort Eustis, Va.; Mrs. Mabel M. McDaniel, Norfolk, Va.; Miss Louise Powell, Norfolk, Va.; Robert E. Hardcastle, Oakton, N. J.; W. W. Martin, Norfolk, Va., and John W. Shaw, Edenton, N. C.

LANGDON RELEASED IN STILL CASE TRIAL

Counsel's Plea to Suppress Evidence Because of Illegality Granted.

Former Policeman Robert F. Langdon, who gained much publicity through his connection with the murder of Beulah Limerick, was freed of a charge of possession of an unregistered still yesterday when Justice Oscar Luhring acted favorably on a motion by Langdon's counsel, Harry Whelan, to suppress the evidence in the case.

An indictment, in the hands of Assistant United States Attorney James Kirkland, was quickly nolle prossed and Langdon was freed of any connection with the charges contained in it.

The motion by Attorney Whelan to suppress the evidence was made on the basis that a wife has no authority to waive her husband's constitutional rights and permit the police to enter and search his home in his absence.

As the Government prepared to place witnesses on the stand, Justice Luhring interrupted the proceedings. "We may be able to avoid all that. Just outline the facts," he said.

That was done, and Justice Luhring immediately granted the defense attorney's claim that the evidence be suppressed because it was illegally taken.

The police contended that they went to the Langdon home, Oates street near Twelfth street northeast, January 7, and were given permission to enter the house by Mrs. Langdon. The still it was charged, was found in the basement, and was immediately placed under police custody.

Langdon was held in custody until a grand jury ignored charges against him and three others who were held in the Limerick case. Following his release he was brought before the Police Trial Board and dismissed.

Legalized Gambling Draws Huge Patronage in Nevada

Palaces of Chance Do Flourishing Business as Unrestrained Players Crowd Halls; Quick Divorce Law Shunted Into Background by New Statute.

Reno, Nev., March 20 (A.P.).—Reno, along with the rest of Nevada, went "Old West" today. In the flush of wide-open gambling the new 42-day divorce law was virtually forgotten.

At 10 a. m. the principal gambling hall in the heart of the city was thronged by hundreds who played or strolled about the roulette wheels, faro tables, mechanical dice throwing and other gambling games.

The hum and hubub of gambling, the clicky-clack of machines and the clatter of poker chips was partly drowned by the staccato noise of a compressed air drill operated by a construction crew engaged in cutting through massive stone, brick and mortar walls to enlarge the gaming room.

While waiting for the printers to turn out gambling license forms, the mere formality of official permission was dispensed with, hence no statistics were available regarding the number of permits which will be issued or the extent to which the city, county and State will profit in revenues.

The signing of the new gambling bill yesterday by Gov. Fred Balzar was the signal for augmented patronage of the gambling resorts rather than the inauguration of new ones for the statute merely makes legal what has been going on under nominal cover for years.

Throughout the night there was work beside him, and recently Kassay allegedly disclosed his plans.

Denies Both Accusations.

Kassay, described as a war time captain in the Austro-Hungarian navy, denied the accusation of intended sabotage and also denied the captaincy.

William J. McDermott, Cleveland, assistant United States district attorney, in whose office much of the investigation centered tonight, said Kassay engaged in Communist uprisings in Hungary after the war.

"We do not know exactly how extensive the airplane sabotage plot may have been," McDermott said, "nor just how far back of Kassay it goes."

Arraigned in Akron.

The technical charge against the suspect was violation of the Ohio statute of criminal syndicalism. He pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Akron today and was held for a preliminary hearing tomorrow. No bond was asked and none was granted.

(Associated Press.)

Word came from the Justice Department yesterday that its agents were seeking proof that Paul F. Kassay had tampered with a naval bombing plane before it crashed at San Diego when an upper wing collapsed in a suspicious manner.

Officials said additional charges "probably" would be brought against the Hungarian arrested Thursday and charged with planning to wreck the giant dirigible Akron.

Worked on Bomber.

Harold Nathan, acting chief of the Investigation Bureau, said it was already well established that Kassay had worked upon the bomber while it was under construction in the Great Lakes Aircraft Corporation plant at Cleveland.

He revealed the Justice Department had begun its sabotage investigation which resulted in Kassay's arrest after being approached by Navy intelligence officers. They had followed a trail from San Diego after the bomber had crashed, carrying to death Aviation Pilot W. Y. Ypharraguerre.

Meantime, announcement was made at the Navy Department that an inspection showed Kassay had omitted two rivets from one of the Akron's stabilizing fins.

Work Carefully Checked.

Officials said, however, that all the work done by the suspect had been carefully checked over and that "no anxiety is felt that any damage has been done."

Earlier Nathan disclosed details of the extensive inquiry that resulted in the arrest of the man described variously as a "Communist" and as a former captain in the Austro-Hungarian navy. Kassay has denied both titles.

It was said that suspicion was directed toward him before he left the Cleveland plant to obtain work on the big Navy dirigible at Akron and that he was watched almost constantly.

The acting investigating chief said that a Federal agent of Hungarian descent was placed in the Akron plant as a mechanic and worked beside the suspected man. He dropped various phrases which would be interpreted as indicating communistic leanings, sought Kassay's friendship and fraternized with him socially.

Meantime another agent was kept outside the plant, for general observation.

Scheme Is Revealed.

"Eventually Kassay showed our man all about his scheme," Nathan continued. "He was to take a rivet, place it in the hole in the frame and, instead of hammering it into place, would wet it with water so that the rivet would freeze fast in its socket.

"When the inspector came around to test the rivet he would find it apparently solid in the hole and pass it as fit."

Nathan said the agent had been told by Kassay the steel would remain solid as long as the big ship remained in the cool hangar, but would come loose when taken into warmer air outside.

"The rivets left in this way," he said, "were carefully chosen, so that they would result in certain disaster some time after the ship took to the air—depending upon the strain put on the frame in flight."

The Presidential party takes much interest in the fire drills of the sailors and marines and other activities aboard the ship. Mr. Hoover devotes much time to promenading the decks at a fast pace and reminiscing with his two Cabinet members, Ray Lyman Wilbur and Patrick J. Hurley.

(Associated Press.)

Mrs. Herbert Hoover has again demonstrated her independence of spirit and ability to cut red tape.

In selecting the President's Rapidan camp in the Blue Ridge Mountains for a midwinter outing instead of the sunny decks of theArizona, she showed the originality of action which has characterized her first two years as First Lady of the Land.

Accompanied by two women friends, Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, wife of the Secretary of the Interior, and Miss Susan Dyer, of Palo Alto, Calif., Mrs. Hoover went Thursday to the pine-scented solitude she loves soon after the President's departure on his Southern cruise.

It was like her to make a surprise journey into the mountains for the week-end instead of going to Asheville, as had been expected. She will return to Washington Monday to deliver a radio address to the Girl Scouts, after which she plans to go to Asheville to visit her convalescent son, Herbert Hoover, jr.

Ever since her girlhood days, when she rode a bicycle over Iowa roads, Mrs. Hoover has shown ability to map out her own recreations. A few years ago, while her husband was Secretary of Commerce, she motored from California to Washington, accompanied by a Filipino chauffeur and her father. She did much of the driving herself.

The woman was said to be resting easily and probably would not have to undergo a blood transfusion.

FISH CITES KASSAY IN ATTACK ON REDS

Representative Says That All Communists Should Be Deported by U. S.

Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, addressed a capacity audience in the auditorium of the Elks Home in Alexandria last night on communism. Tickets for the lecture were distributed through various patriotic and civic organizations of the city.

Representative Fish, who is chairman of the House committee which investigated communist activities last session, dwelt at length on the arrest of Paul F. Kassay for alleged threats to disable the Navy dirigible under construction at Akron, Ohio, and stated that the naturalization certificate of Kassay and all other Communists should be cancelled and such persons deported.

No Law Against Sabotage.

He said that there is at present no law against sabotage, and the only way in which this crime could be punished would be under the law governing destruction of Government property, which would hardly apply in this case since the dirigible had not been turned over to and accepted by the Government, hence, a mechanic who pulls a few bolts or rivets on a plane in a vital part before it is taken over by the Government is not committing a violation of a Federal law, even though the plane later cracks up.

Mr. Fish defined the difference between socialism and communism, and defended the rights of Socialists to their opinions while denying to Communists the right of their activities, which he said aim at the destruction of organized government, teach the doctrine of hatred, the abandonment of religion and the destruction of the home.

Cites Large Expenditures.

Communist headquarters in Moscow, he said, have been devoting considerable time and spending large sums of money in an effort to convert the Negroes of the United States, regarded as colonials, to communism, but he believes little progress is being made, or will be made in this direction, because of the deep inherent religion of the American Negro. Promises of racial and social equality, which are being freely made, will have little effect, he said, because the Negroes have become accustomed to such promises made them by both the Republican and Democratic parties prior to election, which have been discovered to mean little or nothing after election.

Mr. Fish advocates placing in the hands of the Department of Justice the power to investigate Communist activities, and the immediate canceling of certificates of naturalization, when such have been issued, and the deportation of Communists, forcing them to return to their native countries and to live under the "oppressive governments" which they escaped by coming to this country of their own accord.

DRYS OF 2 PARTIES OPPOSE ARID PLANK

Demand of Dr. C. T. Wilson for 1932 Platform Is Parried by Chiefs.

(United Press.)

Leading prohibitionists in both parties have frowned upon the demand of Dr. Clarence True Wilson of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals for unequivocal prohibition planks in the 1932 national platforms.

Those who are not in sympathy with Wilson's ideas on this issue include Senators William E. Borah (Republican), Idaho; Wesley Jones (Republican), Washington, and Thaddeus Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, all ardent prohibitionists. Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, coauthor of the eighteenth amendment, has declined to comment on the Wilson proposal for the present.

Jones, one of the sponsors of the "five and ten" law imposing drastic penalties for dry law violations, takes the view that prohibition is not a political question and should not be included specifically in a party platform. He and the others draw a distinction between the "law enforcement" planks which both parties have resorted to in the last two campaigns and an out and out declaration on the merits of prohibition itself.

Borah and Caraway feel that the adoption of an outright prohibition plank by their respective parties is highly unlikely and both indicated that they would oppose such a move on the ground that there is no occasion for it.

Other leaders here who have discussed the Wilson suggestion privately are also opposed to it. The prohibitionists among them take the view that for one party to espouse their side would open the way for the other party to draw upon antiprohibition sentiment in the opposition party.

This feeling is particularly manifest among the Republican prohibitionists, who will point out that their convention will probably precede the Democratic meeting and if the Republicans write in a bone-dry plank the Democrats will then have an opportunity to take a stand agreeable to the antiprohibition majorities in Eastern States normally Republican.

The appointment of Walter E. Kern, assistant to the electrical engineer of the District of Columbia, to succeed Warren B. Hadley, engineer, upon his retirement next fall, was urged in a resolution addressed to the District Commissioners by the Electric League last night. The resolution was presented to the third largest attendance registered at a league meeting in the last seven years and was unanimously adopted.

The subject of discussion at the meeting last night was electric refrigeration. Dr. A. R. Stevenson, jr., of the research department of the General Electric Co., and George W. Molster, manager of the refrigeration sales promotion division of the Westinghous Electric & Manufacturing Co., were the speakers.

Following the educational talks the league devoted its attention to a local program of market development for electric refrigerators. The plan calls for extensive advertising in 1931 and the goal has been set for 7,500 refrigerator sales during the year.

senior and junior, faced a busy day yesterday as the students lined up for application blanks. Through an inadvertence, application blanks failed to reach one of the Catholic schools, and the sister in charge, deeply agitated, called the United States Flag Association to ask them what could be done, as there were 75 children each carrying a copy of The Washington Post, storming her room, demanding application blanks in order that they could get an early start on the essay contest. She was quickly supplied with blanks, which were sent by special automobile messenger.

In spite of the definite instructions on the application blanks, a number of students called the office of the United States Flag Association yesterday seeking further instructions. Officials of the Flag Association again issued an appeal to the children, pointing out that there are thousands of students in the city and that the association could not possibly answer questions for all of them. They were asked to carefully read The Washington Post every morning, as this publication will carry complete details every day and any additional instructions that may be issued will first be published in The Post.

Students in every section of the city went to their high schools yesterday carrying copies of The Post. The essay contest seemed to have swept the city and to have aroused the interest not alone of students and teachers, but of parents as well, many of whom are making plans to see that their boys and girls do everything possible to win this contest.

In hundreds of homes last night pencils were flying, the boys writing about "The Typical American Boy" and the girls about "The Typical American Girl." Libraries were besieged for books which might have a bearing on this subject, and high school teachers were consulted throughout the day as to what steps might be taken to obtain useful information on these subjects.

Contest Closes March 31.

Those essays must be in the hands of the principals of the schools not later than March 31. A constantly growing group of volunteer teachers has arranged to grade the papers as fast as possible and from these papers one boy and one girl from each school will be selected. These in turn will meet at some central point on April 11 for an oral quiz and further tests, and the finals will be held on April 18 when the two Washington "envoys" will be named.

Every boy and girl who desires to compete for this wonderful trip should obtain an application blank today, as the time grows shorter daily.

The rewards are great. There is not a cent of expense attached to the contest in any particular, even a complete traveling wardrobe being furnished free. Expenses of the two "Envoys" selected here will be paid to the last penny and the trip will be one that will live forever in the hearts and minds of those that make it. In fact this visit of the "Envoys of Friendship" has such far-reaching possibilities that it may go down in history as one of the big events in the life of America, when the fruits of the visit begin to ripen a few years hence.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 14 and 18, if a student at a Washington public or private high school, senior or junior, is eligible to compete.

All possible information can be obtained by reading The Washington Post every day.

RHEEM TO REAPPEAR FOR QUIZZING TODAY

Trustees Ask Permission to Return Contents of Deposit Boxes.

Trustees of the bankrupt Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., ready to question at length Edmund D. Rheem, the firm's vice president, when he appears at a meeting of its creditors at 10 o'clock this morning in District Supreme Court, yesterday asked the court for permission to return to owners all promissory notes and contents of safety deposit boxes in the company's vaults.

The meeting has been called by Referee in Bankruptcy Fred J. Eden as the second of creditors, the first having been held last Saturday when Rheem was hissed by several creditors when he was sighted in the courtroom.

Michael M. Doyle, Henry P. Blair and Maj. Julius I. Peyser, elected trustees last Saturday, through their attorneys will seek to have Mr. Rheem reconcile present differences in figures existing between the report filed by lawyers of the bankrupt firm and the report of auditors representing the trustees.

Inasmuch as the manner of interrogation has not been decided, belief prevailed last night that the greater portion of this meeting will be occupied by the trustees and creditors in the various enterprises financed by the firm to arrive at a working arrangement for expeditious questioning of Mr. Rheem. Attorneys for the trustees, empowered to begin the quizzing, likely will not get far down the list of questions in the time allotted today. A continuation then will be ordered until next Saturday, it was stated.

Upon presentation yesterday of the motion for permission to return securities, the court set the hearing for 1:30 o'clock next Friday afternoon before Justice Jesse C. Adkins.

The trustees pointed out that approximately 100 petitions have been filed by individuals with the court asking it to allow the return of contents of their safety deposit boxes and that in addition hundreds of requests have been received from patrons of the firm.

U. S. PLANNING VISIT OF SIAMESE RULERS

Arrangements to Cover All Details of Stay Being Fully Worked Out.

(Associated Press.)

Arrangements to cover even the minute details in order that his visit to the United States might be conducted with the precision to which royalty is accustomed, were still in progress here yesterday for the forthcoming arrival of the ing of Siam.

For more than a month, the staff of the Siamese Legation and several officers of the protocol division of the State Department have devoted their time to preparations for the two or three months which the king, accompanied by his queen and a small official party, will spend in the United States.

Plans already have been made for the trip from Portal, N. D., where the four special cars carrying the king and his party will be turned over to the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway by the Canadian Pacific Railway the night of April 19.

The trip from Chicago to New York will be made with the king's private cars being run as a section of the Twentieth Century Limited. The king will be formally welcomed to the United States by a group of State Department officials, who will go to the frontier and join the train.

The king will be incognito, however, until the arrival in Washington when he is officially welcomed by President Hoover.

Legation and State Department officials are working on plans for ceremonies by Chicago officials during the few hours the king will stop there and a possible ceremony at Albany, N. Y., in which Gov. Roosevelt may participate.

The purpose of the king's trip is to have an operation to save his sight now rapidly failing because of a cataract. After the official visit to Washington April 28, 29 and 30, the king will go by automobile to Baltimore for a preliminary examination at Johns Hopkins. The operation will be performed after the return to New York.

The king will make his home at Ophir Hall, Purchase, N. Y., placed at his disposal by Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

PHILADELPHIA BANK HELD UP BY 11 MEN

14 Are Locked Behind Vault Gate as Robbers Grab $25,000 in Cash.

Philadelphia, March 20 (A.P.).—Eleven robbers carrying pump guns and revolvers held up the Elmwood avenue branch of the City National Bank & Trust Co. today, locked fourteen persons behind the iron grill gate in the bank vault, and escaped with between $25,000 and $30,000.

The holdup men drew up to the bank in four automobiles carrying New Jersey license tags, and quietly took positions inside, and kept engines running. Some of the others stood guard outside the bank and five or six went in, advancing with shotguns pointed at employes and customers.

Two of the robbers went directly to a policeman, Martin Kildorf, who had been assigned to duty at the bank because it was pay day for some employes of the General Electric Co. branch plant nearby, and to a private watchman, Alfred Rhodes.

Officer Overpowered.

Rhodes managed to raise his weapon to his shoulder, but before he could pull the trigger one of the robbers leaped at him, and another pinioned his arms from behind. The policeman did not have a chance to draw his pistol as another robber pressed a shotgun against him.

The policeman and watchman were disarmed and Horace Alexander, assistant cashier, was forced to stand with them. Then another bank employe was ordered to open the gate of the vault. The assistant cashier and officers were marched into the vault. Meanwhile other robbers had lined up other bank employes and six or seven customers and they, too, were marched into the vault. The gate was then locked. They were warned to keep quiet.

While the employes and others watched from behind the gate, the robbers gathered up all the money that could be found and backed out of the bank.

Two Persons Let In.

"Don't make a move or don't make any noise until we get out," one of them called. While the two robbers were working inside, their companions on guard outside allowed two persons to walk into the bank and they were forced to join the other prisoners behind the vault door.

Once outside the bank the robbers walked to their automobiles as though nothing had happened. They got into the cars, three small coupes and a sedan, and sped West, cutting in and out of traffic until they were lost from view.

Two or three minutes after they had gone another customer entered the bank and saw those imprisoned behind the gate. One of the employes told the customer where to find the key.

None Wears Mask.

Alexander told police the robbers were between 28 and 35 years old, were well dressed, and did not wear masks. An hour after the robbery a bank car delivered money to the bank to replace that which was stolen. Bank officials said the loss is covered by insurance and that business would go on as usual.

After the robbery police revealed they had kept the bank under a special guard until three days ago after a "tip" had been given them about three weeks ago that it was to be held up. A number of suspects were taken in custody during the time the guard was kept, but all had been released before the holdup today. Some of them were rounded up after the holdup, but none was identified by bank employes or customers.

The bank is situated in the extreme southwestern section of the city.

Bank Holdup Nets $10,000 to $20,000

6 Youthful Bandits Sought by Indiana Officers; Cashier Injured.

Evansville, Ind., March 20 (A.P.).—Southern Indiana was scoured tonight in a search for six bandits who escaped with between $10,000 and $20,000 in a robbery of the North Side State Bank here this afternoon.

Five of the men, all described as young and well dressed, entered the bank this afternoon and flashed revolvers in the faces of ten bank employes and three customers. Herman Folke, cashier, was struck over the head by the leader of the gang, who with three other robbers then herded the victims back of the cages and forced them to lie down. Folke said he pressed an alarm button before he was beaten.

After scooping up all money in the cash drawers and cages, the bandits started toward the vault, but the buzzing of the telephone switchboard caused the leader to order his companions to leave. An uncompleted telephone call caused the buzzing noise.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

VIRGINIA MUSIC FETE TO ATTRACT 10,000

Letters From Many States Indicative of Interest Shown in Festival.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 20.—Preparations for entertainment of 10,000 visitors from every State in the East at the first great Virginia music festival, are taking on gigantic proportions here and Vernon Kemp, secretary of the festival, has announced that it is assuming proportions greater than anyone has anticipated. Letters from every State in the East are being received from those who have heard of the festival

Officials of the Morning Music Club, one of the hosts of the Virginia Federation of Music Clubs, and the Virginia Music Teachers State Association, both of which bodies meet in connection with the festival, today announced the appointment of fifteen chairmen to arrange for the event, which is scheduled for April 14 to 17, inclusive.

Chairmen Are Listed.

Mrs. Arthur Fickencher is president of the club and Mrs. Laurence T. Royster is local chairman of the convention committee. Other chairmen include Mrs. T. M. Hill, Mrs. William R. Smithey, Mrs. R. G. Miller, Mrs. J. L. Manahan, Mrs. T. L. Watson, Mrs. E. A. Kincaid, Mrs. E. L. Johnson, Mrs. R. B. Bean, Mrs. W. E. Atkinson, Mrs. R. J. Borden, Mrs. Hugh McFarlane and Mrs. W. H. Sage, Miss Mary Smith, Miss Mildred Page and Miss Maida Hill.

Among the social events already announced for the festival are luncheons Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, given by the Morning Music Club, and a dinner at the University of Virginia April 15, at which Grace Kerns, internationally famous Norfolk soprano, and Harrison Christian, Lynchburg barytone, will be among the artists.

Many Reservations Made.

Some conception of the number of visitors expected is illustrated by the fact that Lynchburg is making reservations for 1,200 visitors to Charlottesville from the "Hill City." Lynchburg is bringing three choruses to the festival. They include the Elks Glee Club, a woman's chorus headed by Mrs. C. W. Gooch, and choruses from the Lynchburg colleges. All will unite with a score of other choruses in the singing of Schubert's Mass in E flat on April 16. A choral organization has been formed in Lynchburg and its officers include Mrs. Archer Summerson, chairman; Mrs. Bessie C. Collins, secretary; Mrs. Gustav A. Kluenter, director, and Miss Frances Allen, accompanist.

Mr. Kemp has been informed that 75 are making reservations to participate in the festival from Danville, that a like number will come from Norfolk, that William and Mary College has made reservations for 50, that 100 will come from Richmond, and that large groups will come from Clifton Forge, Fredericksburg, Hollins, Lexington, Staunton and other points.

BILL IN ANNAPOLIS TO END BLUE LAWS

Sweeping Measure Before House as State Liquor Act Is Introduced.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 20.—Fuel was added to the heat of the fight now being waged among Maryland lawmakers to lift the ancient Sunday law restrictions today when a new proposal was made to wipe all "blue laws" from the statute books. And on top of this came another measure that would place the State in the liquor control business. The scant two weeks of the biennial session now remaining promise to be lively.

Delegate C. Damer McKendrick, Baltimore City, sponsored the complete repeal of Sunday laws, and in presenting his measure said it was an answer to statements made by several county solons that they would vote for outright repeal rather than modification. The McKendrick bill, regarded as the most concerted attack on the Sunday laws ever attempted in a State legislative body, was brief and to the point.

Hope for Athletics Act.

The first of the series of bills directed against the Sunday laws, that by Speaker Michel, of the House, which is Statewide in scope, is now before the Senate, after having passed the House, and a second bill, fathered by Delegate Dalesandro, Baltimore City, designed exclusively for the exemption of Baltimore City, is in the House. Then Washington County succeeded in putting through the House a bill to permit baseball and other athletics during certain hours on Sunday. This measure appears to have a clear path for adoption.

Coupled with the bold liquor move, backers of the anti-Sunday blue law bills fear that they have jeopardized their chances by the action of the city delegation in joining yesterday to defeat the so-called "cow bill" by Delegate Heaps, of Harford County, which asked the State to bear part of the coats for tuberculin tests of cattle. This bill was a pet measure of most of the county delegations. It was reported today that several senators are chagrined over this action by the House, and they will return the compliment by opposing the Sunday law abrogation bills wanted by Baltimore City.

Like New York Rum Bill.

Entry of Maryland in the liquor business is embodied in a bill by Delegate Goodman, Baltimore City, which is drafted along much the same lines as one passed several days ago by the lower house of the New York Legislature. It provides for the State to assume rum control as a sovereign power, and not governed by the eighteenth amendment, which prohibits manufacture or sale of liquor by individuals or corporations.

The bill empowers the governor to appoint a liquor control commission to enter into the business in the name of the State, taking in all branches of manufacture, sale and distribution of alcoholic beverages. The commission would also investigate liquor control of other nations and regulations in force in the United States before national prohibition.

QUIZ BEGUN IN FATAL TRUCK-BUS COLLISION

hundro, of Richmond, suffered cuts, as did the driver, John Clements, of Ashland, Va., and his assistant, R. E. Sparks, of Ashland. The truck overturned after plunging over an embankment at one side of the road, littering the highway with crates of fresh eggs and chickens.

Dr. Ransom conducted an autopsy on the three dead, who were removed to an undertaking establishment in Alexandria. He said his verdict in the case will await questioning of McCall some time today. The bodies of Morris and Mrs. Dudley were to be shipped to their homes in Portsmouth and Newport News. Authorities succeeded in communicating with Mitchell's mother, but received no instructions as to disposition of the body.

Dr. Ransom said his finding in the case will hinge largely on questioning of John McCall, driver of the bus. He said he was unable to reach McCall yesterday, but will make another effort this morning. Representatives of the bus company said there is no secret about McCall's whereabouts—that he is at Emergency Hospital and will be available for questioning by the coroner today.

According to the Fairfax coroner, information volunteered by passengers and other witnesses indicate the front wheels of the truck, going north, were several feet over the northern line of the bridge when the bus, going south, started across it.

Two passengers, Mattie L. Hale, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Robert Nicholls, of Atlantic City, N. J., both colored, escaped injury in the crash.

E. W. Martell, of Philadelphia, Eastern superintendent for the Great Eastern Stages Co., and A. Chester Brown, regional manager with headquarters in Washington, made the following statement:

"After investigating the accident, the only thing we can say is that we absolutely absolve our driver of any blame, because we find that, on testimony of the passengers, the truck ran into the bus, and that the bus was more than half way across the bridge when struck by the truck."

TRINKLE ADVOCATES NEW ROAD BUILDING

Extension Urged as Step to Draw Shenandoah Tourist Trade.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., March 20.—The Shenandoah Valley Inc., a regional organization embracing the valley counties of Virginia and Berkeley and Jefferson Counties of West Virginia, at its seventh annual meeting here today, mapped plans to strengthen the association so that it may more effectively carry on its campaign of attracting tourists to this section of the two States. Representative citizens from Martinsburg to Roanoke attended the meeting.

Former Gov. E. Lee Trinkle, of Roanoke, one of the principal speakers, at the round table discussion of the valley problems, declared in a short address that he believes it would now be a policy for Virginia to abolish the eight road district system of distributing the road building funds in the State and to give the State Highway Commission a free rein in spending the construction funds on main roads and completing them sooner. He also expressed opposition to any reduction in the road building funds saying the time has not come when Virginia can afford to reduce its road taxes.

Addresses were also made by Joe Mitchell Chapple, of Boston, editor of the National Magazine; Chester Leasure, of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Frank L. Sublett, the first president of the organization; President Howard J. Benchoff, of the organization; Nelson Richards, director of the Apple Blossom Festival of Winchester; George N. Conrad, of Harrisonburg; A. T. Moore, of Staunton; W. W. Glass, of Winchester, and others.

It would cost $2,250 to send postcards to all the readers that can be reached any morning by Post Classified Ads.

The Goodman bill contains a clause declaring that passage and enactment of such a measure would be the best means for control of liquor and assure sobriety and temperance of people of Maryland.

The Senate adopted without change, the bill embodying Gov. Ritchie's budget of expenses for the fiscal years 1932 and 1933. The original and supplemental budget, the latter going along as an amendment, calls for a grand total of $72,432,599.81, to cover all expenses of the State government for the two periods.

That the Maryland Legislature appears willing to aid the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Electric Railroad, now in receivership, was indicated today when the Senate approved a favorable report granting tax exemption for two years instead of four. Reduction of the period was the only amendment to the measure, this course being adopted with the explanation that if additional aid is necessary two years hence it could be provided by the next Assembly.

CAPITAL POLICEMAN APPEALS SENTENCE

H. C. McDaniel Is Convicted on 3 Counts in Prince Georges Court.

Convicted of reckless driving, driving while drunk and carrying concealed weapons, Hiram C. McDaniel, Washington policeman, yesterday appealed from the sentence of the Prince Georges County Police Court. His bond was set at $2,000 pending hearing of his appeal.

Finding McDaniel guilty of all the three charges placed against him by Officer R. R. Brown, Judge J. Chew Sheriff fined the Washington man $100 for driving while drunk, $25 for the weapon and $2 for reckless driving. McDaniel, of Four-and-a-half street near D street southwest, was attached to the Fifth Precinct until he was suspended after his arrest in Maryland.

The policeman was arrested last Sunday after his car is alleged to have barely missed a Maryland police car and to have torn down a fence while swerving about the road.

V. Joseph Mulligan, of Fourth street northeast near V street, was fined $100 for driving while drunk. Orpin T. Whitney, of Twenty-fourth street northwest near M street, was fined $10 for reckless driving. Charges of driving while drunk, reckless driving and being drunk and disorderly on a highway were dismissed.

Charles C. Mayhew was fined $10 for being drunk and disorderly and $5 for assault and battery on Charles Radtke, of Piney Grove, Md. Charges that Radtke and Joseph Dant, of the same town, assaulted Mayhew were dismissed.

A bill providing for extension of the Lincoln Memorial Cemetery, a colored graveyard near Suitland, has been sent to the Prince Georges County delegation to the Legislature by S. Marvin Peach, attorney, of Hyattsville. The bill provides that the cemetery, which consists of 100 acres, shall be empowered to acquire 65 more acres.

According to Maryland law, 100 acres is the maximum amount that may be included in the limits of a cemetery. Stressing the fact that the present grounds have been improved and beautified, Mr. Peach says that he does not think there will be any opposition in the neighborhood to the extension.

Other bills affecting the county which have been introduced in the Legislature provide that judges of the county circuit court need not file written opinions and that the mayor and council of Mount Rainier may designate any justice of the peace in Chillum District as town police judge when the regular incumbent is ill or absent.

A speaker from the recent child health conference at the White House will attend the Prince Georges County Health Conference to be held at the University of Maryland April 7 under auspices of the County Federation of Women's Clubs. Others who will be present are representatives of the Maryland Tuberculosis Association and the president and chairman of the welfare committee of each of the 21 clubs in the federation.

The federation will join in the George Washington bicentennial celebration here next year, but the form of the federation's participation has not been decided upon. The decision may be made at the next meeting of the executive board, which will be on April 1, probably in Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church in Hyattsville. At this time delegates to the State federation meeting will be selected. The State federation will meet April 14 to 16 at the Lord Baltimore Hotel in Baltimore.

About 100 unemployed persons have been put to work by the Associated Charities of Hyattsville, according to a report by Judge Retta D. Morris, president of the body. In addition, nearly 2,000 garments have been distributed to needy persons.

Most of the jobs found for unemployed are at the Government farm at Beltsville, where there is enough work to last for several more months for all who are now at work. From these also a permanent force will be selected which will have steady employment. Judge Morris is hopeful that the State Roads Commission will be able to find jobs for some of the 100 persons now on the register of unemployed and that the advent of spring may also create a demand for workers in all lines.

Lieut. Tom Garrison last night denied reports that a plot to effect a jail delivery had been discovered in the Marlboro Jail. Newspapers yesterday carried a story that some of the prisoners had sawed a hole in the roof and were ready to make their escape.

SCHOOL SOIL STUDY IS FOUND VALUABLE

Virginia Director Declares Buyer Should Know of Types of Land.

Blacksburg, Va., March 20 (A.P.). G. W. Patterson, in charge of the soil survey work now under way in Virginia, said today that the basis of scientific and practical instruction in agricultural colleges and high schools is found in the study of the different kinds of soils. Also, he pointed out several other practical applications of soil survey.

"Since there are many different kinds of soil on a single farm, and frequently in a single field, the farmer can make use of a survey which tells him where and what the various types are. Different soils need different kinds and amounts of fertilizers, and lime; they must be managed differently, and they are likely better suited to some crops more than others," Mr. Patterson said.

Should Know Type of Soil.

"A person buying land should know what type of soil he is getting before he can know whether it will successfully produce the crops he expects to grow. On the other hand, a person selling land for agricultural purposes should be able to tell a prospective buyer what it is good for.

"The location of experiment stations so that experimental work can be done on the various types of soils is dependent on soil survey information. Chambers of commerce and others interested in developments will find it useful. Georgia found by its soil survey that it had large areas of soils that are the same as used for producing bright tobacco in Virginia and North Carolina, with the result that tobacco production in that State has risen in a few years from practically nothing to over 10,000,000 pounds.

"Steep areas and other soil boundaries suited primarily to forests shown by soil surveys and the native tree growth is described. There are large areas of land under cultivation which should be in forests, and information that may help to put these lands where they belong is needed.

Survey Furnishes Basis.

"A soil survey, in describing the different kinds of soils and particularly their peculiar characteristics, crop adaptation, productivity, and management problems, furnishes the only sound basis of valuation. Banks and loan companies may thus obtain valuable information on land values and usage. For instance, it is poor business to loan money for dairy farming on land not suited to dairying.

"Our recently created county boards of equalization," Mr. Patterson concluded, "will find these surveys of much value in equalizing land valuation for purposes of taxation. Representatives of fertilizer, lime, seed, farm machinery and other commercial companies should be able to serve better their farmer customers by using this information. Roads, frequently built entirely of soil, are always built on a soil foundation; and road engineers will find soil surveys valuable in locating roads and road materials in determining the kind of road to build."

HERMANN MUELLER EXPIRES IN BERLIN

Former German Chancellor Succumbs to Illness After Relapse.

Berlin, March 20 (A.P.).—Former Chancellor Hermann Mueller died late today.

He had been seriously ill for some time and today his physicians gave up hope for him.

He developed bronchial trouble during the past few days and inflammation of his lungs grew worse.

Several days ago he underwent an operation for gallstones.

Little known outside the confines of the reich until the revolution of 1918, Hermann Mueller was raised by that upheaval to a place of prominence in the new Germany.

It was he who signed the Versailles Treaty as one of the plenipotentiaries of defeated Germany, the first important act of an international character in which he figured.

He and Dr. Johannes Bell, the Centrist minister of colonies, made the fateful journey to Versailles as the chief representatives of the defeated nation and signed the document that sealed Germany's fate.

With the resignation of Chancellor Gustav Bauer after the Kapp putsch in March, 1920, Mueller was appointed chancellor, but held office only three months. The general elections in June necessitated the formation of a coalition ministry with Constantine Fehrenbach of the Catholic center as chancellor. Mueller's second term as chancellor began in June, 1928, when President von Hindenburg invited him to form a new cabinet to succeed the Marx-Stresemann government. In October of the same year Mueller attended the League of Nations Assembly as Germany's representative.

Hermann Mueller was born at Mannheim, Baden, May 18, 1876. His father, Jacob Mueller, conducted a small brewery. The family moved to Koetzschenbroda, near Dresden, and Hermann went to school at Dresden-Neustadt, but did not remain for his final examination. He married Fraulein Gottliebe Jaeger. They had two daughters, one of whom became a dentist and the other a lawyer. Two brothers of the chancellor settled in the United States, one in Brooklyn and the other in New Jersey. The latter subsequently returned to Berlin.

Cooper, Relief Worker, Has Had Colorful Career

Hollywood, Calif., March 20 (A.P.).—The organization of an airplane relief expedition into the ice fields off Newfoundland, by Merian Cooper to search for survivors of the sealing ship, Viking, marks another adventure in the life of a man who has sought the unusual from the battle fields of Europe to the recesses of the Far East.

Slight of build and wary of conversation, Cooper, in the few months he lived in Hollywood some years ago while completing two famous motion pictures, "Grass" and "Chang," became known familiarly as "one swell egg."

He was born in Jacksonville, Fla., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Cooper, live. After high school, he entered the Naval Academy at Annapolis, became a wrestling champion and left before graduating. The discipline irked Cooper's restless spirit.

In Newspaper Work.

In the few years preceding the war, he wandered from newspaper to newspaper in St. Louis, Minneapolis, New York and Des Moines. In the World War he became an aviator and on September 26, 1918, while flying a bomber over German lines, he was attacked by twelve planes and shot down. For three months he languished in a German prison camp and then, in an exchange of prisoners, returned to the Allied forces.

But the war ended without satisfying his appetite for excitement. He joined a Polish air squadron and fought the Russians. In 1929 he was shot down and thrown in a prison camp. An order to execute him was made, but ten hours before he was to be led before a firing squad he escaped with two Polish officers.

Headed for Far East.

It was not long, however, until he again was in the role of a soldier of fortune. Wars in China were raging and he headed for the Far East. In China he struck up an acquaintance with a party sailing around the world in a 90-foot yacht. Aboard, he became fast friends with Ernest B. Schoedsack, and while the craft was anchored off Arabia, undergoing repairs, the two conceived the idea that led to the filming of "Grass," a story of the fight of the Persians to obtain pastures for their cattle.

For a time motion pictures intrigued him and "Grass" was followed by a dangerous expedition to the interior of Indo-China, where "Chang," the famous picture of the life of an elephant of the jungle, was made.

Three years ago he returned from Hollywood to New York to become a business man in the field of his first love, aviation.

Siamese Royal Couple Solves Name Dilemma

(Associated Press.)

All the bother about how to pronounce the names of the king and queen of Siam has turned out to be useless.

Word was received yesterday that the royal couple will drop their titles and be known only as prince and princess. They are en route to the United States.

Their names are King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambaibhanj.

They are pronounced—well, that won't be necessary now!

ACCUSED IN SPANISH REBELLION ON TRIAL

Prosecution Cuts Demands for Terms; Pardons Are Rumored.

Madrid, March 20 (A.P.).—The prosecution tonight reduced its demands in the way of sentences for Don Niceto Alcala Zamora and the other civilian Republican leaders charged with participation in the December revolution. Their trial began before a supeme cout-martial here today.

Sentences of six months imprisonment, lowest allowed by law to persons charged with rebellion against the government, now appears to be the probable penalty which the court will impose on those who are convicted. In no case, it was indicated, was any sentence likely to be for more than a few years. The possibility that all the accused who may be convicted would be given a full pardon on the king's birthday, May 17, was also strongly rumored.

This afternoon the defense developed testimony purporting to show that some 90 army officers, none of whom has been arrested or accused, the then Cabinet Minister Rodriguez Viguri, and various other unnamed prominent persons, including the son of Gen. Burguete, presiding officer of the courtmartial, were Republicans and had been involved in the December revolution. There was no indication, however, that these assertions were to be pressed or that efforts would be made to punish the persons named in the testimony.

Great crowds of citizens thronged the streets before the trial began in a fruitless effort to secure seats in the small courtroom.

Victoria Kent, one of Spain's few women lawyers, appeared as counsel for Alvaro Albornoz, one of the accused.

Alcala Zamora, leader of the accused, has been for years one of Spain's ablest lawyer orators. He was formerly a monarchist and member of the Liberal party and served as a cabinet minister three times. He became the monarchy's bitter enemy, however, after what he believed was a political insult dealt him by the late dictator, Primo de Rivera.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS WILL VISIT FRANCE

War Department Is Planning to Transport 2,000 in Coming Summer.

(United Press.)

Two thousand gold star mothers will go to the graves of their dead soldier sons in France this summer.

The first group will sail from New York May 6. Thereafter the quartermaster general's office, War Department, will conduct successive parties through the summer.

Thirty-one hundred women accepted the War Department's invitations for the 1931 gold star pilgrimage. Eleven hundred have since changed their minds and decided to put off the trip until a later date.

This is about the same proportion who did the same thing last summer—approximately one-third. Acating on its first year's experience, the War Department figured that there would be about a 33 1-3 per cent reduction from the original approximation, and made arrangements accordingly.

The parties will be conducted on exactly the same schedule as last year. Everything possible will be done to provide for the safety and comfort of each individual.

Last year's total was 3,653, with a total cost of $2,586,727.69. Transportation cost 500.19 per person, medical expense $12.72 per person incidentals $6.88, and hotel bills $94.59. The balance covered salaries and office expenses, etc.

The total number eligible for the trip was 16,998. The pilgrimages will continue through 1932 and 1933.

Each party will spend two weeks in France, with three to five days at the war cemeteries. They will be taken in buses from Paris, their headquarters, to the war graves. At the larger cemeteries, like that in the Meuse-Argonne sector, the Government has built rest houses where the pilgrims may relax and have lunch.

Each cemetery group will be in charge of an officer, nurse and interpreter. They will be quartered in towns near the cemeteries, staying there for several days and visiting their sons' graves daily during that period, if they so desire.

Each successive year until 1933, the War Department will circularize every mother who is eligible and has not made the trip. She will be reminded that this opportunity is hers and that she may take advantage of it.

The War Department figured originally that only 6,100 of the 16,998 eligibles actually would go.

AMARYLLIS EXHIBIT TO BE OPENED TODAY

Eighteenth Annuall Show Is Expected to Attract Large Crowds.

The eighteenth annual amaryllis show of the Department of Agriculture in the greenhouses at Fourteenth street and Constitution avenue, will be open to the public at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Daily thereafter until the close Sunday night, March 29, the greenhouses will be open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

The flowers this year are believed to make up the finest collection of amaryllis ever assembled by the department. In numbers, such a showing of amaryllis as that made by the department is not attempted elsewhere in this country.

In all, there will be about 1,200 plants on display, each plant bearing from one to six flower stems, with from two to seven flowers on each stem. A number of the seedlings are flowering for the first time.

The bulbs now in flower are all hybrids, originated by the Bureau of Plant Industry, which has direct charge of the greenhouses. They are the result of the cross-pollination of twelve varieties imported from England in 1909.

One of the rarest of these hybrids is a pure white amaryllis produced in 1922 by the late E. M. Byrnes, then superintendent of the greenhouses, and father of the present superintendent, J. Wise Byrnes, who has continued the work of amaryllis breeding. Practically all amaryllis varieties are red or red streaked with white.

Preparations have been made by the greenhouse for handling even more than the usual big crowd comes to the shows each year. Among the visitors are flower-lovers and amaryllis growers from various sections of the country. Pupils of schools and seminaries here and members of the Washington Florist Club and many garden clubs in and around Washington are expected to attend.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, following an established custom, will be the hostess for the wives of the Cabinet members and other high officials at a special exhibition this morning before the show is opened to the public.

The department's first show of amaryllis was held in 1912. Since then there has been a show each year, with the exception of 1914 and 1915.

Man Lives After Plunge With Clothing Ablaze

Memphis, March 20 (A.P.).—The blazing body of J. T. Granger, 54, Bossier, La., drainage contractor, plunged from the third floor hotel window here today, crashed through a thin canopy and landed on a sidewalk.

Suffering from burns and fractures of the arm and hip, Granger was unconscious at a hospital twelve hours afterward and attendants feared he would die. No cause could be found for the blaze which enveloped his room and drove him to the window, more than 50 feet above the concrete walk. They expressed the opinion a cigarette may have ignited his bed clothing.

Removal of Body Is Litigation Cause

Husband Seeks to Transfer Remains of Wife to Another Cemetery.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 20.—The body of a wife and young mother which rests in Rose Hill Cemetery was the object of litigation in the Circuit Court today. John B. Wentling sought an injunction to restrain his mother-in-law, Mrs. Emma Tichnell, from interfering in his plans to remove the body of his wife from Rose Hill Cemetery to Hill Crest Burial Park. Mrs. Wentling died October 5 last in child birth.

It was testified that Wentling consented to burial of his wife's body in Rose Hill Cemetery. He was said to have been unemployed at the time and unable to make arrangements of his own.

The child died 30 days later and was buried in Hill Crest by Wentling, who now seeks to have his wife's body buried alongside that of their child.

PETITION PREPARED FOR VOTING RIGHTS

Arlington County Wants Its Resident U. S. Workers to Be Civic Aids.

The special committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation, appointed to study plans whereby the Federal employes of the county may have a voice in the selection of candidates for local offices only, last night continued the preparation of a petition to be filed with the United States Civil Service Commission within the next week.

It was pointed out that Arlington County, smallest in the State and the second smallest in the United States, with an area of 24 square miles, having a population of 26,000, has approximately 25 per cent of its total voting population employed by the Government.

Chairman McGrath stressed the right of the Federal employe to take part in local affairs only. No effort is being made to permit Federal employes to take active part in State or national politics.

Letters of indorsement to the move from Representative Howard W. Smith, former Representative R. Walton Moore, State Senator Frank L. Bell, Delegate Hugh Reid, county officials and the county chairmen of both Democratic and Republican committees will be sought to accompany the petition, with a full ist of all Federal employes who live in the county.

ITALY'S WAGE CUTS HIT MIDDLE CLASS

White-Collar Folk Feel Still More Turnover Tax on Commodities.

Rome, March 20 (A.P.).—Mussolini's orders of last fall, cutting wages and living costs, have proved no boon to the "white collar" men of Italy.

Economists calculate that the measures have transformed government deficits into surpluses and opened up possibilities for added Italian exports that may slash the traditional adverse balance of trade.

The experts also have figured that reductions in living costs have about equaled the cuts in the wage scales of the masses; but those who subsist on salaries have had no such compensation for the decreased incomes.

Living Costs Lowered.

The Duce made a cut in public pay rolls that averaged 10 per cent, so that figure was adopted by the government as a required reduction in rent, bread, macaroni, cheap clothing and other things for which the masses spend their money.

The government could enforce this because of the close government control of business under Fascism. Merchants who balked at the enforced bargain sales had their stores closed for varying periods and their names published.

The cut in government pay rolls was necessitated by a deficit of around $50,000,000 in the first half of the fiscal year. The savings from this on the second half of the year amount to only about three-fourths of that sum, so other steps were needed.

Very quietly, therefore, Mussolini raised the business turnover tax from a half of 1 per cent to 1½ per cent. This was figured to produce $40,000,000, but estimates now show it will bring in around $65,000,000 and result in a year-end surplus.

Still Pay Old Prices.

Right here is where the "white collar" men find the source of their woes. They buy a better class of goods than the masses and must still pay last autumn's prices. In addition there is the increased turnover tax, which as usual is passed on to the consumer.

Moreover, that tax is cumulative. Sometimes it is imposed eight or ten times on an article which passes through many intermediaries before reaching the user.

Search Extended For Missing Fliers

Hope Almost Abandoned for Two Parties in Area of Philippines.

Manila, March 20 (A.P.).—Army and Navy airplanes and surface craft extended their search today for three American fliers feared dead in the China Sea and Pacific Ocean.

The most optimistic were losing hope Glenn W. Brophy, of Los Angeles; P. A. Diekoff, representative of a New York business house, and William Scott, of Manila, would be found alive. Brophy has been missing two days on a flight from Macao, Chinese coast.

Diekhoff and Scott were practically given up as lost. Missing since March 9 when they began a two-hour flight from Surigao, northern Mindanao Island, to Davao, its southeast port, it would be thought almost miraculous if they succeeded in saving themselves on the mountainous eastern shore. A pontoon of their plane found in the ocean seemed to tell their story.

MONTGOMERY JURY LAUDS POLICE FORCE

Asserts Absence of Serious Cases Due to Efficiency of Law Officers.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 8103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Attributing the almost remarkable lack of serious cases in the county since the last term to the efficiency of the county police, the Montgomery County grand jury yesterday presented its report to Judge Robert B. Peter, in Circuit Court at Rockville, together with 23 indictments.

Probably the most important indictments returned were those charging Charles E. Adkins, William Anderson Steelman, Jimmette Gold O'Brian and Willie Wiggs with robbery, assault to rob, simple assault and receiving stolen goods. The quartet is alleged to have held up the Bethesda Pharmacy with force of arms and to have robbed Dr. Charles Scherer, the pharmacist in charge, of approximately $60. They were captured through the prompt action of Building Inspector Fred Imirie and County Policeman Robert Howes, within twelve hours of the time of the hold-up. All four pleaded guilty when arraigned in Circuit Court yesterday afternoon.

"We especially commend the chief of police, Mr. Moxley, and the force under him, for their efficiency and ability in bringing offenders against the laws to justice. It is our opinion that to the efficiency of the force is due, more than anything else, the small number of cases presented to the grand jury," the report reads.

The grand jury further recommended that the problem of dealing with petty larceny cases should be presented to the proposed constitutional convention, authorized by the last election, when called by the governor, in an effort to have this type of cases tried in Police Court without grand jury action. Most of the larceny cases presented were small affairs. The grand jury decrees that it believes all thefts below the sum of $25 should be tried in Police Court.

The inquisitorial body investigated 26 cases and returned indictments in 23, having examined 123 witnesses. Conditions in the county jail were reported to be as well as could be expected under present conditions, and the courthouse was reported to be overcrowded and an inadequate protection for the valuable records of the county. A new courthouse and jail is being constructed, which will correct these faults. The county buildings at Bethesda and Silver Spring were reported to be in first-class condition.

The county almshouse was found to be clean, sanitary and well kept, with five white women, thirteen white men and five colored men as occupants. Commissioner Lacy Shaw and Supt. Nicholson were commended for their attention to the institution.

H. Worthington Talbott, of Rockville, was foreman of the body, which was dismissed by Judge Peter, subject to call if the need arises.

The following indictments were returned:

Lawrence Duffin, larceny, receiving stolen goods; Albert L. Steward, and Lewis Brown, housebreaking, larceny, receiving stolen goods; Kline Shelton, bastardy; Ernest C. Ricketts, Norman F. Ricketts, and Ernest Lee Randall, larceny and receiving stolen goods; William A. Dorsey, housebreaking and larceny; Alfred Harding, larceny; Everett Chandler and Maxwell Cave, robbery, assault to rob, simple assault and receiving stolen goods; Thomas A. Mobley, larceny, unauthorized use of motor vehicle; Carrie Murphy, larceny; Clarence Held, forgery; Arthur Doye, Kenneth Johnson, Robert E. Warfield, Charles Sims, alias Tanny King, housebreaking and larceny.

Henry Tyler, larceny; Kenneth Browning, jr., larceny; James Sylvester Stewart, larceny; William Johnson and Robert Pressey, larceny and receiving stolen goods; James M. Ford, larceny; Edward E. Barrett, larceny, housebreaking and larceny; Charles E. Adkins, William Anderson Steelman, Jimmette Gold O'Brian and Willie Erceldean Wiggs, robbery, assault to rob, simple assault, receiving stolen goods; Robert Taylor and John Thornton, forgery; Christopher Columbus Campbell, and William Lehue, housebreaking and larceny; and John Stewart McAllister, larceny and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

WORKERS TO START ON MEMORIAL UNIT

Immediate Construction of Heating System at Alexandria Is Set.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The work of erecting a boiler house for the George Washington National Masonic Memorial Temple, which is now under construction on Shooters Hill, will be started immediatley. A permit for the work was granted by the city council Thursday.

The boiler house will be 50 feet deep, fronting on Duke street, and will be of brick, two stories in height. Several years ago the memorial association purchased the West End School Building from the City of Alexandria, intending to convert this building into a boiler house. The plans have been changed, however, and the school building ultimately will be razed. Since its purchase by the memorial association the building has been loaned to the city for school purposes.

The permit also provides for a tunnel approximately 700 feet long to convey heat to the $5,000,000 temple, the exterior work of which is completed, and which is about ready to have the heating plant installed.

The formal decree naming receivers for the Wardman Mortgage & Discount Corporation was entered yesterday in the Corporation Court, Judge William P. Woolls presiding. The suit was filed by minority stockholders and is styled "Robert B. Smythe and others against Wardman Mortgage & Discount Corporation, Defendants."

The decree reads, in part: "And the court doth further deny the application and prayer of the complainants to cancel 24,995 shares of common stock of said corporation heretofore issued to Harry Wardman, Thomas F. Bones, and or James D. Hobbs, or any part thereof."

Gardner L. Boothe, of Alexandria, and Harry A. L. Baker, of Washington, were recently appointed receivers by Judge Woolls, and the court at the same time appointed Harry F. Kennedy, of Alexandria, and Norman Fischer, of Washington, attorneys for the receivers.

A number of Alexandrians last night attended a meeting in the corporation court room to hear details regarding the new zoning ordinance proposed for Alexandria. Irving Root, engineer for the zoning commission, explained the provisions of the proposed ordinance, and illustrated his explanation with maps.

The annual inspection of Old Dominion Commandery, Knights Templar, was held last night in the Masonic Temple on Cameron street, by Eminent Sir William Moseley Brown. Refreshments were served after the inspection.

The funeral of Mrs. Ruth McKenney, who died on Thursday at her home at Hunter's Station, Fairfax County, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Cunningham's funeral home, 809 Cameron street, conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Union Cemetery.

Bishop Deplores Finding of Council

Practice Viewed as Wrong by Catholics, Says Dr. J. J. Dunn.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The pronouncement on birth control by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America was deprecated today in a statement by the Right Rev. John J. Dunn, Auxiliary Bishop of New York.

"The essential difference between the Catholic teaching * * * and that contained in the statement of the federal council," he said, "is that according to the former, contraception is intrinsically wrong, wrong in itself, and therefore can be justified by no set of circumstances whatever. * * *

"As a citizen of a country and a State that I love, I deprecate a pronouncement lending aid and comfort to forces that will accelerate the downward trend in a population already in a virtual decline."

EUROPE ENLARGING BID FOR TRAVELERS

Fares Are Being Arranged to Obtain Dollars of Americans.

Paris, March 20 (A.P.).—The value of the tourist purse in reducing the red side of the balance on European trade ledgers is getting new recognition.

Continental European governments constantly are adding to the official travel lures of their countries, and the latest move in this direction has come from the new Balkan conference, made up of Greece, Turkey, Albania, Roumania, Bulgaria and Jugoslavia.

These six governments have established a joint agency to study "tourism."

Those "Invisible Imports."

Switzerland, the "nation of hotel keepers," and France, always on the lookout for tourist money, have long been in the van of this activity.

Now Portugal has started an elaborate system of training hotel and restaurant staffs and has taken measures to make her hotels modern and keep them so.

The United States Department of Commerce is credited with having impressed this viewpoint on Europe.

It has been insisting for some time that when trade relations are discussed the balance in favor of America should be modified by taking into account the "invisible European exports" represented by millions of dollars which American travelers annually leave on this side of the Atlantic.

France has a federal commissioner of tourism, the office having been established by the Tardieu cabinet. It is being maintained by the Laval government.

French Lines Modernize.

As part of the national campaign the French State Railways, which serve Atlantic ports, have undertaken a big program of improvements.

The system has ordered 20 heavy locomotives and 50 steel passenger cars. Half the coaches are to be fitted with kitchens, and the first of the new equipment is to be put into use in July, in the midst of the tourist season.

The lines from Paris to Havre and to Cherbourg are getting new rails and new ballast, and this work, too, will be completed by July. New stations are going up at both ports, and a new terminal is to be constructed in Paris within a few years.

Last but not least, on the railway program is a shortening of running time between the capital and the coast. Trains are to make the run from Havre in two hours and a half and from Cherbourg in four hours and fifteen minutes.

REFORM IN SCHOOL BUDGET IS SOUGHT

Elimination of Excessive Detail Is One of Aims of Conference.

A reformation of school budget items was aimed at in a conference yesterday between Frank W. Ballou, Maj. Daniel J. Donovan and F. J. Bailey, assistant director of the budget.

The conferees hope to frame new terms and more concise phraseology which would eliminate much of the excessive detail now carried in the District, as it is sent through the Commissioners, the Budget Bureau and Congress.

Other conferences will be held on the matter, and it is hoped to decide upon the new terms by next Friday when the finance committee of the Board of Education meets to consider the requests made Monday night at a joint conference of school officials and citizens' representatives for school-building improvements.

At that meeting the first work of framing the school estimates for the 1933 budget will be undertaken.

U. S. Tax Colections Far Ahead in Virginia

Richmond, Va., March 20 (A.P.).—Calling attention to a 35 per cent increase of Federal income tax collections in Virginia this year as compared with those up to the same time last year, officials of the Internal Revenue Department office here said today that the Virginia district is almost unique in the Nation in this respect.

While elsewhere effects of business depression are shown in decreased collections, the office here has a total of $5,550,105.73 payable this year on 1930 incomes as compared with $4,-094,210.14 collected last year on 1929 returns.

Sprinklers Used for Orange Trees.

Redlands, Calif., March 20 (A.P.).—Unusual overhead irrigation systems are being used in citrus groves of this district. Sprinklers have been placed in one 45-year-old Valencia orange grove and the water is lifted to the tops of the tall sprinklers by means of a booster pump from a well on the farm. THE ARREST AT AKRON.

Since last summer the Navy Department and the Department of Justice have had reason to suspect that plans were on foot to sabotage airplanes and the great dirigible airship Akron. An individual came under suspicion while he was at work in a Cleveland airplane factory, when one of its planes crashed mysteriously at San Diego. It was impossible to obtain sufficient evidence of criminality at that time, and he was permitted to transfer his work to the airship hangar at Akron, where he has been under surveillance. His arrest is an assurance that the Federal agents have finally obtained evidence that warrants his prosecution.

This man, Paul F. Kassay, is a naturalized citizen, and is said to be a Hungarian. He is a skilled mechanic. The Washington authorities are convinced that he is a Communist and that he has been working in concert with other Communists. It is intimated that other arrests are pending.

An instant denial is made by the Communists that Kassay is one of them, and at the same time the threadbare assertion is made that the Federal agents have "framed" Kassay for the purpose of discrediting Communism. Information on this point ought to be brought out in Kassay's examination and trial. The Government's tolerance of Communist activities in many directions does not lend color to the charge that it has concocted a plot to connect the Communists with a conspiracy to destroy the lives of American airmen. The probabilities are that much more devilry is carried on than the Federal agents can detect, and that the acts are part of a Communist conspiracy.

The mischief charged to Kassay seems to have been discovered in time to prevent damage to the Akron. Since he has been under close watch for months, it is improbable that the great airship has been sabotaged. Naturally, suspicions are aroused as to the cause of air tragedies which have never been explained. Exaggerated notions of country-wide Communist plots are fostered whenever a suspect is arrested. Nevertheless, the circumstances already disclosed are such as to warrant the belief that a deadly enemy is at work, hoping to destroy American airplanes and airships and to kill off the best of American fliers and air navigators.

PROTECTION OF GAME BIRDS.

Good sportsmen are good sports as well, and will cheerfully cooperate to uphold the new regulations to shorten the game season. Others must be made to obey them. One of the results of the unprecedented drought has been to restrict greatly the properly protected breeding, resting and feeding places for migratory birds.

Hunters in all parts of the country will be affected by the new rules, which will shorten the season on ducks, geese, jacksnipe, &c., by fifteen days. The seasons will start in the Northern parts of the country fifteen days later, and in the South will close fifteen days earlier. These changes will prohibit the shooting of migratory game birds in all States during September.

The amended regulations issued by the Department of Agriculture and approved by the President were ordered after an investigation throughout the country by the Biological Survey had revealed the urgent need for this added protection. It is but one more evidence of the widespread troubles that have come in the wake of the long dry spell. Even the swift-winged travelers need protection, when the loss of verdant retreats leaves them easy prey to both human and animal hunters.

Miss Patricia Morton, of Winchester, England, has been invited to become "Queen Shenandoah" at the annual apple blossom festival at Winchester, Va. It is a happy thought to select a lovely girl from old Winchester to preside over the festivities attending the famous celebration in the Valley of Virginia. Miss Morton will enjoy a unique experience, and her reign, though brief, will be glorious; and who knows what romance may blossom with the apple blossoms? Virginia's cavaliers will be unworthy of their sires if they permit this beauteous English girl to return home with an unfluttering heart. The rule of eternal fitness requires that, after she has captured many a heart, she should be captured in turn, and remain the New World.

The apple blossom festival of Winchester is one of the rarely beautiful pageants of America, and is acquiring new attractions every year. It bids fair to become renowned for the clustering of the fairest daughters of this country, with Virginia's delightsome girls in the center of the nosegay. Nature smiles upon this spontaneous springtime gathering in the midst of millions of apple blossoms, and the heart of age is warmed at the spectacle of youth and merriment in masquerade. By maintaining pure standards and classic traditions, while rigidly excluding the features that mar the vulgar parades of "bathing beauties," the apple blossom festival has become a powerful magnet of popular attraction. The people of many States will visit Winchester this year to enjoy the pageant and to do honor to the fair maid of England.

EXCESSIVE DEBT PAYMENTS.

Transactions at the Treasury this week have left the Government with a deficit of more than $735,000,000. In spite of a large deficit already accumulated, the Treasury was required to add $326,660,000 to the sinking fund for reduction of the national debt. In effect the Tresaury merely robbed Peter to pay Paul.

Regardless of decreasing revenue the Treasury must go on paying hundreds of millions each year on the public debt. Congress has refused to change the arbitrary arrangement under which the sinking fund is filled even if the Government has to borrow money to do it. The public can not understand why these payments must be made when the Treasury does not have sufficient funds to carry on governmental activities.

As a result of paying $391,660,000 into the sinking fund and an orgy of spending authorized by Congress the Government faces a huge deficit at the end of the year. It is estimated that receipts may fall $800,000,000 below expenditures. Preliminary figures from the March payment of income taxes indicate a sharp decline in revenue due to the business depression. If these gloomy predictions come true, an increase in taxes next winter seems inevitable.

The wisdom of paying unnecessarily large sums on the public debt when the Government and the people are in financial difficulties is open to serious question. In past years when business was good and large surpluses were available for that purpose, the debt was reduced rapidly. The American people have contributed nearly $1,000,000,000 per year to the sinking fund, in addition to large sums for interest. The debt has been reduced much faster than the law calls for without undue hardships upon taxpayers. Now, when the Government has been forced to spend millions for relief programs and revenue has been reduced, payments to the sinking fund should be reduced or suspended.

In the fiscal year 1930 the Government paid $1,397,020,431 on account of the national debt, including interest and payments on the principal. This amounts to 33.4 per cent of the entire budget. At the close of the year the Treasury had a surplus of $183,789,214. Instead of carrying that over to meet an expected deficit in 1931, the Treasury applied that also to reduction of the public debt.

Nothing could be gained by raising taxes to maintain these enormous debt payments. The country needs lower rather than higher taxes. If an additional burden is placed upon business and industry their recovery will undoubtedly be retarded. Advantages to be gained from rapid liquidation of the public debt do not warrant higher taxes.

The total of the debt owed by the United States has been trimmed down until it is not greatly in excess of the combined debts owed by Europe to this Government. When the two debts are equalized the Government will no longer be justified in taxing its people for debt retirement. In the meantime common sense suggests that the percentage of the budget which goes into the sinking fund be drastically reduced to avoid the impending tax increase.

MISLEADING OIL PROPAGANDA.

No controversy in recent years has brought forth more misleading statements and deceptive propaganda than that in regard to restriction of oil imports. Producers who are demanding an embargo or a tariff on oil failed to move Congress, and are now attempting to win the sympathy of the public by misleading propaganda.

Unless the flood of foreign oil is stopped, they say, thousands of Americans will be thrown out of work, 300,000 producing wells will be forced to close down, and the United States will lose vast quantities of oil. In the light of facts supplied by various Government departments and brought to light in several congressional investigations not one of these statements can be sustained.

The question of unemployment eliminates itself. No one would think of employing men to cut down the country's forests regardless of the market for lumber, just because the men were in need of employment. If it were merely a question of employment, it would be better to set men at work filling up the sea than drawing out superfluous petroleum from a limited supply that must last the country for all time.

The claim that 300,000 wells will be ruined if imports are not curtailed is, according to the best information available, untrue. It may be admitted that some wells will be closed until the demand is sufficient to make their operation profitable. But, says the Bureau of Mines, "to suppose that all of those wells will be ruined if they are not operated is misinformation based upon lack of engineering knowledge regarding the flow of oil and water through sands and unfamiliarity with the experience of certain areas where water migration has been definitely controlled." The bureau has found that in many cases where production has been "shut in" for a relatively long period the yield actually becomes greater than it was before the well was closed. In view of the rapid improvement of drilling processes it is probable that only an infinitesimal amount of oil will be lost as a result of "shutting in" unprofitable wells.

Propaganda to the effect that the domestic industry is overwhelmed with foreign oil is equally false. Since 1932 imports have decreased 25,000,000 barrels. Last year imports were reduced 8,000,000 barrels. On the other hand, domestic production is about double what it was ten years ago. The United States is exporting 50 per cent more oil than it imports. This country furnishes six out of every ten barrels consumed by the world.

The so-called collapse of oil prices is also a myth. Babson's statistics show that farm products fell nearly 40 per cent in price last year. The average price of raw materials declined 12.6 per cent, but the price of oil dropped only 8 per cent. All other industries have curtailed to meet depression conditions. The independent oil producers refuse to curtail. They demand that imports be reduced, in spite of the fact that the United States is using up its domestic supply many times faster than any other nation.

The most surprising thing about the whole situation is that the Federal Oil Conservation Board should have reversed its position and taken steps to nullify conservation by seeking to cut off imports. Apparently there is a mixture of politics with Western oil. No one can deny that foreign oil imports help to eke out the domestic supply.

ANOTHER BUS TRAGEDY.

Conditions responsible for the bus accident on the Washington-Richmond highway demand attention. Two huge vehicles, one a truck and the other a bus, collided on a narrow bridge, killing three bus passengers and injuring many others. Apparently both vehicles were traveling at a high rate of speed. Each had a clearance of one foot between the concrete abutment and the other vehicle.

Several bus accidents have occurred on this highway. Apparently the road is not wide enough at all places to allow huge buses to operate with safety, and certainly not at the high rates of speed at which they usually travel. Unless something is done to widen the highway and bridges or restrict the operation of buses the public can expect fatal accidents in the future.

The question of bus control is involved. Some competent body ought to be able to pass upon the safety of operating buses over congested and narrow highways. It may not be possible to restrict bus traffic on all narrow roads, but at least regulations as to size and speed could be set up. Until the question of bus regulation is settled the operators of passenger vehicles ought to provide more stringent safety rules of their own.

Primarily this accident and thousands of others like it in all parts of the country was due in part to engineering stupidity. It has been a general custom until very recent years to build bridges narrower than highways. To offset this negligence signs of warning are set up. But in emergencies signs are ineffective. Drivers fail to make allowance for the "narrow bridge," and serious casualties result.

Instead of being narrower than the road, bridges with concrete sidewalls ought to be wider, to provide an extra margin of safety. It would be interesting to know what portion of the Nation's heavy accident toll is due to engineering blunders.

U. S. RADIO BLOTS CANADA

From the London Times.

Broadcasting may prove to be a powerful agency for peace. Listeners in one country who care to pick up the programs of another may come to have a better—and, it may be hoped, a more sympathetic—appreciation of their neighbors. But the wireless has also given the nations new occasions for rivalry. Each must defend its own interests and yet make concessions in the interests of the others. And when wave-lengths have been amicably allocated, so that no one country can shout down another and each may enjoy the fullest benefit without interfering with the enjoyment of listeners elsewhere, another adjustment remains to be made. Fair use must be made of the opportunity to address foreign peoples. Propaganda must be avoided. The European countries—thanks to friendly consultation through the international body at Geneva over which Admiral Carpendale presides—have been able to accommodate their rival interests satisfactorily. Canada, as our Ottawa correspondent makes clear, is not so fortunate.

The Dominion is altogether overpowered by her big neighbor, the United States. In the allocation of wave-lengths she has not been too generously treated. But this, like the interference and reception caused by Mexico, is comparatively a minor difficulty. What is serious is the dependence of the Canadian listener on American programs. Canada has her own stations, but they are relatively small and their service can not compete on anything like equal terms with the service provided by the rich American organizations. American programs, therefore, hold the air. Americans supply her films and dominate her theater; and now, to too large an extent, they influence her by wireless.

Here is a cultural conflict where the weaker party is seriously handicapped. Canadian nationalism is a genuine growth, and it can flourish without a complete and unnatural rejection of American influences; but clearly the continued submission to a preponderating broadcasting service from the United States is not in the national interest. Moreover, it is not advisable commercially, for the American service is maintained by the subventions of firms that advertise, and night after night Canada is listening to advertisements of American goods, to the detriment of her own manufacturers.

In these circumstances it is not remarkable that there is strong popular support for a national service somewhat on the lines of the system provided by the British Broadcasting Corporation, as recommended by the royal commission under Sir John Aird. The scheme has its opponents, chiefly in the Province of Quebec. And here again there is a cultural conflict, for the opposition in Quebec springs from the fear that French-Canadian opinions would not receive adequate consideration under the proposed system. The government of Quebec intend, indeed, to test before the supreme court in Ottawa the question of the province's right to control its own broadcasting. That, however, is an issue between the dominion and provincial governments. It does not affect the main question of the effect of American broadcasting on Canadian thought.

A NOTE FOR PACIFISTS.

Here is an incident for pacifists to mull over. As ornaments to the court of honor at the great palace of the French Kings at Versailles there have stood for some time statutes of sixteen great Frenchmen, says the New Orleans Times-Picayune, these marbles having been removed from their original station on the bridge of La Concorde, in the center of Paris. They were found out of harmony with that place and removed to Versailles, but were not more in place in the Le Notre gardens of the Mansard chateau. So, recently it was decided that the sixteen be scattered throughout France, each figure being sent to his native section. That is to say, twelve were thus to be exiled to more or less remote places, but four were to be retained as truly national possessions and given permanent stalls at the great Saint-Cyr Military School. And all four of these were famous military men, namely, Du Guesclin, of the fourteenth century; Bayard, of the fifteenth century, and Conde and Turenne, of the seventeenth century. Statesmen, literateurs, artists and theologians would do well enough back home in their own provinces.

GRATITUDE.

"A thousand thanks to you," he said.
And went his way.
Another who had begged for bread
Had naught to say.

He took the gift without a word,
Risked seeming rude,
As if he'd neither thought nor heard
Of gratitude.

Two men befriended turned away
And journeyed on;
One had a thousand thanks to say,
The other none.

Of him who glibly spoke, no more
Was seen or known;
The other, ere the year was o'er,
Repaid the loan.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY dear Louise: In school and out you must, at times, come face to face with the question of evolution, and I want you to see the facts clearly before you become a partisan in the controversy and lose the ability to think without bias.

In the first place, I want you to understand that the theory of evolution—the theory that all living things developed from lower forms of life—can be entirely sound without in any way compromising the one exception—man.

Neither Darwin, commonly accepted as the discoverer of evolution, nor any other scientist of equal integrity, has ever asserted as a fact that man developed from a lower animal.

Men of science wonder and search for evidence, but they find no proof that man ever was anything other than man, and without proof they make no assertions. Only the pseudo-scientists know things without evidence to support their knowledge.

There is ample evidence, however, to support the theory that other living things—plants and insects, as well as animals—adjust themselves to changing conditions in the effort to survive and thus in the course of ages become wholly unlike their ancestors.

That kind of development can be observed even within the lifetime of one man, so the truth of it is no longer debatable.

We know the vegetation, humidity and temperature of the earth have changed greatly since giant ferns were buried to make coal, and we can believe that animals changed to keep pace with changing conditions—or became extinct because they didn't change.

But common sense tells us that these changes did not occur by chance. They occurred in accordance with the same eternal laws that governed the processes of nature from the beginning.

In other words, the same God who created the universe rules it still.

Many people think the theory of evolution, if accepted, would prove that all creation developed by itself, without a guiding hand. If God created the world, they say, He finished the job once for all.

But that obviously isn't true. Creation isn't in the past tense. God is creating the world now—ever changing and developing it, as natural laws—His laws—continue to function in the evolution that means growth.

The whole scheme of the universe is one of growth—a continued evolution to reach an ultimate perfection, as the planted acorn develops at last into a giant oak, and creation will continue long ages after we are gone.

What man's place in the scheme may be, no man knows. How and when man came here remains a mystery. I prefer to believe that he came much as he is now.

Creating him, you think, would be a big job; but would it be a bigger job than creating a lower animal, a bit of protoplasm or a germ of life in a drop of water?

If God could create the sun, moon and stars, why question His ability to create anything less?

I think man has gone backward in many instances. You see that happen in two generations. But I think he is going forward as a race, and when at last fully created will be the image of his Creator. Love, DAD.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Crooked Politics.

New York Times.

There is no better way of indicating this creeping disintegration of parties than to look at the statement which Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, made at Miami Beach this week. He definitely pronounced against forming a third party, because such a thing is not at all necessary, in his opinion. The reason he gives is very simple. There is, he believes, a vast amount of discontent and unrest which voters would like to express at the polls. But he warns them away from trying to do it "in a presidential vote." What they must do is to expend their strength in "election of representatives who find that their constituencies agree with their thought and support their independent action in Congress."

Thus is revealed, unwittingly, it may be, the plan of the progressives and radicals further to bring government by party into weakness and contempt. They will blithely call themselves Democrats or Republicans, as the case may be; get themselves elected on a regular party ticket, and then snap their fingers gayly at the party leaders. We saw a lot of this in the last Congress.

Opening the Campaign.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Looking at the list of speeches the President is scheduled to deliver during the coming three months, it may be safely assumed that he is ready to open his campaign for renomination and reelection in 1932. A committee has already been formed for the express purpose of "selling President Hoover to the country," so it may be said the campaign is now under way.

The variety of the occasions upon which the President is to speak affords him opportunity to discuss a wide range of issues, and in these addresses he no doubt will set forth the outlines of the platform he expects to stand on as he seeks renomination.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Case for the Unprofitable Oil Wells Set Forth by Citizen Who Is Willing to Help by Paying More for Gasoline.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Just to put you straight on a few facts is my only reason for this letter, as I'm not interested in oil wells, but like to see a fair deal given to any one. Do you know there are some 300,000 oil wells in this country that produce from one to five barrels daily, and are the stabilizing factor in our oil supply? These wells are what is known as "settled production," that is, they will continue to produce at nearly that rate for several years. However, these wells are also "pumpers," which means that they must raise the oil by machinery, working 24 hours every day, as the gas pressure is gone. If they are taken off production, even for a short period, they are done for all time because of water encroachment.

Now to get back to unlimited production and importation: If they are not controlled in some manner, and the present flood of oil continues, the price of crude is forced below the cost of production for all wells except those flush ones with heavy gas pressure to raise the oil; then these small settled wells—and all of them reach that category in time—must be killed, as no man or company will continue to work them at a loss.

That condition exists now, and if something is not done for relief, and that soon, then we will see about 1,000,000 barrels daily production lost for good. Would you call any action that forced the above condition conservation?

If the American public realized the facts, I've no doubt, the big majority would favor some real constructive action, even to paying a bit more for one of the cheapest of present day necessities. As a whole the better class of our citizens are a pretty fair and sporting lot.

As I said before, I'm not interested in oil in any way except to burn it. I just happened to know a few facts you evidently did not, and am willing, for one, to pay a cent or two more a gallon for what I use if it will help out. C. B. WESCOTT.

Summer Training Camps Offer Splendid Advantages to Young Men, Free of All Charges.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Parents can not too strongly urge upon their sons the importance of grasping the opportunity to enjoy a novel vacation, at the expense of the Government and without subsequent obligation to themselves. The summer training camps offer a 30-day experience such as can be secured nowhere else, entirely free of all expense, railroad fare to and from the camp, a complete outfit of clothing for the period, with laundry service; three meals a day of excellent food—as much as he wants—with regular hours for work and play, study and sleep.

His instructors are men of standing in culture and refinement, who are interested to have every boy come out better than he went in, physically, mentally and morally, and, withal, a better citizen, for he is learning the value of our form of Government as compared with others and the advantages to individual initiative where church and state are held apart.

The importance and the recognition of law and obedience thereto is stressed, so that the presence of authority is viewed as necessary to the developing citizen, and, becoming accustomed to it the behavior of refractory men is looked upon as against the common good, so that punitive methods employed to restore order are welcomed by every deserving person.

Theory and practice are here, for what is studied in class is demonstrated, on occasion, and because these camps are the only schools in the country where these things are taught at all, the opportunity should not be overlooked by any boy who has passed the seventeenth anniversary of his birth, and his parents should be alert—wide awake—on this subject, if he is not.

Beside all this, this experience has a forward look, so that should the nation need, at some future time, to quickly muster an army, men who have had such training would naturally be called to fill the quota of needed officers, as they were in the World War. A boy from a military school who could conduct a guard mount was quickly called to the handling of bodies of troops. Meantime the country is being buttressed by a citizenship of unrivaled quality. Come on, boys! Get your applications in before the lists are closed.

Vita-Minute Messages make sales at the Breakfast Table

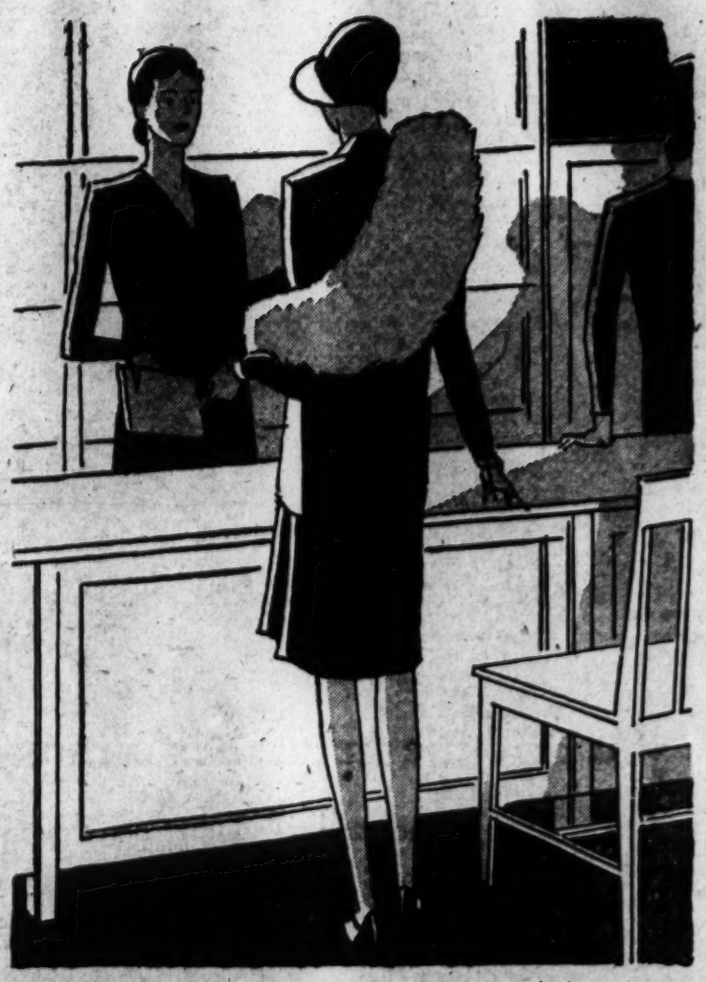
"SNAP judgment" may have fallen into disrepute in the world of business—but it still is the method by which nearly all personal buying plans and expenditures are decided. During the few short minutes of the breakfast hour you make your plans for the day, solve your personal problems, and decide on many important personal purchases. And it works!

But, why shouldn't it? These first waking hours are the Vita-Minute hours—when the mind, refreshed by a good night's sleep, functions most quickly and accurately. The hurry and distraction of business affairs have not yet taken the edge off its keenness. Decisions made then prove sound, and mental impressions received are lasting.



That is why sales messages presented at the breakfast table—during the Vita-Minutes of the day—produce the highest returns in actual sales. And it also is why national advertisers and local merchants, alike, select The Post to carry their sales messages to the rich Washington territory.

The Post reaches its readers during the Vita-Minutes. It "sits in" on the daily purchasing decisions of the families that do most of the buying in Washington stores. (That's fact, not estimate.) And its reading extends into the surrounding prosperous counties.

To make your advertisements Vita-Minute Messages, place them in The Post.

REPORTS AS HELPS TO CHARITIES URGED

Misses Bowling and Terrett Advocate Preparing Annual Data.

Annual reports as a means of keeping board members and others interested in the work of social work organizations were advocated by Miss Gertrude H. Bowling, director of the Instructive Visiting Nurses Society, and Miss Mildred Terrett, general secretary of the Juvenile Protective Association, in a discussion on the value of annual reports to social work organizations held yesterday at the meeting of the Community Chest Publicity Council at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest. Because of the excellence of their annual reports, Miss Bowling and Miss Terrett were selected to lead in this discussion.

J. A. Dayton, director of the Bureau of Rehabilitation, said that some forms of annual reports must of necessity carry a history of the work of the organization which could be continued from year to year in order that persons taking an interest in this work could learn at first hand the entire proceedings from the time of the founding of the organization.

William J. Plunkert, of the Community Chest staff, told of a means of obtaining reader interest in the annual report in Los Angeles, Calif., through attaching, by permission of the Chest, a card explaining that the organization was allowed to take dollar memberships. He said that the Travelers Aid Society in Los Angeles got as high as 6,000 new members annually through this method.

Walter S. Ufford, general secretary of Associated Charities, said that it would hardly be practicable for Washington organizations to use this method, as the people here would resent being asked for money again after the organization received funds from the Chest.

Consensus of opinion, as developed at the meeting, was that the report should be concise and couched in the simplest words.

Ernest S. Johnston, chairman of the publicity council, presided at the meeting.

FOX

"CHARLIE CHAN CARRIES ON." Fox picturization of the story by Earl Derr Biggers, featuring Warner Oland, supported by Marguerite Churchill, John Garrick, Warren Hymer and Marjorie White. Screen play and dialogue by Philip Klein and Barry Connors; directed by Hamilton McFadden. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Bob Considine.

Charlie Chan, the portly Chinese-Honolulan who has walked his immaculate way through a dozen Saturday Evening Post stories by Earl Derr Biggers—and a welcome relief he is, in a world whose crime ferreters are tall, dark gentlemen who never mix a metaphor or slice an infinitive—tracks down one of the most elusive culprits of modern fiction this week at the Fox: tracks him down with that same flowery language and inexorable skill which go to make Charlie about the best in the Scotland Yard business.

Here's a story with teeth in it, which loses none of its major thrills in being transplanted to the screen. The action centers in one of those "Dr. So-and-So's personally conducted tours around the world." A strange combination of people make up the party. There is, for instance, a wealthy old philanthropist and his granddaughter; a retired Chicago racketeer, his moll, and the whole long list of sneaky servants, frigid butlers, young men whose hands shake when questioned, cripples who run like Charlie Paddock when the occasion arises, shots in the dark, screams in the fog and knives in the back.

It's hard to go wrong with this eried and trusted combination of effects. When one mixes this potpourri well, and sifts in an even bucketful of murders, the cake is usually bound to turn out well. And this one does.

The greatest tribute might, perhaps, be paid the picture by stating that this reviewer heard only two people say "I knew it was him," after Chan had got his man. Usually the percentage is much higher than that.

Warner Oland, with his heavy eyes, lends a Celestial charm to a story that is at times pretty revolting. Added to the salve of Oland's presence, there is a more than average love story mixed in the proceedings, in which Marguerite Churchill and John Garrick carry off honors galore.

On the stage Chief Shunatona leads his well-trained United States Indian Band into the major amount of the spotlight. Brass predominates in this band of full blooded Indians, but tempered to a degree of excellence rarely heard among such organizations. The Chief himself cuts a caper or two in the role of leader. And before locking myself in a safe deposit vault, it may be reported that the chief renders a number about the good old scalp-lifting days in the foggiest baritone ever let loose upon a defenseless audience.

Aiding the presentation in no small way is Bella Donna and Brengk's Golden Horse, who perform strikingly conceived "statues" garbed in a coating of gilt. The finale is a flash act showing a covered wagon, mounted on a treadmill, attempting a getaway from a band of firing and ki-yi'ing Redskins. Quite a wallop!

Rounding out this interesting bill is a good edition of the Movietone News, a reissue of "The Curse of Dope," a tear-jerker of 1906 that is a scream; Bob Hamilton, the new organist, giving a demonstration of the number of musical instruments concealed in his Wurlitzer, and that which makes the Fox noteworthy in some respect each week—Brusiloff and his music.

Thief Glad He Was Caught.

Reno, Nev., March 21 (U.P.).—When Arthur Risch, ranch hand, was arrested for stealing $415 from his employer, James Hash, his only remark was, "I'm glad I got caught."

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

AMERICAN Indians representing eight different tribes are apt to be encountered anywhere on the streets of the Capital this week. Many of them, along with the springtime hordes of their pale-face brothers, are making again those glamorous sightseeing tours into the delights of which they were initially inducted two years ago this month. In addition to seeing a great deal, they are also being seen, for they are at the Fox Theater for the current week, in all the primitive glory of their feathered headdresses and gaudy blankets, as the United States Indian Band—the same one that marched in that rain-soaked parade and played at the inauguration of President Hoover and Vice President Curtis on March 4, 1929.

In addition to clinging to their native costumes, more than a few of the boys are sticking to their native names, among them Coolana Eagle, Deep Water, Ross Guard, Long Time Sleep, Laughing Wind, Roaring Thunder, Charging Buffalo, Blue Cloud Boy, Tall Pine, White Deer and Swearing Green.

That last lad, I take it, is a golf bug!

Speaking of golf, Johnny Farrell is on the screen at the RKO-Keith Theater this week in one of his short-reel expositions of how to play the game and for the first time in the history of picturized champs surrenders more than half of his footage to the drives, bunker shots and putts of a couple of fair companions.

This is a break for everybody but those who are seriously studying the ancient Scottish pastime, because these charming young women evidently were sold the idea that they were out there modeling socks instead of socking model drives—if you know what I mean.

Dispatches still hot from the smoking typewriter of Dr. Frank La Falce, of the Warner Brothers' local oices, convey the breathless information that James J. Majorell, the handsome new assistant to Manager Harry E. Lohmeyer, of the Earle, used to be a newspaper man himself. This serves perfectly to dierentiate him not one whit from practically every one else in show business, but it is, nevertheless, insisted that Mr. Majorell worked on several of his Philadelphia hometown, thistledown newses before venturing into the theatrical field as press agent for a string of theaters in Newark, N. J. He also did press work for several musical stars. His local assignment is his rst position in a theater.

The current release of the Pathe News—and possibly all the other newsreels, too, for all I know to the contrary—is bringing the horror of the S. S. Viking disaster vividly to the consciousness of Washington picture patrons by presenting an intimate description of the ill-fated craft and its history by Capt. Bob Bartlett, comrade of the late Admiral Peary and a famous Arctic explorer on his own, who succeeded his father in command of the Viking some years ago. It was not so long ago that Bartlett contributed a series of articles to this august family journal, chronicling his experiences.

In the course of his remarks, Capt. Bob makes it plain just what it means to be marooned on an ice oe that is cracking up. Precisely what the survivors of the explosion encountered is relatively demonstrated, and if you enjoy wallowing on all fours in icy water and half-frozen slush with a bobbing ice cake for a foundation, it comes under the head of pleasure!

Having only within the last day or so gotten around to the agreeable task of viewing "Trader Horn," at the National, I shall now make so bold as to hazard the opinion that it is a better picture than it has locally been given credit for being in print. The fable of the white goddess of the blackest jungles may be laid on a bit thick, but in point of exotic content, the element of surprise, number of thrills and beauty of photography it seems to me that the "Trader" is considerably in advance of the vast majority of folms in its field. Judging from the capacity attendance at its closing performances, this is a fact that somehow must have leaked out!

Even with "Trader Horn" closing its fortnight's run with two screenings tomorrow, we are not yet at the end of these jungle pictures. Over at the Rialto, "Rango" is just now getting under way. It is reliably reported that Ernest Schoedsack, the producer, waited fourteen days to get exactly the close-up he wanted of the youngster of the Sumatra jungle from whom the film derives its name. This was due to the fact that in the Malay Peninsula both the sun and the ourang-outangs are tricky.

But so was Schoedsack.

On page 3 of the March issue of the National Press Building News, I note a considerable article devoted to Mr. Carbin Shield, former manager of the RKO-Keith Theater here, who now serves as manager in the Washington territory for the Ross Federal Service Corporation.

For those both in and out of the industry who, like myself, have never quite understood what the R. F. S. C. was all about, Mr. Shield will be permitted to speak for himself:

"There is a growing practice in the movie field for producers to expend huge sums in the production of large and expensive pictures. These producers, in effect, say to the exhibitors that they are taking a big gamble in producing this picture and that it can be exhibited only on a percentage basis. PROSECUTION SEEKS ACCUSER OF CAPONE

State Finds It Is Helpless to Proceed in Absence of Specific Charges.

Chicago, March 20 (A.P.).—A policeman who knows something about, preferably against, Alphonse Capone is wanted. Until he is found the State can not proceed to prosecute the gang chief for vagrancy.

An amended complaint was offered by the State today, accusing him of neglecting "his legitimate calling," failing to provide for his family, and sundry offenses which taken together were regarded as vagrancy by the prosecutors. Attorney Michael Ahern rose in protest.

"Capone has never been convicted of a crime in Illinois," he said, "and the State does not specify what calling he neglected, how he failed to provide for his family, or what gaming houses, tippling shops or railroad stations he frequents."

Judge Frank M. Padden called for the police officer who signed the complaint, but Officer Roy Van Herik admitted he had no personal knowledge of Capone to contribute.

"Continued," said the judge, "until April 4. Find a police officer who knows something about Capone."

In Federal Court the Elder Capone, Ralph, appeared on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition act in operating the Cotton and Montmartre Clubs in Cicero. With eleven others he pleaded not guilty, and the trial was set for May 11. Four more did not appear for arraignment and three others have not been apprehended.

New Orleance, March 20 (U.P.).—medal will be awarded to the greatest animal hero by the Latham Foundation for Promotion of Humane Education during the "be kind to animals week" here April 13. Any animal that has performed an act of heroism will be eligible.

Commission Ends Lumber Hearing

Opponents of 50 Per Cent Increase in Duty Are Witnesses.

(Associated Press.)

Hearings were concluded yesterday in the tariff commission's investigation into production costs of softwood lumber which was ordered by the Senate.

The final session was taken up largely with testimony by opponents to the 50 per cent increase in the present duty of $1 a thousand feet, proposed by the West Coast Lumbermen's Association.

J. H. Bloedel, of Seattle, operating in British Columbia and Washington State, was the principal witness. He contended the lumbermen's problems would not be solved by a higher tariff, and said there was ample reason far o lowered duty. The commission granted 30 days for filing briefs by interested parties.

AMERICANS CHEER GANDHI AT PRAYER

Indians Startled by Loud Voices of Tourists Hailing Leader.

New Delhi, India, March 20 (A.P.). A large group of American tourists from the steamer Belgenland tonight cheered lustily for Mahatma Gandhi in the midst of his regular open-air prayers. Later they besieged him for autographs and photographs. Thousands of native Indians who were kneeling during the prayers of their "holy man" were startled out of their pious mood by the sudden outburst of applause of the Americans at a purely religious gathering. The little Nationalist leader, however, maintained his usual composure and only smiled and bowed in acknowledgment of the cheers.

Some of the American tourists participated in the prayers, but none went so far as to squat cross-legged on the bare earth as Gandhi and his followers did. At the mahatma's orders cushioned chairs were brought for them.

Scarcely had the prayers ended when the bolder of the visitors stormed the unperturbed leader for autographs and photographs. This led to lively repartee.

"You might as well ask me for a lock of my hair," Gandhi replied. "I haven't any."

"When are you coming to America?" asked Mrs. Hattie Belle Johnston, of New York.

"After India has her independence," Gandhi said.

"How long will that take?"

"Oh, perhaps not so long as it took America to get her freedom," was the mahatma's quick reply.

As the scrawny leader disappeared into his tent in his scant loincloth and khaddair the Americans gave him another rousing cheer and voted him a "good fellow."

LEGALIZED GAMBLING IN NEVADA POPULAR

in progress in a single downtown establishment three faro games, three "21" games, two crap games and a well-patronized "chuck a luck" table.

Dozens of the so-called "speakeasy" establishments, where divorcees and others play in an atmosphere of seclusion and a measure of "exclusiveness," enjoyed generous patronage.

As the nocturnal players dwindled away others took their places. All the principal establishments operate 24 hours a day.

Paper currency of both large and small denominations, huge stacks of silver dollars and halves and columns of red, white and blue poker chips littered the tables.

Dealers and croupiers, wearing green eye shades, work in eight-hour shifts, tossing about or raking in small fortunes during a shift.

Viewing the operation of one of the crowded games, Mayor E. E. Roberts, picturesque survivor of the old days, gave his ideas of how a city should be run.

"It's all nonsense trying to regulate people's morals by law. For eight years I've been trying to make Reno a place where everybody can do what they please—just so they don't interfere with other people's rights.

"Now we can do lawfully what Nevada has always done under cover.

"No, I don't think it will increase revenues much. This city had been deriving about $35,000 a year from card games.

"Of course, it wasn't lawful to gamble for high stakes. We just assessed them so much per table for playing cards. We never asked them what kind of games they were playing—just took their word for it that the games were within the law.

"Guess Nevada is about the only free State left. Seems funny people will let a lot of long-haired reformers take their liberties away from them.

"I expect to get a lot of roasting. Well, the more they roast me, the better I'll like it.

"But the boys have got to run these games on the square!"

Mary Ball and Her Great Son.

A very human account of Washington's mother, containing much hitherto unpublished matter and illustrated by rare pictures, will be found in The Washington Post Sunday Magazine for next Sunday. Among them is the authentic portrait of Mary Ball and one of Washington, painted for the Alexandria Lodge of Masons, which shows him as worshipful master of his lodge.

LIGHTHOUSE SLAYING THEORY IS DROPPED

Keeper Died From Natural Causes, Coroner Says in His Verdict.

Baltimore, Md., March 20 (A.P.).—A theory that Ulman Owens, keeper of the lonely Holland Bar lighthouse in the Chesapeake Bay, was slain by rumrunners was abandoned today by two Department of Justice agents who investigated his death.

Owen's body was exhumed yesterday and the vital organs were brought to Baltimore by the agents, B. E. Sackett and J. L. Geragherty, for an autopsy.

Though Owens was found with his quarters in the lighthouse in disorder, blood on the floor and walls and the place apparently ransacked, a coroner returned a verdict of death from natural causes, and the agents said following a conference with District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff that they took no stock in the foul play theory.

Owens' body was discovered when residents of Crisfield, missing the beam from his lonely post, 12 miles at sea, Saturday night, went out to investigate.

The Crisfield coroner decided that Owens had been seized with a heart attack or an insane fit.

U. S. Consul Scalded in Bath.

Well Beam Falls And Hurts Man

Leonard Federline, Unity, Md., Is in Critcal Condition Here.

Leonard Federline, 46, of Unity, Md., was critically injured yesterday when a timber beam fell from the wall of a well in which he was working and struck him on the head. The injured man and his brother were at the bottom of a 40-foot well on the property of the brother, Louis Federline, near Travilah, Md., when the accident occurred.

The beam was used as a support for a form in which the concrete lining of the well was being hardened. The cause of its fall was not known.

The brother climbed from the well and ran to the store of Mrs. Nellie Foley, nearby, where he found several men who helped him to pull the injured man from the well. Mr. Federline was placed in the ambulance of Warner E. Pumphrey, Rockville undertaker, and taken to Emergency Hospital in Washington. Physicians at the hospital reported that his skull had been fractured and that his condition was critical.

HILL AVERS JOLIET HAS WHISKY, DRUGS

decisions by the State Parole Board were responsible for all the convict discontent.

"Whisky is being distilled and drunk in the prison," Warden Hill told the investigating committee. "Narcotics are being smuggled in. There are some crooked guards who are responsible."

Comments on Preacher.

The warden then commented upon the recent resignation of the Rev. George Whitmeyer, who made several charges concerning conduct of the prison.

"We don't need any preacher to tell us whisky is being made in the prisons," said Hill. "We find some of the awfullest messes of cracked corn and potato peelings you ever saw that the convicts used for mash.

"And we've found evidence of crooked guards smuggling in narcotics. But Whitmeyer is a liar when he says that we are brutal and that the food is not good.

"The food is clean and wholesome and hot. And as for brutality, we have to be firm. But we never handcuff a prisoner to the bars above his head, always at a level with his waist.

"We fire the crooked guards whenever we can, but the civil service laws hamper us. These laws should be abolished."

THEODORE DREISER SLAPS SINCLAIR LEWIS' FACE TWICE

tor of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, in honor of Boris Pilmyak, Russian Communist writer.

At the dinner Lewis had said:

"I feel disinclined to speak in the presence of a man who has stolen 3,000 words from my wife's (Dorothy Thompson) book on Russia, and before two sage critics who have lamented the action of the Nobel committee in selecting me as America's representative writer."

There was a moment's strained silence as Lewis sat down, but nothing happened. Soon afterward the company adjourned to another room for coffee and cigars.

Lewis, tall, fiery-haired author of "Main Street" and "Elmer Gantry," stood talking with Dreiser, broad-shouldered and bulky.

Dreiser's Hand Swings Out.

Suddenly, apparently to the surprise of the others, the open palm of Dreiser's hand swung out, striking Lewis sharply on the cheek. Then he struck again.

"I didn't strike back," Lewis said, "because, unfortunately, some one standing behind me grabbed my arm."

Other guests jumped between the two, and the disturbance was over. Both remained at the Metropolitan Club, where the dinner was given, and were among the last to leave.

An Associated Press reporter saw Lewis late today just as the writer was boarding a train for Toledo, Ohio.

"Can't two men have a private squabble," Lewis said, "without all this fuss being made about it? I don't care to be quoted about the incident, but what I said about 3,000 words being stolen from my wife's book still stands. No, I don't intend to sue any one. The incident is closed."

Famous Persons Present.

The guests at the dinner included many famous in American letters—Rupert Hughes, Irvin Cobb, Ray Long, Laurence Stallings, James R. Quirk (editor of Photoplay Magazine), Arthur Brisbane and Burton Rascoe being among them. All who could be reached declined to discuss the affair.

Haworth Bromley, associate editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine, when told Lewis had called the incident "an outrageous, scandalous affair," said, "that about covers it."

Laurence Stallings, author of "What Price Glory," said:

"It was a private party and I have nothing to say—and please see that I am quoted correctly."

Lewis would not say what words led to the blows.

"Dreiser's a pretty big fellow," the Noble prize winner remarked, "and must weigh close to 200 pounds. I'll bet he could have put up a pretty good scrap if they'd let us go. Still, he's pretty old. He must be 60. He was an established editor in New York when I was a kid trying to get going."

Stolen Passage Claimed.

Lewis again called attention to the 3,000 words he charged Dreiser had "stolen" from Dorothy Thompson's (Mrs. Lewis') book. He pointed out that Mrs. Lewis' story was published six months before Dreiser's book came out. Dreiser has explained that the similarity of text was due to the fact that both Mrs. Lewis and he took their material from the same source.

Lewis, busily packing his bag as he talked so that he would not miss his train to Toledo, remarked that he once had been discharged by the Associated Press for incompetency.

"I'd rather be the reporter I might have been," he remarked, "than the Noble prize winner. That is, sometimes I feel that way. It is much better to be bothering some one else for a statement or an interview than to be that person and be bothered."

Lingle Death Trial Halted by Judge

Jurist Adjourns Case as Panel Is Rejected by State.

Chicago, March 20 (A.P.).—Unexpected adjournment of the trial of Leo V. Brothers for killing "Jake" Lingle tonight until Monday morning tonight ended hopes of completing the jury's selection this week.

Judge Joseph Sabbath ordered the adjournment as a peremptory challenge by the State broke up a third panel of four jurors the defense had tendered.

The judge then abandoned his previously announced plan for a night session and counsel will proceed with picking the remaining four jurors Monday when a new venire of 100, the second specially-summoned, will be ready.

ALTHOUGH no official comment has been forthcoming from Frederick R. Huber, director of WBAL, Baltimore, or C. W. Horn, NBC synchronization wizard, who is making the thing possible, the consensus is that the tying together of the Baltimore station with WJZ, New York, is giving Washington better WJZ service than it has ever had before.

For instance on an afternoon recently, when atmospheric conditions are never as good as they are at night, WBAL brought the WJZ program into the Capital with a strength and clarity almost equal to a local station.

When the WJZ announcer gave his call letters he sounded faint and far away. The WBAL announcement came in almost with a boom. On another occasion, when fading was so bad WJZ could not be heard at all, WBAL faded too but the program was still coming in strongly enough to be clearly heard. The advantage of being able to hear an entire program under such conditions is a strong point for synchronization.

WBAL is receiving congratulatory messages from other outlying sections, too. The Baltimore listeners are delighted, of course, since they are receiving full-time programs under the synchronized wave arrangement.

And while on the subject, WBAL is priding herself on the fact that yesterday the switch was made in less than a minute from the regular wave to the synchronized frequency. Which is something for them to be set up about when one learns that every time the adjustment is made the engineers have to make 22 separate changes to the transmitter.

ONE of the loveliest voices heard over the radio recently was that of Rachel Morton, soprano, who sang "Elsa's Dream" last Wednesday night in the Columbia Concerts Corporation program. Miss Morton, however, first had to win recognition abroad before being appreciated here.

After leaving the American conservatory at Fontainbleau it took almost her last cent to get to Paris. There she gained an audience with Jean de Reszke, the former great opera singer, who was so impressed by her voice that he immediately accepted her as a pupil, declaring:

"You need not pay me until you have attained the success you so richly deserve."

Miss Morton first sang in grand opera in Nice and later became a member of the British National Opera Company.

Eye-witness accounts of the Oxford-Cambridge boat races will be sent to America direct from the course on the Thames River, in England, this morning (WMAL, WBAL, 9:15 a. m.).

COMPLAINTS about the cutting of the slumber music to one-half hour are being heard from every quarter. Regarded as an institution by its followers, the tampering with this hour is looked upon as something akin to crime by those who have listened to it nightly for years.

"In all justice to listeners who prefer the type of music heard in Ludwig Laurier's carefully arranged slumber music, this feature should be allowed to continue the full hour," said one reader. "As a matter of fact, I feel the N. B. C. should use either WJZ or WEAF, for an additional program of real music between midnight and 1 a. m. Dancers and those who like popular songs could look to the other station for the "peppy and fast-moving" hour and all listeners would be appeased. I believe the chains are making a serious mistake in not catering to the developed as well as the popular taste in the late hours."

The championship meet of the Twenty-fifth Intercollegiate Swimming Association will be broadcast tonight (WJZ, 9 p. m.). Entries include George Kojac and Ray Thompson, sensational swimmers.

A new program, "Atlantic City Entertains," originating in WPG, will be broadcast tonight (WMAL, 9 p. m.).

Another sporting event set for broadcasting tonight will be the American bowling championship (WMAL, 11:30 p. m.).

AN attempt may be made by WOR, Newark, to broadcast the Easter Sunday services from the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. Permission is being sought by "Hollywood" McCosker from the British postal officials and J. Pierpont Morgan to place a radio transmitter on the Morgan yacht Corsair, which on Easter is to be berthed at Haifa.

If the necessary permission is received, land wires between Jerusalem and Haifa will connect the Church of the Holy Sepulchre with the Morgan yacht. Radio waves will carry the program onward to a powerful international short wave station, which will in turn broadcast the program for reception by short wave receivers in America.

A practical and delightful spring hat! (A Dah-ray ided.)

Paris, March 20.

SO this is the first day of Spring, is it! By way then of celebrating, let's look at today's illustration of a charming bit of nothingness which called itself a hat on the head of chic little Parisienne.

And don't think for a moment that it wasn't charming either, or that it lacked the least bit of style or workmanship! Because the more useless looking and simple, and the smaller a hat gets nowadays, the more complicated it is, and the more thought and care goes into its design and workmanship.

That's the thing about these little hats that one must realize, just as one must realize that the hat which is designed to be worn on the side of the head can be worn there, whilst the hat which is not designed can not be worn there.

The little hat that is just a dab of this or that carelessly thrown together and neglected just because it is small doesn't exist in the world of chic. Every hat today is most carefully planned and constructed, no matter how terrifically simple it finally looks. Actually, as you should know by this time, the more naive it looks when finished, the more expensive it is, and the more difficult to make!

That's a little idea, then, for you to think of this first day of spring, when young men's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of loves, but a young woman's fancy is much more liable to turn to thoughts of hats—if Mr. Young Man only knew!

* * * *

And since I know that your fancy has been turning these many moments to thoughts of where you might find a hat like the one illustrated for you today, I'll put you quickly out of your suspense by telling you that the illustrated leaflet which we have made for you for next week, will tell you how to make it yourself. Or if you aren't expert at hat making you can just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet and turn it right over to your favorite modiste. If you haven't any such, you can take the leaflet to the millinery department of any large store, and order a hat made from it.

* * * *

Dear Friend—But honestly, you don't have to be so terrifically expert to follow the directions for making this smart spring "chapeau." Because I really, really had never even tried to make a hat before—and now you should see me sally forth arrayed in a little bonnet to match every one of my (four) new spring costumes, which I actually made each and every one (the hats, I mean!) with these dear hands!

Affectueusement,
La Chic Secretaire.

* * * *

Be careful of that contrasting color business, and don't go doing it all over the lot, now will you? For instance, the hat in two decided colors, in a half and half effect, not a crown and brim effect—you can wear this hat only with a dress suit or coat in one of those colors. Then you can have shoes or bag or something in the other color that appears in your hat and which contrasts to the costume, but that's as far as it goes. If you start using the two and three color idea in your costume, you have to be awfully careful that you do not err in chic.

* * * *

To give you a specific example of what I just said, there was the smartest straw hat in the half and half effect of black straw and green straw, bright green, you know. This was worn with a black broadcloth tailored suit, a white satin blouse, black shoes and bag and bright green gloves. And how smart it was, really!

* * * *

Au Revoir!

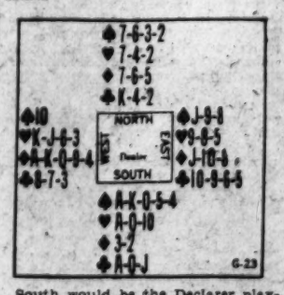
WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)

THERE is a play in Bridge known as the "elimination." It consists of exhausing certain suits in Declarer's two hands or in an adverse hand and then forcing an adversary to lead up to a tenace, a singly guarded King, or whatever combination of cards a Declarer may wish to have led up to him.

This is generally considered to be an expert play, entirely beyond a beginner. We are giving today a simple illustration which we hope will not prove too hard for even a newcomer



South would be the Declarer playing a contract of two or three Spades at Auction, four Spades at Contract. West would lead three rounds of Diamonds. South, trumping the third, would lead three rounds of trumps so as to exhaust the adversaries. This would leave him with one trump in each of his hands.

A thoughtless player now would put dummy in with the King of Clubs to lead a Heart for South to finesse. But if the finesse lost, West could lead a Club and it would be necessary for the Declarer to put dummy in with the last trump and try a second Heart finesse (which would lose also, and set him). To realize the possibilities of the hand, Declarer should exhaust the Clubs from his two hands; then he could lead a Heart from dummy and finesse the Ten, being sure that if it lost he would make every other trick. The modus operandi would be as follows:

To tricks 7, 8 and 9 three Club leads; winning trick 9 in the dummy hand. That would leave three Hearts and one Spade in each of Declarer's hands. Then a Heart lead from dummy and a finesse of South's Ten. If the Ten wins, marking the King-Jack in the East hand, put dummy in with a trump and lead another Heart. If South's Ten is taken by West's King, Declarer's Hearts are all good; but if West takes the Ten with the Jack, Declarer will not need another finesse as West must either lead a suit which dummy can ruff and on which closed hand can discard his Queen of Hearts, or lead a Heart up to South's Ace-Queen.

Bridge novices are advised to study this situation and then look for it in actual play.

YOUR NAME
What Does It Mean?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, Ph. D.

IN this series of articles reference has frequently been made to Cornish names. Many readers, believing their names to be of English origin, have been surprised to learn that they are Cornish, and have requested information concerning such names. Cornish was the Celtic language spoken throughout the whole of Cornwall until about the year 1400. Cornwall is the southwestern county of England, lying between Devonshire on the east and the Atlantic on the north, west and south. It was conquered from the Britons by the West Saxons from the eighth to the tenth century, and was made a duchy of the princes of Wales in 1337. In early times it was called West Wales. By the year 1600 the English language had supplanted Cornish throughout the greater part of Cornwall. A certain Dolly Pentreath, who died in 1777, is supposed to have been the last person to speak Cornish, although there is evidence that that language was spoken by a few people in West Cornwall until well into the nineteenth century. Although Cornish is now dead as a spoken language, it still lives in the place-names of Cornwall, nearly 90 per cent of which are of Celtic origin. Furthermore, almost all Cornish family names are derived from Cornish place-names. The commonest words which occur in such names are "caer" (fort), "lan" (church), "pen" (hill), "pol" (pool), "ros" (health) and "tre" (settlement). Two verses which are often quoted are:

"By tre, pol, and pen,
Ye shall know Cornishmen."

The family name "Trecelian" (also spelled "Trevellyan") is of Cornish origin. Its full significance is "he who lives in the settlement near the mill." It appears to be first recorded, with the spelling "Trevelan," in the year 1364.

Watch this column every day. Your name will appear here.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Headstrong Daughters.

DEAR Frances McDonald—I want you to tell me where I have failed. I am the mother of a beautiful and spirited girl of 17. I am myself only 38, modern in every sense of the word. But I am worried really ill over a situation that is plainly beyond me.

We are rather well-off and having only this one girl, she has been denied nothing in reason. At Christmas she demanded a car. We offered a fur coat. She said she had two and wanted nothing if we would not give the car. We got it for her. She is now out until all hours of the morning with an unspeakable boy whom we loathe. His father is a doctor whose license was revoked for cause, and while we would not just on that account discriminate against the boy, I believe it does account for his character which is the very worst. He has been arrested many times.

The acquaintance began in high school and we thought it was a thing of the past until a friend called us up at 1 a. m. from a road house to tell us that with our permission he would bring her home as she was there with this boy who was intoxicated. We asked him to wait and we threw on some clothes got in our car and went out there. It was a low place with the vilest looking people in the last stages of intoxication.

She came quietly and seemed subdued. But next morning she told me that for one more year we could publicly humiliate her as we had the night before but after that she would be through with tyranny. If any home has less of tyranny than ours I can not imagine it. Dad is so full of life and the most indulgent fellow in the world. He has never yet refused me a thing—nor crossed her. I told him what she said and he decided it was wisest to drop the subject at once. We all three went to New York for a week-end and she was very animated over it. But when we got there she suddenly went dead and said she had no one to dance with and wanted to come home. The trip was a failure. As soon as we got home she phoned this boy and stayed out all night. She has been out every night since. Just gets in the car after dinner and leaves returning at 1 o'clock or later. Is there anything that we can do? I believe she would leave home in a minute.

C. E. L.

Send for a competent attorney and have him give her a straight talk. Let it be a man she never saw and one who knows what awaits a headstrong girl of 17 who frequents dives with intoxicated men. In your place I would place such a girl in a sanatorium. I would let her understand that such conduct was an indication of general demoralization—which it is. Stop humoring her whims. Discipline her before the law is called upon to do so. Get her out of the reach of this youth who is no doubt under police surveillance right now. It is up to you to control the girl and two adults should be able to control one 17-year-old child. Let her know that your authority over her is supreme and very real. At present it is a joke to her. That is where the attorney comes in. Have him come and have him tell her in your presence just how extensive your authority is.

Unless she is truly defective she will be shocked into her senses. If she is not, then have her taken to a sanatorium. After a week or two there she may be ready to act like a normal girl of her age.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"PISCES."

IF March 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:40 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3:15 p. m., and from 6:30 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 11:15 a. m. to noon, and from 5 p. m. to 6:10 p. m.

March 21 does not hold out any hope of business success, and routine work only should be done. The signs are favorable for all kinds of sport, and social activities will be successful. Danger to health is indicated and no risks should be taken.

A child born on this March 21 will be long-lived, blessed with an iron constitution, and should, unless it takes too long chances, acquire a considerable degree of success—judged from a material viewpoint. It will be well balanced, but not overaffectionate.

If you were born on March 21 you, although possessing many admirable traits, have an unforgiving nature, and your disposition threatens to be soured by harping on evils, imaginary and real, and by your efforts to get even with those who, in your opinion, have hurt your tender susceptibilities. In order to make the success of your life that is possible, you need to be more philosophic in your attitude to fellow creatures and to contemplate their good points, rather than emphasize their bad ones.

Your business judgment is remarkable, and you possess keen insight and no mean order of ability. You are capable of taking hold of big propositions, especially those that require clear vision and practical ideas. You are sometimes prone to think that the end justifies the means, and this attitude will not conduce to a belief in your dependability or kindness of heart.

If a woman, there is no doubt that, in carving out a business career for yourself, you could achieve all that you set out to do. On the other hand, you will always have a craving for a home and children of your own. The former you will run successfully. The latter you will either spoil or treat with the spirit of a Spartan.

Successful people born March 21:

Fitzedward Hall, philologist.

Henry B. Brown, Justice of United States Supreme Court.

Albert Chevalier, famous "coster" comedian.

Percy Sutherland Bullen, newspaper man.

Gen. James Guthrie Harbord, United States general.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

LAST July I planted some geraniums which so far have bloomed three times. I water them generously and they get some afternoon sun; not much, however. Please tell me why they have stopped blooming ever since I brought them into the house in early October.

MRS. H. Y. P.

Geraniums must be kept on the dry side. As your plants are in pots, they must be watered only every other day. In order to develop blooms, they must be in the sun at all times. Better move them to a place where they will have both morning and afternoon sun.

Does the daphne (garland flower) bloom in the fall as well as in the spring?

MRS. PHILLIP H. T.

Yes. In May the daphne oneorum or garland flower is covered with flowers. Later, in the fall, it will bloom again; the flowers at this season are not affected by frost and frequently can be picked in early December. This is a wonderful little evergreen plant which has become very popular within the last few years, due to the pleasing fragrance of the blossoms and to their beautiful shell pink color. It grows about 1 foot high, but spreads over a space of 2 feet.

Please tell me when to repot a palm and a rubber plant which need transplanting very badly, both plants having been in their present containers for at least five years.

HELEN B. L.

You may transplant either of these plants at any time.

I have a large begonia plant which I am anxious to make into cuttings, which, if they grow, may help me to fill some of my window boxes a little later in the season. When is a good time to do this work and would you advise me to attempt to root them in sand, water or soil?

EMILY L. M.

I would do the work at once so that the plants will have attained some size when you want to use them. Personally, I think I would root these cuttings in sand, though you might try all three ways. Begonias root readily in any medium, though I think they develop stronger roots when started in sand.

Please give me some advice about an ampelopsis veitchii which I want to plant against an old barn. Would it be best to set out a number of these vines when the weather permits or would you advise me to wait until fall to plant them?

Mrs. PAUL O. W.

I would plant them in the spring as soon as the ground permits.

Please tell me whether a birch tree is considered hard to transplant and whether it pays to pay an extra price for balled and burlapped specimens.

Mrs. EDWARD T. P.

A birch tree is considered hard to transplant successfully. Never purchase such a variety unless it is balled and burlapped.

Please tell me something about the time to plant pussy willows.

PATSY C. G.

You may plant pussy willows in the spring or fall, although most authorities feel that they grow better when planted in the fall. They do well in moist or moderately dry locations. The goat willow (salix caprea) produces the largest catkins and has also most beautiful foliage. Should your pussy willows be attacked by the borers, try using large quantities of chimney soot about the roots.

WOMEN WILL LEAD CHURCH SERVICES

Brightwood, Takoma Park Stirred Up, Metropolitan Baptist Revived.

It is a well-known fact that the Christian Church was organized in a women's prayer meeting, a fact men have been slow to acknowledge by giving women a place in the affairs of the church. However, slowly through the centuries women have been emerging from the cloisters of their homes into places of prominence in the church, until today many of them are preachers, a smaller number evangelists, and a remarkable group are missionaries.

If the church depended upon the men to keep alive and go forward, it would soon curl up and die; for most men are mere brothers-in-law to the church. They take their religion by proxy, through their wives, mothers and sisters. This is a terrible slam at men, but one of the species is writing this article, and he has been watching this thing for a number of years.

In this city lately we have seen the men in certain churches shake themselves and stir up some enthusiasm in their congregations. Notable success has met their efforts. This is particularly true of Calvary Methodist Church, where Leslie Johnston and his fellow servants of the Lord have done a rather remarkable work in reviving attendance at the Sunday night service. They did nothing unusual. They met a situation with the right corrective. And their success has stirred up others to emulate their example.

Those who interest themselves in these problems have been looking to see when the women would take charge of the evening service in some church and lift it out of the slough of despond. They did not have to wait long, for at Brightwood Park Methodist Church tomorrow evening the women will be wholly in charge, even in the pulpit, for Mrs. Chesteen Smith, wife of the talented pastor of Hamline Methodist Church, will be the speaker. Of course this is but what the actors would call a one-night stand, but it may result in a long continued engagement. Methodism began in a small prayer circle. Now look at it.

At the same hour that Mrs. Smith is expounding the law and the gospel to the Methodists, at Takoma Park Baptist Church the Margaret A. Pearce Bible Class for Women will be conducting a similar service. Mrs. C. M. Fisher, president of the class, will preside, and Mrs. Herbert W. Rutledge, teacher of the class, will be the speaker. A fine musical program by home talent aided by visiting soloists will be a feature of the service.

In another part of the city, in the Metropolitan Baptist Church; two women are conducting a revival, which the pastor, Dr. John Compton Ball, says is one of the best and most fruitful he has ever participated in. One of these ladies, Miss Amy Lee Stockton, does the preaching, and the other, Miss Rita Gould, leads the singing. This revival has been going on for two weeks, and will close at the end of next week.

Woman's influence in the church is probably greater than the men will allow.

Bible Class Plans "Special Police Day"

The Harrison Bible Class of Congress Street Methodist Protestant Church, which has a large percentage of policemen in its membership, will hold a "Special Police Day" tomorrow morning, 9:45 o'clock, in the auditorium of the church, 1238 Thirty-first street northwest.

Commissioner Crosby, Maj. Pratt and all officers and members of the police force have been invited to attend. Representative Frank L. Bowman, of West Virginia, a member of the District committee in Congress, will speak, and Ambrose Durkin, a member of the police force, will sing. Luther Keen will have charge of the lesson.

Adult Lenten School To Close on Thursday

The final session of the Lenten School of Adult Education, which has been conducted this month by the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, will be held next Thursday evening, when the subject for the evening will be "Religion and Personal Living."

Before two study groups at 7 o'clock Miss Lydia Burklin, head resident at Friendship House, will speak on "Fundamental Values in Life," and Dean D. Butler Pratt, of the Howard University School of Religion, on "The Use of the Bible." At a combined meeting of the two groups at 8 o'clock, Miss Hettie P. Anderson, general secretary of the Washington Y. W. C. A., will deliver an address on "The Personal Value of Religion."

Chevy Chase Service To Hear Dr. McDowell

Bishop William Fraser McDowell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the speaker at the Chevy Chase Lenten service next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the All Saints' Episcopal Church.

The Protetsant churches of Chevy Chase have been promoting these special midweek services. The service next Thursday will be the closing one of the series.

Massachusetts Cleric At First Congregational

Faith Church is one of the strongest Congregational churches in New England. Dr. McKay is a member of the National Council Commission on church attendance.

Wesley Church to Have Revival.

A revival meeting is to begin tomorrow at John Wesley A. M. E. Zion Church and will last until Easter Sunday. The pastor, the Rev. Henry D. Tillman, has obtained the services of the Rev. G. W. Gaines, of Richmond, Va., as evangelist.

FILIPINO TO SPEAK IN LENTEN PULPIT

Commissioner Osias to Make Address in New York Avenue Church.

One of the Philippine commissioners, Mr. Camilo Osias, will be the noonday Lenten speaker next Wednesday at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, when he will take the place of Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, who will conduct his own service at the same hour at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Osias is a member of the United Brethren Church, which is said to be numerically and otherwise very strong in the southern islands of the Philippine Archipelago. A newcomer to Washington, the commissioner has a very remarkable background of public service as well as of education. He was educated in this country, having degrees from Columbia University and the Teachers College of New York City. His life work has been largely devoted to education, though he has been in the diplomatic service and has had legislative experience, having been a senator in the Philippines General Assembly before coming to this country. At present he is president of the National University of his country.

Most Cultured Filipino.

In many regards Mr. Osias is the most cultured Filipino now living, and his broad culture has not caused him to lose contact with the people. When he ran for the high office of senator he received the largest popular vote ever given an elective official in that country.

It is said that he is a very eloquent and compelling speaker, both on the hustings, in the Senate and in the pulpit. He fits his theme and his style to his audience. What an odd thing it is that a Filipino should be bringing the gospel to the Capital City of the greatest and most powerful Nation on earth!

Speeches for the Week.

Dr. Sizoo will speake four days at these services and the following ministers of the city will preside: The Rev. Charles Enders, of Concordia Evangelical Church; the Rev. D. L. Ennis, of Trinity Methodist Church; the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church; the Rev. Elmore Turner, of Takoma Park Church of the Disciples, and the Rev. R. Y. Nicholson, of the Rhode Island Avenue Methodist Protestant Church.

The chorister will be Dr. Albert W. Harned, who will be assisted by a double quartet from the National Capital Choir.

Bishop W. F. McDowell, resident bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be the speaker for the closing week of the Lenten services.

Methodists Plan Dramatic Pageant

125 Next Week to Help in Presenting "Searchers for the Light."

One hundred and twenty-five persons selected from the 31 Methodist Episcopal Churches of the Washington district will present a dramatic pageant, "Searchers for the Light," at Foundry M. E. Church, Friday evening, March 27, at 8 o'clock.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Societies will direct this stirring spectacle of humanity's searching for the light from earliest time to the present day.

Pastors of Washington's Methodist Churches will take the leading parts. The trained Children's Chorus from Calvary Church will present special musical features. Special soloists supported by a large adult chorus will be heard in a number of selections. Costumes selected for historical accuracy are being secured from the pageantry department of the Methodist Book Concern of Chicago.

Sentence Sermons

By DR. SAMUEL JUDSON PORTER,
(Pastor First Baptist Church, Washington, D. C.)

Can We Be Sure?

CAN we be sure of Christ—sure of Him as of things we experience physically. May our contacts with him become a matter of unquestioned record? Christian experience answers affirmatively. Dr. William James, late professor of philosophy in Harvard University, in his Gifford lectures at Edinburgh, cites a large number of unquestioned instances of men and women in every station of life, among them some of the keenest intellects, who had calm, deep, wonderful visions of God, more real to them than life itself.

John Wesley used the following memorable words in a letter: "If, then, it were possible to shake the traditional evidence of Christianity, still he that hath the eternal evidence—and every true believer hath the witness or evidence in himself—would stand firm and unshaken."

Similar testimony is easily available, from the lives of some we know intimately—indisputable witness that God makes Himself so thoroughly known to those who draw near unto Him, that if all external proofs were taken away, as when props are knocked out from under the walls they support, they would still remain confident and undisturbed because they have the witness within themselves that Christ is present and sufficient.

One is reminded of the fine words with which Mrs. Browning closes her "Duchess May:"

"And I smiled to think God's greatness flows around our incompleteness,
Round our restlessness His rest."

KERR TO BE GREETED BY PRESBYTERIANS

Moderator of Denomination Will Be Honored Monday at Gunton Temple.

Presbyterians are eagerly awaiting the visit of their moderator, Dr. Hugh Thompson Kerr, of Pittsburgh, who will attend the annual reception extended him Monday evening at Gunton Temple Memorial Church on Sixteenth and Newton streets.

This is the most important social function given by this great body of Christians during the year It is the only time that they came together from all their churches, except in a representative capacity in the monthly meetings of Presbytery. They have a good time in every way.

As usual the affair will be under the direction of the Presbyterian Alliance, of which Dr. John C. Palmer, minister of Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, is president.

An interesting program has been arranged by a committee of which Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, is chairman, his associates being the Rev. Henry W. Tolson, minister of Westminster Church, and the Rev. Halley B. Taylor.

At the beginning of the processional, the clergy, with Dr. Palmer and Dr. Kerr at their head, will march in in a body, and take their seats in the chancel. Then Dr. David S. Schaff will give the invocation, the Rev. Godfrey Chobot will read the Scriptures, and Dr. Charles Wood will pray.

After a selection by the choir, Dr. Kerr will preach. Then Dr. Bernard Braskamp will make the announcements, after which the benediction will be pronounced by Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo.

After this service has been concluded the congregation will meet socially.

Dr. Kerr is one of the foremost preachers in this country, being pastor of one of the largest Presbyterian churches on the continent. He was elected moderator at the meeting of the General Assembly in Cincinnati last May, and will preside over the General Assembly, which meets in Pittsburgh in May.

Dr. Johnson to Preach at Harvard.

Returning from New York, where he spoke in a Lenten service at the new Riverside Church of which Dr. Emerson Fosdick is pastor, President Mordecai W. Johnson will speak tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock in the Howard University religious service in Andrew Rankin Chapel.

CHURCHES CROWDED BY HYMN SINGING

Petworth Turns Out Even on Rainy Sunday Nights to Take Part.

It was raining last Sunday night, a dreary evening when most folks were glad to be at home hugging steam radiators or warming cold shins before an open fire. Not many churches kept open, and those which did did not have congregations that inspired the minister to do his best.

One church, a suburban Methodist Church, at Petworth, which has a new minister, had announced a song service, to be capped by a short sermon from the pastor. Some of the songs were to be so old few of the people had ever heard of them. They are in no modern books, so the preacher either had to show them on a screen or line them out as Bishop Asbury and old Peter Cartwright did. Not an inviting program to draw a house full of people on such an evening.

However, Methodists are still a "peculiar people." And the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, pastor of Petworth Methodist Church, knows that. He was not surprised when he walked into his pulpit as the organ began to peal out a grand processional hymn to find people filling all the seats and standing up. Nor was he much shocked when he learned that his projecting machine had broken down and that he would have to line out the old hymns. Indeed, he did not lift an eyebrow when he heard such a volume of sound coming from his congregation as reminded him of the old camp meetings of his early days in the country.

"This is a good thing," said Mr. Wood, after the service, "and we will repeat it next Sunday night." And so he has got a good projecting machine which wprks, and he has chosen some old hymns that Wesley and Asbury sang, and with his choir of 200 voices, half men and half women, augmenting his vested choir, will do this program over again.

Petworth seems to be a singing community. Out there in the Wallace Memorial United Presbyterian Church the Sunshine Carolers have their home. A stranger dropped in the other night at St. Gabriel's, which is the pride of Bishop John M. McNamara's heart, and found the large congregation of Catholics singing from leaflets, with a vim to put the Methodists on their mettle, "Jesus Lover of My Soul."

IMPROVEMENT IN CASES OF JAKE.

I HAVE recently seen a group of cases of jake paralysis, some of which I first saw ten months ago. Some seen this time I did not see ten months ago, and some seen ten months ago I did not see this time, but each time I saw the cases, with the physicians who were attending them, and from these physicians received reports on the comparative condition of the patients now and then. My observations were made rapidly and superficially. In the main, what is written is based on what the physicians told me. The place was Corinth, Miss. Readers may remember that I wrote of this group of cases several months ago. The reason for this article is the very great improvement in a considerable number of cases of severe jake paralysis during the course of ten months.

A few cases are now walking around without crutches or canes. Their gait during ordinary walking appears to be almost normal. They can flex the foot and lift the toes. Hand grip is reasonably strong. A few cases that were on crutches last spring are now walking with a single stick. On a good surface they do not use a stick. I saw one such case that could flex his foot and lift his toes fairly well. The degree of improvement ranges from these on the top level to those on various lower levels. Every one I saw was sure of improvement and hopeful of considerable further gains. In every case there was considerable atrophy of the muscles. This was especially noticeable with the thumb muscles. But all reported that their muscles were "filling out." In most cases the secondary spasmodic drawing of muscles and "leaders" had passed off.

Part of the improvement was due to the intelligent use of the affected legs and arms. The persons affected had served on a machine in order to exercise the muscles of the lower leg and foot. Some had taken up knitting in order to keep the hand muscles in as good shape as possible.

One woman was under the necessity of scrambling up a steep embankment daily. She found this a fine treatment for foot drop. A farmer had to plow or go without food. He rigged up a toe lifter made from an automobile tire. Contrary to expectations he has improved greatly. Many of the cases are being given a solution of radium chloride. They attribute much of their improvement to that.

YEAST CONTAINS VITAMIN B.

Mrs. A. M. writes: Is eating yeast cakes beneficial or injurious to one's health?

REPLY.

Yeast is a good source of supply for vitamin B complex and vitamin E. If a person needs either of these vitamins, eating yeast should prove helpful.

IT ALL DEPENDS.

L. J. writes: 1. Would you advise operation for rupture or wearing a truss? 2. Would rupture cause high blood pressure?

REPLY.

1. Depends on the inconvenience the hernia causes. Some people find both having a hernia and wearing a truss inconvenient and elect operation.

2. No.

Girl, 21, Refuses Burns' Treatment

Daughter of West Virginia Pastor Is Recovering, However, He Says.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., March 20.—Answering criticisms of physicians, the Rev. R. L. Rouse, pastor of the Church of God here and at Salem, today said his daughter, Nichola, 21, was slowly recovering from burns suffered March 10, for which no treatment has been given.

The girl has been fighting a gallant battle against death, often being unconscious. She has refused the services of physicians. Doctors say she may not recover and may demand an investigation.

TRAIN KILLS CLERIC; SUICIDE IS VERDICT

Dr. H. L. Bivens, 54, Former Pastor at Beltsville, Is Victim.

Dr. Harvey L. Bivens, 54, former pastor of the Methodist Church in Beltsville, Md., committeed suicide yesterday morning by jumping in front of a Chesapeake Beach Railway train at Marlboro, Md., according to the coroner's jury which held the inquest last night.

According to friends of the family, Dr. Bivens suffered an injury to his brain about two years ago from which he never recovered. At times the effect of his injury caused him to be mentally unbalanced.

Dr. Bivens' wife has not been told of her husband's death, as she is ill as a result of her almost constant nursing of the churchman. She believes he is only injured.

Dr. and Mrs. Bivens were visiting their daughter, Mrs. John B. Dent, of Marlboro, at the time. They had been in Marlboro several months, having come there from Baltimore, where Dr. Bivens was undergoing treatment.

According to testimony given to the coroner's jury by A. E. Marquess, of Chesapeake Beach, Md., fireman on the train, Dr. Bivens was walking beside the track as the train approached. When the engine was almost abreast of him, he leaped in front of it and was ground beneath the wheels. The train was the one which leaves Marlboro at 9:30. Officer Frank Prince investigated the man's death.

So badly was the body mutilated that it was some time before it was identified. His identity was finally traced through a picture of his wife found in his pocket.

In addition to his wife, and Mrs. Dent, Dr. Bivens is survived by four other children. They are Douglas L., Randolph, Mrs. Burnham Williams and Donald. The inquest was held by Judge Thomas D. Griffith, of Forestville.

established clinics or health centers for information or assistance."

The committee consists of 28 members, among whom are several distinguished clergymen and a number of influential laymen, including George W. Wickersham, Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, jr., and a number of other prominent women are members. Twenty-two of the 28 signed the majority report, three signed the minority report and three expressed no judgment either way.

The committee's chairman, the Rev. Dr. Howard Chandler Robbins, professor at General Theological Seminary and for many years dean of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, signed the minority report, together with Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the national board of the Young Womens Christian Association, and Mrs. Orin R. Judd, president of the Council of Women for Home Missions.

Three Not Signing.

The three who signed neither report were Dr. Ben R. Lacy, president of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va.; Mrs. W. A. Newell, of Greensboro, N. C., chairman of the Bureau of Social Service of the Women's Missional Council of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, and Bishop Charles K. Hilbert, Suffragan Bishop of New York.

Preceding the majority and minority reports is a statement on which the entire committee agreed. It comments on the fact that "physicians have long known that under certain physical conditions of the mother pregnancy is hazardous to mother and child."

"Although there are few women who do not desire children," it continues, "the fear of untimely pregnancy rests as a recurring anxiety upon most married women for two decades after their marriage."

It dwells at some length on the economic considerations, noting that "very large families tend to produce poverty, to endanger the health and stability of the family and to limit the educational opportunities of the children."

The problems of overpopulation, it points out, are also involved in the consideration of birth control.

"As to the necessity, therefore, for some form of effective control of the size of the family and the spacing of children, and consequently of control of conception, there can be no question," it concludes. "It is recognized by all churches and physicians."

Warning to Parents.

The majority report opens with the statement "The majority of the committee hold that the careful and restrained use of contraceptives by married people is valid and moral. They take this position because they believe that it is important to provide for the proper spacing of children, the control of the size of the family, and the protection of mothers and children, and because intercourse between mates, when an expression of their spiritual union and affection, is right in itself. They are of the opinion that abstinence within marriage, except for the few, can not be relied upon to meet these problems and under ordinary conditions is not desirable in itself.

"But they can not leave this statement without further comment. They feel obliged to point out that present knowledge of birth control is incomplete, and that an element of uncertainty, although it is small, still remains. More serious is the fact that all methods are as yet more or less subject to personal factors for their effectiveness. Married couples should keep these facts in mind and welcome children, should they come."

6,050,000 JOBLESS REPORTED IN JANUARY

Manhattan, 168,322; Philadelphia, 212,051; Pittsburgh, 60,026; St. Louis, 77,560; San Francisco, 41,103 and Seattle, 31,246.

The greatest percentage of these cities was shown by Detroit with its 1,568,662 population. The jobless were 11.1 per cent of the total population and 28.5 per cent of the gainful workers.

Cleveland and Chicago were close seconds with 11 per cent of their populations idle. The Chicago gainful workers census has not been completed, but the Cleveland jobless numbered 28.1 per cent of the workers.

Denver, Colo., has the smallest percentage of unemployment with 6.9 of its total population jobless and looking for work and 15.3 per cent of its gainful workers jobless.

The bureau said many of those laid off without pay for long periods might be classed as jobless but that in the January census a large percentage of persons given in this class reported only short periods of idleness, 75 per cent of those in three cities tabulated reporting idle periods of less than a week.

Woman's Strange Death By Fire Baffles Police

Lowell, Mass., March 20 (A.P.).—The body of Mrs. Margaret Dewert, 52, was found burned to death in her tenement today under circumstances so strange that the police had no explanation to offer.

There was no evidence of fire in the room except that the door was charred. But the woman's body was badly charred, with clothing and hair completely burned away.

YOU can't make a LIE sound like the TRUTH just by SHOUTING it!

He sang the hobo's national anthem—he traveled the highways and byways of the world—but in his heart was a song of love. A magnificent role played with triumphant success by the man who is the sensation of talking pictures.

Readers of this paper from time to time have perhaps seen exceptionally large advertisements of certain motion pictures.

These ads are placed by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company in cooperation with our theatre. The M-G-M policy of advertising is NEVER to shout about a picture unless the picture deserves it. Only in this way will faith with the public be kept.

Among the pictures which lately you have seen highly praised are "Min and Bill," "Reducing," "Inspiration," "Paid" and "The Big House."

All these attractions have merited the emphasis which this paid-for space has given.

A mighty drama of man's struggle against forbidden love! As the prodigal son—traveling the high-road of adventure with a song in his heart—he returns to home and mother—and immediately crashes into a heart-breaking romance that challenges man-made laws.

And now Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer continues its policy of TRUTH IN ADVERTISING by shouting that you must see the newest of screen attractions "The SOUTHERNER" starring LAWRENCE TIBBETT and featuring Esther Ralston, Roland Young and Cliff Edwards.

INCLUSION OF EGGS IS URGED FOR LENT

Diet Especially Recommended as Being Suitable and Cheap Just Now.

Eggs come into the food limelight as Easter nears and they stand out preeminent in the list of satisfying, health giving nonmeat Lenten foods.

Another great advantage is that they are both abundant and cheap at the present time.

In a statement issued by the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Woman's Division of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment attention was called to their high food value, which made them an important item in the diet at all times.

Especially is this true of the diet of children, for of all natural foods, egg yolk is the best source of vitamin D, with the exception of fish oils. For this reason, the bureau points out, children who are given eggs from infancy are better fortified against rickets than those who do not have them.

Valuable as Protein.

In addition to the vitamin content of eggs, they are extremely valuable for their efficient protein and for the essential minerals—iron, calcium, phosphorus and magnesium—which are in such form as to be easily assimilated. Next to milk, eggs are the most important source of protein in the diet of growing children. Another factor in their favor is that egg yolk resembles butter in its high percentage of vitamin A, which is sometimes known as the antiinfective vitamin.

The bureau suggests that children of 5 and 6 months be given small quantities of egg yolk, gradually increasing the amount until 18-month-old children are taking a full egg yolk. After two years they may have eggs in practically all forms provided they are properly prepared.

Since only 11 per cent of the egg is lost in the weight of the shell a pound of eggs yields a relatively high proportion of edible food material. The present price of eggs is lower than it has been for years even after discounting the fact that they are usually more plentiful and consequently cheaper at this season. All these facts substantiate the bureau's recommendation for the inclusion of eggs in the diet.

Now Low in Price.

Their present low price brings them within reach of families living on very small food budgets. Since they can be served to persons of all ages their use does away with the necessity for preparing special meals for the younger children.

Eggs have many uses in the diet. They may be served as the main dish of a meal, used in baking, for thickening sauce, to give color and flavor and to make a crisp crust in frying. The methods of serving eggs are many, varying in different countries, so that there need be no monotony in their use.

The bureau has developed the following egg recipes for the needs of the family group of seven who may be living by the low-cost food guide devised by the bureau at the request of the Woman's Division of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment, of which Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth is chairman. The omelet recipe is one that is guaranteed not to fall, which should bring special joy to those who always avoid serving them because they are never sure they will turn out right.

The average cost of filling the week's market basket as outlined below for a family of seven is $11.36. This amount was determined by pur-

Muehler's Egg Noodles Are Made With Apples

1 package Mueller's egg noodles.
4 tablespoons butter.
4 apples, cut in eighths.
¾ cup sugar.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
¼ teaspoon salt.

Parboil the noodles for 7 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain.

Melt the butter in a frying pan. Place alternate layers of egg noodles and apples in the pan, seasoning with sugar, cinnamon and salt. Cook for 25 minutes keeping well covered the first 10 minutes.

Fried Bananas Served In Place of Potatoes

Fried bananas are usually served with the meat course. As they contain considerable starch, potatoes or other starchy vegetables may be omitted, but cabbage, spinach or some other leafy vegetable should be included as usual. The directions for preparing fried bananas are from the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture.

1 egg.
½ cup flour.
¾ cup milk.
½ teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon sugar.
Dried sifted bread crumbs.
Lemon juice.

Select ripe bananas, remove the skin, scrape off the stringy portions and cut the bananas in half lengthwise. Dip the pieces of banana into the batter made from the flour, milk, sugar, egg and salt and then roll them in the bread crumbs. Fry the bananas until a golden brown in shallow fat and drain on paper to remove excess fat. Serve hot and squeeze lemon juice over the bananas.

Baked Sausage Praised As Dish for Luncheon

Sausage—crisp, brown, but oozing with savory juices—a perfect meal for a cold winter's day. But there is sausage and sausage, as you doubtless have discovered. Some fries away to nothing, some is so highly seasoned with sage perhaps it does not meet your taste; so you shop around for sausage to be served at this season. If the sausage is prepared by a reliable producer you will find it uniformly good. Have you tried baked pure pork sausage, or sausage served en casserole? They will add new joy to your luncheon and dinner table. Arrange ten to twelve sausage patties in a shallow baking dish, pour around them stewed tomatoes, seasoned with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Bake until brown (about 30 minutes) in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serves five to six.

Energy-producing food!

Spaghetti Chop Suey Makes Inviting Dish

1 package Mueller's spaghetti.
2 tablespoons butter.
2 green peppers, chopped.
2 onions, chopped.
½ pound ground round steak.
1½ cup chopped celery.
3 cups tomatoes.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon sugar.
¼ teaspoon pepper.

Parboil the spaghetti for 7 minutes in 4 quarts rapidly boiling water to which 1 tablespoon salt has been added. Drain. Melt the butter in a frying pan, add the peppers, onions and celery and cook slowly for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Add the tomatoes, salt, sugar and pepper and continue cooking until the mixture thickens, then add the well-drained spaghetti and cook slowly for one-half hour. Fry the round steak in small cakes. Just before serving, crumble over the top of the mixture. Serve piping hot. Mushrooms may be substituted for the steak. Macaroni may be used instead of the spaghetti if desired.

Tomato Juice Cocktail.

2 cups tomato juice.
1 teaspoon salt.
1 tablespoon vinegar.
1 teaspoon Worcestershire.
4 drops tabasco sauce.

Mix all the ingredients and strain. Shake with cracked ice and serve in cocktail glasses.

Why Not Simplify Your Baking?

The ingredients you use are mainly responsible for the success which you have in baking. Flour is one of the important essentials, and is the one flour that is distinctly designed for kitchen use. At the big bakery with its ponderous machinery, the character of flour does not make so much difference; but to the housewife, with the facilities at her command, it is highly important and for that reason Washington Flour is made of a special growth of wheat, which, made into flour, responds to your personal formulas and your available facilities.

There is Plain Washington Flour for all purposes, and Self-rising Washington Flour, that is prepared with the purest leavening phosphates for biscuits, waffles, etc., with which no baking powder is necessary.

There are scientific reasons why Washington Flour is best of all for your use, and it is well worth the trial which will convince you of its superiority.

NATS' ROOKIES GAIN 7-3 VICTORY OVER COLLEGIANS

Sarazen Tied For Lead by Turnesa

Gene Makes Brilliant Finish in La Gorce Open Play.

Has 139 at Halfway Mark; Kirkwood, Armour Close.

LA GORCE GOLF COURSE, Miami Beach, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen staged a last minute spurt today to go into a tie with Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., at 139 at the thirty-sixth hole of the $15,000 La Gorce 72 hole open golf tournament.

The leaders were three strokes under par for the 36 holes.

Sarazen shot a 35-36—71, square with par, today. The Elmaford pro, swinging ahead of Sarazen by virtue of a subpar 34 on the outbound nine, delivered a par 36 coming back to take a 70 for the day.

Turnesa was one stroke behind Gene yesterday.

Joe Kirkwood, New York, followed Sarazen and Turnesa with a 71-70—141. Tommy Armour, Detroit, was next with 142 strokes. A stroke behind Armour as the leading 67 players were accepted for tomorrow's final 36-hole play, were Frank Walsh, Chicago, and Walter Kozak, North Hills, Long Island.

Hagen, Farrell and Cooper Grouped.

The 144 rung of the scoring ladder carried names of three famous threats, Lighthorse Harry Cooper, Chicago; Johnny Farrell, winner of the first La Gorce open in 1928, and Sir Walter Hagen. Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., and Wiffy Cox, and Willie Macfarlane, cowinners of this year's international four-ball matches at Miami, were tied at 145.

Wild Bill Mehlhorn, defending champion, had a 36 hole card of 146 with Willie Klein, Wheatley Hills, Long Island, and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del.

Gene's stellar long game of the first day was not as apparent today, but he made his strokes count in the pinches.

At the fifth, Gene rolled a 20-foot putt into the cup for a birdie three, but it was the only one putt green on his outbound trip.

Sarazen Finishes With Two Birdies.

Gene offered his last minute spurt at the seventeenth. Two long wood shots put him on the carpet. A run up putt went three feet beyond the pin, but he recovered for a birdie four. On the par four eighteenth his second shot, with a number one iron, laid 30 feet beyond the pin. A remarkable putt ran into the cup for a birdie.

Tournament officials said tonight the $3,500 La Gorce trophy, given to the high amateur, would not be presented this year because no amateur came within the qualifying group of 67 players.

Aces Rout Rockville Five, 70-24, in A. A. U. Tourney; County Sextet Triumphs

Russell Scores 28 Points in Beating Suburb Team.

Rockville Girls Win Over Chevy Chase by 35 to 26.

UNLIMITED CLASS—Capital Awning Aces, 70; Rockville, 24 (second round).

United Typewriter Uniteds, 72; Trinity M. E., 13 (second round).

130-POUND CLASS—Northwesterns, 2; Alexandria Clovers, 0 (forfeit, quarter-final round).

145-POUND CLASS—Crescents, 54; Swann's Service, 21 (second round).

JUNIOR GIRLS—Rockville Girls, 35; Chevy Chase Girls, 26 (first round).

RUNNING wild as no other team has run in the tournament, the Capital Awning Aces last night squelched the Rockville A. C. by the score, 70-to-24, in the District of Columbia A. A. U. championships in a game which showed the Awning boys to possess a scoring machine not surpassed by any club in the tournament which is being sponsored by The Washington Post.

The Rockville boys sensed defeat in the first few moments of play, when the great quintet of shooters began to unlimber. Their promonition justified the subsequent events, for by the time the half gun had sounded the Awning men were out on top by the score of 43-14. Nothing the Rockville guards and deputy guards could do could check the shooting of the eventual winners. From all corners of the floor the shots flowed through the cords in almost unending procession.

Everett Russell, captain of Tech High's 1931 team, turned in the neatest exhibition of a game which swarmed with neat exhibitions. Twenty-eight points came from his hands, 26 of these coming from the floor and the remaining two from the charity stripe. Nothing that Russell did last night was wrong, his passing and general floor play being on a par with his shooting.

He was given able backing by every member on the team.

The Awning team showed a distinct improvement in their team play, and gave warning that they are the outfit the winner of the unlimited division must beat to gain the coveted laurels.

Collins, of the losers, played the outstanding basket ball proffered by his side, but his fine play was shaded by the overwhelming shooting of the opposing outfit.

Crescents Win Easily Over Swann's Service.

The Crescents, crack 145-pound team, helped to make it a night in which high scores predominated when they took the Swann's Service tossers into camp by the score 54 to 21.

This was almost a repetition of the Capital Awning game. The Crescents were off to an early start and nothing the Swann's outfit could do mattered greatly.

That the Crescents loom as a contender for the crown the Saks Clothier are doped to win was visible to the large crowd last night. Before the half whistle sounded the score stood 27-8 in favor of the Crescents, Weigel, Thompson and Schaffert displaying shooting form of high caliber.

Swann's took a slight brace in the last half, all hands joining in the scoring, but by that time the Crescents were too far ahead to be harmed.

Rockville Sextette Beat Chevy Chase.

The Rockville Girls atoned in some measure for the defeat suffered by their brothers when they took a well-played 35-26 contest from the Chevy Chase girls, to go into the second round of the junior girls play.

The Rockville outfit stepped out briskly at the start of the fray, rolling up a 13-2 lead by the end of the first quarter, and holding a 22-15 advantage at the half.

Chevy Chase came back strongly in the third quarter and once approached to within reaching distance of the pace setters with the score of 20-18, but here the Rockville girls, with Miss Kanode exerting a vital influence over the basket, broke away once more, never to be headed.

Individual honors must be accorded Miss Woodley, of the losers, who scored 22 points, but her individual work could not cope with the combined excellence of Bennett, Keys and Kanode, the rival forwards.

Levinsky and O'Kelly Sign for Ring Clash

Boston, March 20 (A.P.).—King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, today agreed to meet Con O'Kelly, of Ireland, here for the Argonne A. A. on March 31. Levinsky knocked out Jack Gagnon on his first trip to the United States several years ago.

Coach Colrick Shifts Georgetown Infield

Walter Morris, lone Washingtonian on Georgetown's Baseball Team, has been shifted from third base to shortstop in the line-up being groomed by Coach Colrick to start the Hilltop season next Monday against Washington and Lee. The short field position is natural for Morris, but he played third base last season when the veteran Johnny Dunn was on hand.

Dick King has been nominated for the third base assignment.

British Golfing Ctar Seeks Florida Title

St. Augustine, Fla., March 20 (U.P.).—T. Philip Perkins, former British amateur champion, and Tommy Goodwin, Monroe, N. Y., 17 years old, will compete in final round play tomorrow for the Florida winter amateur golf championship.

Perkins defeated Jack Toomer, Jacksonville, 2 and 1, in a semifinal match today. Goodwin required 21 holes to oust Horace Cook, Princeton, N. J., 1 up. Cook was 2 up at the turn, but Goodwin evened the count and won with a birdie 4 on the third extra hole.

D. C. Police Marksmen Lose Second Match

The Washington Police Pistol Team dropped its second straight match in the intercity police marksmanship teats being conducted by the National Rifle Association, losing to the Dayton (Ohio) Police Team by the score of 935 to 909, it was announced yesterday.

The scores of the Washington shooters were: Fondahl, 193; Brodie, 181; Richitt, 179; Stewart, 179, and McCormick, 177.

Washington now stands last in the intercity league, with two losses and no wins. Cleveland holds first place, with two wins and no losses. Other cities entered are Boston, Dayton and the Massachusetts State Police Team.

Western Mas Brighter Prespects for Track

Track and field at Western is beginning to perk up this year with the acquisition of several new performers. As in recent years, however, the Western team will scarcely see ten men in its ranks.

Bill Beers, a veteran of two years running, has shown Coach Dan Ahern good early season form in hurdling, and can be relied upon to press the more notorious timber shavers in the scholastic meets this season.

Bob Sherwin, the 6 foot 3 substitute basket ball center is rapidly rounding into a notable high jumper, clearing the bamboo at 5 feet 9 consistently. Showing good form in this week's workouts is Joe Tilson, whose forte is the "mile."

Navy's Hopes In Ring Meet Jolted

Fitzgerald, 125-Pound Entry, Beaten by Syracuse Man.

Hall Enters Finals in 145-Pound Class by Easy Win.

Special to The Washington Post.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 20.—The Naval Academy's hopes in the Eastern Intercollegiate boxing tournament suffered a severe jolt tonight when Midshipman Jack Fitzgerald, first Navy boxer to enter the ring, was eliminated by Al Wertheimer, Syracuse 125-pounder, after an extra round.

Fitzgerald had been regarded as a potential finalist, in the second night of the program tomorrow having won the 125-pound title in 1929.

Wertheimer outboxed his Navy opponent throughout the bout but Fitzgerald evened matters by slugging at every opportunity and Referee John Lucas ordered an extra round before giving the decision to Syracuse.

Coach Spike Webb, of Navy, pulled a surprise in the 135-pound division by substituting erb Fulmer for Capt. Ford Wallace and Fulmer delivered the goods by outpointing Harry Wolanin, of Syracuse, who two weeks ago defeated Wallace in a dual meet. Wolanin took the first round, but Fulmer came back strong in the second and carried the third round by a wide margin.

Fulmer will be fighting his third intercollegiate fight when he meets Capt. Crosby, of Western Maryland, in the finals tomorrow evening. He knocked out Crosby in a dual meet last week.

Hall Gains Finals In Easy Fashion.

Hall, 145-pound champion, gave Navy it's second victory of the evening when he pounded out a three-round decision over Milt Borchers, Western Maryland fighter. Borchers put up a game fight, but Hall had a clear edge throughout the bout, flooring his opponent as th e second round ended. Hall's victory set the stage for a battle royal in the finals since Ad Lewis, of Penn State, earned the right to meet him by defeating Orsa, of Syracuse, in the other semifinal bout.

Bert Davis, Navy 160-pounder, pulled the biggest upset of the evening by punching his way to a decision over Joe Morgan, Syrcause knockout star, who knocked him out in a dual meet just two weeks ago. Davis carried very round in impressive style, matching punch for punch with Morgan and emerging the winner in every alugfest. Morgan's record of fourteen straight knockouts had made him the pre-tournament favorite, and it was his first defeat in intercollegiate competition.

Oxford-Cambridge Face 83d Race Today

Although second choices in the betting, the Dark Blue of Oxford was conceded an excellent chance of snapping Cambridge's string of seven straight victories and tie the century-old rivalry at 41 triumphs apiece.

Special trains, automobiles, buses and even larplanes will bring "old grads" and just plain citizens to witness the biggest free-event on the English sports calendar. Indications were that almost all of the nine miles of standing room along the Thames banks from Putney to Mortlake's Brewery will be taken long before the race is scheduled to start at 2:20 p. m. Greenwich time (9:20 a. m Eastern time).

WHITE SOX CHANCES DEPEND ON NEWCOMERS

Manager Donie Bush, of the White Sox, is depending on a crop of newcomers to life his club out of the seventh place it dropped into last year. Luke Appling, former collegian, is expected to start at shortstop; Walter "Butch" Henline, from the International League, is likely to see much service behind the plate; Mel Simons, a .371 hitter with Louisville last year, is slated for an outfield berth, and Vic Frasier, who preferred the farm last year, is a good looking pitching prospect.

BELL BEATS SHIELDS IN UPSET

Wins 4-Set Match, Enters Final Round With Borotra.

NEW YORK, March 20 (U.P.).—Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., whose mission in life, it would seem, is the upsetting of the mighty, will meet Jean Borotra, of France, in the final round of the national indoor tennis championships here tomorrow.

Bell earned the right to contest the Bounding Basque for the title by defeating Frank Shields, of New York, 9—11, 6—4, 12—10, 6—4, in the most bitterly fought indoors match in years.

To say that Bell's victory came as a surprise is putting it mildly, indeed. Better say it matched his first-round defeat of Borotra in the nationals at Forest Hills last year. Bell ranked No. 11 in the national standings, or exactly nine notches below Shields.

The doubles results surprised no one, Borotra and his countryman, Christian Boussus, defeating Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans, and Pierre Landry, of France, 7—5, 6—4, 5—7, 6—4. The issue never was in doubt, the two B's excelling their opponents in all departments of paly.

Battle of Services In Singles.

But to get back to the Bell-Shields melee. The match in the main was a service battle, particularly the first set which followed service until the twentieth game when Shields broke through.

Shields began the second set as though he meant to apologize for the length of the first frame by running out a love set. Undiamayed, Bell rallied and reeled off four straight games and finally took game and set on Bell's service.

The third set was marked by Bell's acrobatics and fatigue. His fatigue reached such a point at the end of the eighteenth game that he was forced to stretch out on the court for a few minutes' rest.

When he finally broke through Shields' service in the twenty-second

Nats Are Given Slight Edge Over A's

THE YANKEES are not in the picture, and the battle for the American League pennant is going to be fought out between Washington and Philadelphia again, according to Martin Berman in a letter to The Post's Baseball Editor yesterday. And, continues Mr. Berman, who lives at 903 Monroe street northwest, Washington is going to win out after a hard struggle by reason of the fact that the team has greater balance, and therefore greater consistency than the Macks.

Mr. Berman admits that Foxx, Simmons and Cochrane at their best can not be duplicated on the Washington team, but he states that when this trio of stitch breakers are functioning on all cylinders the rest of the Athletics are invariably off their stride.

Nats Seen Consistent Team

With Washington things are different. Cronin, Judge, Rice, Manush and the others stand practically shoulder to shoulder in all-around baseball dexterity. There will be times when they will appear "run of the mill players" compared to Foxx, Simmons and Cochrane, but those times will be few and inconsequential in the long run, Mr. Berman believes.

Washington's great reserve strength is going to be fully appreciated this year, for the race is going to be hot and the veterans are liable to fall beneath the pace.

For his opening day lineup Mr. Berman picks Myer, second base; S. Rice, right field; Manush, left field; Cronin, short stop; Judge, first base; West, center field, and Bluege, third base.

The end of The Post's contest for those six box seats to the opening game is drawing close. The rules are simple enough. Write 250 words on where you think the team will finish this year and why, and who will be in the lineup when camp at Biloxi breaks. Write only on one side of the paper, and let's have some reasons for your choices.

REDS BEATEN BY MACKS' ROOKIES

Three Young Pitchers Limit Cincinnati to Four Hits.

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 20 (A. P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics overpowered the Cincinnati Reds by the score of 3 to 2 today. Three juvenile pitchers—Lew Krausse, Bill Dietrich and Hank McDonald—worked three innings each and disposed of the Reds in easy fashion by allowing only four hits.

The Athletics made on of their runs off Larry Benton, the Cincinnati ace, and made most of their blows count. Score:

Babe's First Homer Futile; Braves Win.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 20 (A.P.). Babe Ruth connected with his first home run of the year today, but Wally Berger also got one and the Boston Braves defeated the New York Yankees, 7 to 6, for their second victory in seven starts against the American League club.

The Babe's circuit clout came in thethird, with two mates on bases, and pulled the Yanks up on even terms. Berger connected with his homer in the last half of the ninth with the score tied.

Indians Powerless Against Pelicans.

New Orleans, La., March 20 (A.P.). The batting hurricane of the Cleveland Indians became a faint breeze before masterful hurling of Johnson, Bryant and Perrin, of New Orleans, today and the Indians lost their second straight exhibition game, 8-1. While the Indians made five scattered hits the Pelicans combed Recruit Hildebrand, of Indianapolis, and Veteran Jablonowski for 14, including two home runs.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns today won their fifth straight victory here by defeating Buffalo, 8-4, in an exhibition game. A brother battery handled the delivery duties for the Browns, Marvin Ferrell, a recruit, who will go to Milwaukee, pitching, and Big Brother Dick Ferrell on the receiving end. A third brother, George, was in left field for the visiting Bisons.

The Texans rallied to tie the score with rallies of 7 and 2 runs in the fifth and sixth, and had the winning run on base when the game ended.

Annapolis Sport Card For Tomorrow Meagre

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 20.—With the boxers, swimmers and gymnasts all away from base participating in intercollegiate finals, and other indoor teams having completed their schedules, only two competitions will take place at the Naval Academy tomorrow. These will be the semifinals of the intercollegiate fencing bouts between teams of the Southern division and a shoulder-to-shoulder rifle match with the marksmen of West Virginia University.

The score of the Middy riflists will also be credited in a telegraphic match with George Washington University.

Fidler, Solved In 1st Inning, Steadies

Regulars Quit Muddy Field After Spring Hill Gets Lead.

Recruits Score Five in Third; Each Team Held to Five Hits.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 20.—But for one bad inning this afternoon, the Spring Hill College players might have made things hot for the Nationals, but they blew up in the third, and this round, which netted five runs, enabled Johnson's crew to win handily, 7 to 3. The game was called after the visitors had hit in the eighth.

Shortly after noon rain started falling and the game was played in a drizzle and on a heavy diamond, with only a handful of cash customers present. In order to save his regulars, Johnson yanked them after two innings, and it was the second-stringers who pulled the game out of the fire, for the collegians had started off with a three-run lead.

Art Fidler and Joe Smith did the Nat hurling, the former getting off badly, but then settling down, and the trio of counters tallied by Spring Hill in the opening session was all they were able to collect. A base on balls, followed by Gilgere's triple over Manush's head and Bellande's homer to left center did the damage. Bellande, by the way, was the hitting hero of the day, cracking out two lusty doubles later in the game.

Fidler Makes Two Clean Singles.

Fidler worked five frames and granted four hits, while Smith yielded but one. Fidler also was credited with two of the Nats' quintet of safeties, both being clean drives.

In the home half of the first, Kurham, Spring Hill ace, a powerful southpaw, was in plenty of trouble, having the bases loaded with but one dead, the result of Myer's opening single and two passes. He then forced one run over before getting out of trouble.

The Nats' third decided the game. It netted five runs on hits by Harry Rice and Kuhel, a base on balls, a three-base error by Tucker and a fly which was deep enough to let a runner score after this catch. Fidler singled in this round, but the blow was not used.

Some fancy base running by Harry Rice helped the Nats to their final counter in the next frame. He was given life on an error and then pilfered second and third, registering on an out.

Neither side threatened after this round.

Kenna Hastened His Release.

Catcher Ed Kenna packed up and left by automobile for Chattanooga this morning after having been advised by President Clark Griffith that the Nationals had decided not to complete the deal which would make him the property of the Washington Club.

The Nat owner had planned to keep Kenna, along with several others which Chattanooga probably will ultimately get, until the team goes to the Lookout City while en route toward home. But the little catcher brought the matter to a head himself.

Kenna quickly read the handwriting on the wall when so much attention was given Cliff Bolton and put it up to Griffith to make the decision at once. Mrs. Kenna and Eddie, jr., are here and were planning to motor on to Washington ahead of the team. This would have made it necessary for them to make the long trip back to Chattanooga if no decision was made until the last minute. When Eddie laid his cards on the table this morning, the Nat owner admitted that the player was slated to go and he was on his way to rejoin Joe Engel's gang less than two hours later.

President Griffith this morning,

Gar Wood Speeds 102.2 Miles Per Hour In Shattering Water Record of Segrave

Lays Claim to World Mark Following 2 Two-Way Runs.

By REX SAFFER.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Gar Wood, millionaire speedboat racer, sent his Miss America IX skimming over placid waters here today at more than 100 miles an hour and laid claim to new world speedboat records for both the statute and nautical miles.

He claimed the record for the statute mile with a speed of 101.154 miles an hour and an international record for the nautical mile with a speed of 102.256 miles an hour.

Odis A. Porter, American Automobile Association timer and representative of the American Power Boat Association, clocked Wood's runs, which were made on Indian Creek near the racer's winter home.

The first two-way run of the day, over the statute mile course, was officially clocked for an average speed of 100.6 miles an hour, but will not be offered by Wood in his claim for world speedboat supremacy.

The 101.154 miles an hour mark, set shortly after noon over the statute mile course, will, if accepted, supersede the 98.76 miles an hour world's record set last year at Lake Windemere, England, by the late Sir Henry O. D. Segrave, of England.

FIELD OF 11 IN $140,000 MEXICO STAKE TOMORROW

Sun Beau Bids For Money Record

Can Top Gallant Fox for All-Time Mark If Victorious.

Mike Hall and Pigeon Hole Chief Rivals in Coast Classic.

Special to The Washington Post.

AGUA CALIENTE, BAJA CALIFORNIA, Mexico, March 20.—Highly conditioned thoroughbreds await the bugle's call to the barrier in the second renewal of the $140,000 Agua Caliente Handicap Sunday.

Eleven steeds, including the American champion, Sun Beau, are scheduled to go postward, providing the track remains fast. In the event of mud at least one more goes into the colossal combat.

The youthful James Nugent Crofton, president of the Agua Caliente Jockey Club, guarantees the winner will receive not less than $100,000. The second horse draws $10,000, the third $5,000 and the fourth $2,500.

If Sun Beau wins he will bowl over Gallant Fox and Zev, to become the world's greatest money winning thoroughbred. It was for this reason that he made the trip to the Mexican course. Sun Beau, at the present time, holds fourth place with close to $271,000 to his credit. Gallant Fox before permanently retired, annexed $328,165, having passed Zev, $313,639, during the 1930 season. Thus, Sun Beau, in hauling down the Agua Caliente Handicap, forges ahead of Gallant Fox with plenty to spare.

Favorite Opposed
By Brilliant Field.

Sun Beau has no path of roses before him. Mustered against him are some of the finest horses in the land, Mike Hall and Pigeon Hole, pride of Kentucky; the great mare, Lady Broadcast, recognized as the leader of her sex; Sandy Ford, winner of the Dixie Handicap and lately the sensation of Miami racing; the New York pair, Vanity and Caruso; The Choctaw, Audley farms sleeper, which awakened Sunday, California's two mightiest thoroughbreds, Ervast and Alexander Pantages, and the outsider, Plucky Play.

Sun Beau has ruled favorite since the day "future book" odds were first announced. The public believes he will win, as witness the bulk of money ventured on his chances, and his form at Agua Caliente in two races under colors indicates he goes into the clash in the height of condition. His Fashion Stakes victory was accomplished with such ease that many came to the opinion he would gallop in the big race. Subsequent happenings have disproven this contention.

Sun Beau Beaten
In Other Stakes.

The powerful races of Mike Hall, Pigeon Hole, The Choctaw, Sandy Ford, Vanity and Alexander Pantages in recent days, indicate Sun Beau will meet sterling competition. Ere this the Willis Sharpe Kilmer satellite has met defeat in important events. Interference and trouble may come to Sun Beau, and he is a horse, of long stride, which does not recover quickly. An outside post position would aid him immensely. Jockey Coltiletti has orders to take to the middle of the track if necessary.

Mike Hall ran a smashing race recently. The former cup champion may prove the one to beat. Pigeon Hole must be reckoned very formidable. These two start as an entry.

Lady Broadcast, fit as hands can make a mare, proved time and again in Eastern racing that she can run over a distance of ground under a package of weight. She beat Sun Beau last summer at Chicago. The probable entry list follows:

Horse and Jockey.	Wgt.
Schooner (A. Fischer)	102
The Choctaw (W. Moran)	90
Caruso (W. Kern)	110
Vanity (L. Cunningham)	110

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

EARLY one morning in the year 1826, Franz Schubert was breakfasting in a tavern with several friends. While quietly sipping his tea, he noticed one of his friends reading a translation of Shakespeare's Cymbaline. In looking over the book, Schubert came to the words, "Hark, hark, the lark." He exclaimed, "If only I had paper here, I have just the right setting for this poem." His friends quickly ruled the back of a bill of fare for him, and in less than twenty minutes Schubert had composed his beautiful song, with complete harmony.

Rabbits suffer a great deal from people lifting them by the ears. Contrary to the popular notion, this is not the correct way to lift a rabbit, in fact it hurts them. The proper way to pick up the bunny is to seize its skin just behind the shoulders.

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Elks Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth, is the headliner today at St. John's Park. EQUATION seems to be coming to hand, having run third to Prometheus and Elfice last out, and the longer route today will improve his chances. TYPHOON, after winning two races in a row, was third to LAHOR in his last. He also is a route horse and may beat LAHOR, also entered in the race for place money. PLAYFELLOW'S DREAM appears unable to beat any kind of field this winter.

FIRST RACE—STRETCHER should win, but there are several in the balanced field that have a chance. VALLEY should be a keen contender. ROLLING SEA has not started at this track, but may prove a surprise.

SECOND RACE — CALWICK looks best in the second, 6 furlongs, but will have STURDY to beat. HAZEL GUMBERTS, a beaten favorite, should get third money.

THIRD RACE—The third race is a mile and a sixteenth, which points to LONDON ROCK as the most probable winner, for he closed fast against Florian on Monday and was only beaten a head. SUN RANGER is a sleeper and very dangerous. MADDER has a chance for the show money.

FIFTH RACE—MUD looks like the outstanding prospect on the card. He was beaten last out by a head by the improved Prometheus, in one of the fastest races of the meeting and would have won in another jump. ALL COLUMBIA looks like the probable contender. PERKINS may deserve a better placing than third, but he is so inconsistent.

SIXTH RACE—OUR DOCTOR, winning his first start since arriving from Havana, should repeat. BROWN GOLD should run second. RONALD GREY may hold the others safe.

SEVENTH RACE—COLONEL GILMORE has shown steady improvement and in his last race he was a jam-up third to Highland Fling. He should win the seventh race at a mile and three-sixteenths. This increased distance will improve his chances. ICARUS should be the contender, with JAMES M. next best.

Owner of Sun Beau, Fearing Long Delay, Seeks to Bar Entry

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 20 (A.P.).—The shadow of McGonigle, bay gelding of the Green Briar Stable, a fractious horse at the start, today clouded the path of the second annual Agua Caliente $100,000 Handicap for Sun Beau, favorite to win the classic and become greatest money winner of all time.

Not that McGonigle was expected to poke his nose across the finish line first, but that his antics at the start were likely to diminish the chances of the thoroughbreds packing large imposts, by delaying the race and wearing them down.

Trainer J. D. McGinn said he intended starting McGonigle, and Willis Sharpe Kilmer, owner of Sun Beau, was expected to appear before the racing stewards and find out why the horse should be allowed to run, inasmuch as he had only the smallest chance of placing. A few days ago McGonigle's action delayed the start of a race ten minutes.

afey Fails to Sign
After Conference.

Bradenton, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—Charles "Chick" Hafey, only unsigned member of the 1931 Cardinals, held a conference with Branch Rickey, vice president and chief persuader, this morning, but no agreement was reached on salary terms.

Rickey emerged from the conference gesticulating and perturbed. Rumors that a deal with the Phillies, with Hafey involved, were circulated, but they appeared to have no foundation in fact. It was said further negotiations with Hafey would await the return of Sam Breadon, owner of the Cardinals, from a fishing trip.

Robins Havana-Bound
As Vance Holds Out.

Miami, Fla., March 20 (A.P.).—The Brooklyn Robins set sail for Havana late today but Arthur Charles (Dazzy) Vance, great righthander, was not among them.

Vance, a determined holdout, seeks $25,000 for the 1931 season, and the club thinks that's $2,500 too much. Five games between the Rookies and Regulars will be played in Havana.

Giants Disperse
For Exhibitions.

San Antonio, Tex., March 20 (A.P.): The New York Giants' representation in this city tonight had dwindled to Manager John McGraw and the young right-handed pitcher, LeRoy Parmalee. The rest of the boys had embarked for Houston, Beaumont, and other cities for exhibition games. McGraw decided he did not feel like accompanying the team and Parmalee could not if he wanted to. He woke up this morning with influenza.

Olympic Lacrosse Series Is Sought for D. C. in 1932

BALTIMORE, Md., March 20.—The entire Olympic lacrosse try-out series of 1932 is being sought by Washington as part of the bicentennial celebration, it was learned today. Maj. R. B. Lawrence, of the Bicentennial Commission, has discussed a proposition to that end with Charles L. Ornstein, chairman of the Olympic lacrosse committee, but the latter has reserved answer until after the matter has been placed before the entire committee.

The Olympic body will be called into session in the near future at Washington, New York or Baltimore to consider this and other matters requiring its attention.

Athletics Big Part Of Celebration.

The celebration of the 200th anniversary of the birthday of George Washington will have an elaborate athletic program. Since it comes in the Olympic year, plans call for the participation of as many foreign athletes on their way to the games in Los Angeles as possible. There will be polo, equestrian sports, swimming, track, long distance running, wrestling, boxing and football games, for the celebration wil lextend from February 22 to the end of the year.

A request for the 1932 track and field championship of the amaetur athletic union already has been made.

One of the arguments for the lacrosse series was advanced along the following line: Inasmuch as this anniversary honors the natal day of the Father of the Nation, it is particularly fitting that a competition in lacrosse, the Indian sport which is the oldest game of the country, be played as part of the program.

Seek Griff Stadium
For Contests.

In advancing the proposal, Maj. Lawrence said that efforts would be made to obtain the Griffith Stadium.

Washington responded well from the standpoint of attendance at the semifinal games of the tryout series of 1928. A double-header was played with Maryland meeting Army and Johns Hopkins playing Navy at the Central High School Stadium.

Cambria Is Undecided As to Place for Team

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va. March 20.—Joe Cambria, Baltimore sportsman, who owns a franchise in the Middle Atlantic League, has not yet definitely decided in which city he will place a club this season, he stated today. Conversing with the local moguls, Cambria said he was still considering both Hagerstown and Martinsburg, with the Maryland city favored in the event Sunday baseball there is legalized, and Martinsburg the likely location if there is no Sunday play.

STOCKS CLOSE HIGH ON DRIVE ON SHORTS

Profit Taking Prevails on Market, but Fails to Depress List.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The stock market had to contend with profit taking today, but closed irregularly higher, thanks largely to a late drive against the shorts in a few issues.

It was apparent that the flush given to speculation for the advance by the midweek steel news had paled and that professionals were willing to realize on the rally. The market made an impressive start under the guidance of the steels and chemicals, lost its zest when volume began to shrink and then came back in the last hour as the bulls engineered a squeeze in Westinghouse, Auburn and Stone & Webster. Nevertheless, there was a sprinkling of small net losses in important issues. The day's turnover of 2,700,000 shares was 800,000 smaller than Thursday's.

General Motors continued to reflect strong pool support and made another new high, rising nearly a point net. The advance in Westinghouse amounted to more than 4. Directors of that company meet for dividend action next week, and the late run-in of the shorts suggested a belief that the $1.25 quarterly payment might be retained. Stone & Webster, up 3 points, was conspicuous among the utilities, which, on the whole, were subjected to profit taking.

U. S. Steel's best effort was a fractional rise to 150⅛, a new top for the movement, attained in the forenoon. It tired thereafter and was off ¾ net at the close. American Telephone lost a point, but American Can, Radio, American Smelting, Hudson Motors, Studebaker, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, Safeway Stores and American Water Works finished higher.

The tone of the market was improved substantially by the action of the rails, especially New York Central, which held two-thirds of a 3 point rise. Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago Northwestern, Atchison, Union Pacific, Pennsylvania, New Haven and Katy gained under the stimulus of the covering.

Aviation shares were active and stronger, reflecting approval of the first batch of new Government contracts. Buoyant specialties included National Surety, up more than 9 at the top; McKeesport Tin Plate, National Lead, U. S. Freight and Drug, Inc., U. S. Industrial Alcohol's break of several points was considered in relation to the approaching dividend meeting. National Cash Register also sagged.

BONDS MORE ACTIVE THOUGH IRREGULAR

Sales Total $10,800,000 as Market Eases After Federal Action.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—The bond market was irregular and more active today. Sales totaled $10,800,000 compared with $9,300,000 on Thursday.

The decline in call money to 1 per cent, the lowest rate since June 1915, failed to stimulate the demand, probably because this extreme ease was regarded as a temporary aftermath from the large Government deposits after the quarterly operations at the beginning of the week. However, it was regarded as unusual for a recession in the money market to occur when withdrawals from Government depositories throughout the country approximated $50,000,000 as happened yesterday.

Obligations of the United States experienced another selling wave. The Treasury 4¼s were the most active and declined more than ½ point, a big loss for this group where the fluctuations always are narrow. The other issues of this group closed lower also.

Most foreign bonds closed higher but weakness was notable in some of them. Issues of the Argentine, Bolivian and Australian national governments were usually lower although the obligations of the subdivisions of those countries were steady to strong.

Price changes among domestic obligations were divided about evenly between gains and declines. Strength and activity among American Telephone issues featured the public utilities. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s made a good gain but Warner Brothers Pictures 6s moved in the opposite direction.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—Cotton prices were easier today under near-month liquidation and more or less local and New Orleans selling, prompted by easier Liverpool cables and in absence of more than a moderate amount of buying.

The preliminary final ginning report by the Census Bureau, showing a falling off of 313,000 bales of the equivalent of 500 pounds from the December Government crop estimate, was apparently discounted and failed to have any noticeable influence on the market. The May position declined to 10.86, a loss of 15 points, and closed at 10.90, a net decline of 11 points, while the general market closed steady at 7 to 11 points net lower.

The opening was steady, unchanged to 7 points lower and was influenced by some active selling by houses with New Orleans connections, as well as by commission houses and local traders. The decline at Liverpool apparently inspired a little selling here, and the fact that the ginning report failed to stimulate buying was believed to indicate that the trade had assimilated a loss from the Government figures, due to a considerable amount of cotton being left unpicked in the fields.

During the day there was apparent disposition to liquidate the new-crop positions, and there was a good deal of executing from the interior. For some months the demand was small until late in the session, when moderate orders were received and a partial rally from the early lows followed. The July price declined to 11.11, and closed at 11.14, while October sold down to 11.43 and closed at 11.47.

Rains over the Southwest were looked upon as favorable and served to offset further evidences of a decrease in sales of fertilizers and materials that little preparation is being made to counteract insect damage by poisoning.

Liverpool cables said that the market there had been influenced by hedging and continental liquidation and said that Manchester was quieter, with only a moderate cloth turnover. Spot sales today, 7,000, making 5,464,419 so far this season. Port receipts, 13,354. United States port stocks, 3,831,454.

DECREASE IN INCOME TAX FUND FORECAST

$194,945,837 Collected in Month, and Is Drop Over Last Year.

(Associated Press.)

Sharply decreased income tax collections for the first quarter of 1930 were visualized yesterday by Treasury officials as they studied latest reports of receipts from that source.

Before them the officials had the report for Wednesday, the latest available, which showed only $88,691,515 had been collected that day compared with $214,534,548 for the corresponding day last year.

It was explained the figures to be announced today would show more accurately what the Treasury can expect from the 1930 tax, but officials described reports already received as "discouraging."

Meanwhile, Senator Borah (Republican), Idaho, said he believed an increase in taxes would be necessary but he declined to say when he thought it should go into effect.

The report for Wednesday brought the collections for the month to $194,945,837 compared with $314,200,558 last year and for the fiscal year to $1,386,376,961, compared with $1,566,834,700 last year.

Should the report today show an appreciable drop it will be accepted as indicating that the total this year will not be nearly as great as last year.

In some quarters fear was expressed that the decline for the month might be as much as $150,000,000 from $559,000,000 collected in March, 1930.

Last Wednesday the Treasury had a deficit of $361,045,372 and statistics issued by the Internal Revenue Bureau showed taxes of all kinds had decreased $121,631,971 in the first eight months of this fiscal year.

Other Decreases Shown.

In that time corporations paid $642,306,807 in income taxes, as compared with $666,057,085 in the same period last year, while individuals paid $533,988,593, compared with $590,880,671.

Other items also showed sharp decreases. The tobacco tax dropped off $6,384,893 in the ten months and the cigarette tax declined $2,000,000. The documentary stamp tax, which includes sale of bonds, stocks and transfer of securities, dropped off $22,878,373.

The Treasury is not expected to issue any statement on the income tax situation until after it receives the figures for next Monday. These will be made public Wednesday. In previous years officials have announced their estimate for the month as soon as the figures for the seventh day had been received.

Rumors Persist In Trade Upturn

Dun and Bradstreet Are Optimistic for Early Improvements.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—Continued growth of evidences of business betterment are seen by the weekly mercantile reviews.

Dun's tomorrow will say: "Evidences of business betterment grow more distinct as the close of the first quarter draws nearer, there having been a gradual upturn from the unusually low level of activity at the last year-end. The gains now disclosed are scattered and in most cases only moderate, yet the movement is strengthened by some supporting phases which tend to increase confidence."

Bradstreet's tomorrow will say: "The same deliberate growth in trade and industry previously noted continues as the spring season, according to the almanac, opens. At the same time the confirmation comes from State and national sources of the earlier reported slight expansion in manufacturing activities in February, while the elapsed portion of March has furnished evidence that a still more marked increase in employment of both indoor and outdoor labor has occurred.

Savior of Trade In Cycle Expected

"What Will Bring New Reign of Prosperity?" Economists Ask.

New York, March 20 (A.P.).—What will bring us a new cycle of prosperity? This is the question that economists are asking. They recall that business was picked out of the depression of 1921 by booms in building and automobiles. A shortage in building had accumulated during the war years, and a new and modern type of motor car filled a new need.

There is no great shortage of our present type of building. The motor industry is pulling nothing radically new out of its bag which the consumer at once feels he can not do without. The airplane is still far from the backyard, and television is yet in the laboratory.

Moody's says a new industry may be developing under our very eyes and yet invisible to the trained observer. "One might do worse than to suppose one of the first of the new industries to be recognized in the not very distant future may be a completely reorganized and revitalized building industry, developed to fill an old want in a new way."

Gigantic Nitrate Combine Formed

$300,000,000 Involved in Plan to Renew Major Chilean Industry.

Santiago, Chile, March 20 (A.P.).—Steps for the rejuvenation of the nitrate industry were completed today when a $300,000,000 cooperative combine was formed by the Chilean government and producers.

Crystallizing into fact the hopes of years, the constitution of the Chilean Nitrate Corporation was signed by the government and the producers and was approved by President Ibanez of Chile.

Premier Castro Ruiz announced the combine now was ready to do business and told the Associated Press a world agreement with synthetic nitrate producers would be renewed, assuring stabilization of the world market. It is said New York bankers had cooperated greatly in the financing of the combine. It was understood $35,000,000 worth of bonds would be offered in New York Monday as the public's share in the corporation.

Wheat Producers Owe Banks $68,000,000

Edmonton, Alta., March 20 (A.P.).—More than $68,000,000 was owed to Canadian banks by the Canadian Cooperative Wheat Producers, Ltd., central selling agency for the Western wheat pools, in September, 1930, according to correspondence tabled in the Alberta Legislature today by Premier Brownlee.

In September last, the correspondence reveals, the pool traded in wheat and required advances of $561,000 to protect their long position. The correspondence became public when Premier Brownlee moved second reading of a bill to validate provincial guarantees to the banks of loans to the Western wheat pools.

Ingalls, Officers View Bristol Aircraft Plant

Bristol, Pa., March 20 (A.P.).—David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, accompanied by four officers of the Navy, today inspected the plant of the Keystone Aircraft Corporation and the progress of the work on the Navy planes being constructed here.

The corporation is building eighteen twin-motored patrol ships, 25 amphibian planes and a number of experimental observation type planes. The party came from Washington in four planes and returned to the Capital this afternoon.

BUSINESS MEN PLAN CRUISE OF BOOSTERS

Merchants, Manufacturers to Resume Outings on Potomac and Bay.

The annual "Boosters'" outings of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, discontinued in 1930, will be resumed again this year under a program worked out yesterday at a meeting of the board of governors of the organization.

A boat of the Norfolk & Washington Steamboat Co. will be chartered by the association. Laden with Washington business men, the vessel will cruise the Potomac and Chesapeake from June 12 to 15, stopping at various points to boost Washington markets and business interests.

A definite itinerary will be worked out by the 1931 Boosters' committee, headed by Dr. Malcolm G. Gibbs, at a luncheon April 7 at the Olmstead Grill. The outing, until last year, had been an annual event in the association's calendar for twenty years.

The board yesterday framed a letter to the District Commissioners protesting "unlicensed" vending of goods on downtown Washington streets. Pedlars, the association contended, are flagrantly violating the law by sale of articles on streets where no stands have been assigned them.

The Commissioners were requested to provide greater illumination in the H street underpass beneath the approach to the Washington terminal, which was declared to constitute a hazard to traffic under present lighting conditions.

North Beach Streets Ready April 1.

Streets under construction in North Beach, Md., will be ready for use by April 1, Mayor M. O. Lane announced last night. Beginning tomorrow, he said, church services will be held each Sunday. Mass will be held at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning in the Catholic Church.

FURLOUGHS OF U. S. PRINTING EMPLOYES ARE TO BE REDUCED

Cut to Become Effective on April 1 and Continue Rest of Year.

BUREAU WORKERS HAIL ACTION WITH DELIGHT

Move Is Made Possible by Transfer of 25 Women to Another Section.

Reduction of the much fought over furloughs of employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing was announced yesterday to bureau employes by Clark R. Long, acting director of the bureau, in a formal memorandum.

The reduction in the furloughs, which have been in effect for months, will become effective on April 1 and continue throughout the remainder of the current fiscal year, Mr. Long said.

Plate printers employed in the bureau will have their furloughs reduced from five to three days a month.

Printer's assistants and women operatives of the bureau will have their furloughs reduced from three days to one day a month.

Plate finishers and pressmen will have their furloughs reduced from two days to one day a month.

Additional work necessitated by a new Treasury bond issue and the transfer of 25 women operatives of the bureau to another bureau of the Treasury made the reduction in furloughs possible, Mr. Long said.

Transfer of Employes.

Although Mr. Long refused to go beyond the wording of the formal notice of planned reductions in furloughs it is said that even with the transfer of employes and the reductions in the bureau force, the total of employes still is larger than is necessary to do the requisite work and the furlough will be continued to take up the slack.

"From present indications," Mr. Long said in his announcement, "it appears that funds available for pay roll expenditures in the bureau will be increased during the remainder of the fiscal year, 1931, for the reason that a large order for bonds has been received from the Treasury and in addition that the Treasury plans to request the transfer of approximately 25 female operatives to another bureau of the department.

"Due to this increase in reimbursable work and the contemplated reduction of female operatives it will be possible to effect substantial reductions in the present furlough schedule.

"The revised schedule of furloughs therefore, effective April 1, will be as follows: Plate printers, three days; printer's assistants, operatives, plate finishers and pressmen, one day."

Bureau Workers Delighted.

Reduction of the furloughs was hailed with delight by Bureau workers, although it had been forecast by Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills recently when he protested against injection of the Saturday half-holiday issue into the furlough reduction question, but announced that if other conditions warranted reducing the furloughs it would be announced through formal communication to employes.

The reduction in furloughs announced yesterday, although highly pleasing to representatives of the workers, does not meet the issue raised by the National Federation of Federal Employes on behalf of the employes. The Federation contended that the Saturday half-holiday law should absorb at least two days a month of the former three-day furlough.

Treasury officials declared this could not be accomplished because no additional funds for hire of employes were provided by Congress and the law forbade creation of a deficit. Luther C. Steward president, and Gertrude M. McNally, secretary-treasurer of the Federation, however, contended that Congress authorized creation of a deficit when it enacted the half-holiday law and asked that the question be put up to the Comptroller General for decision.

This has not been done, but the workers' representatives are expected to push the matter for a decision and if it is favorable to their contention furloughs will be entirely eliminated in the bureau.

PERMISSION ASKED TO SCRAP BUS LINE

Foxhall Village System Is Object of Petition for Abandonment.

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. yesterday petitioned the Public Utilities Commission for permission to abandon the Foxhall Village-Potomac Heights Bus Line, because it is being operated at a loss.

The petition declared that neither the patronage nor the revenue on the line merits its continuance. The commission will probably act on the request at its Monday meeting next week and set a hearing.

Five years ago the bus line was started to serve Foxhall Village, following a prolonged controversy, when Boss & Phelps, developers of the residential section, underwrote the undertaking. About two years ago the service was extended to Potomac Heights. The line begins at Thirty-sixth street and Reservoir road.

The chief reason for the request of the railway company, it was explained, is that the contract with the real estate firm expired on March 12 and has not been renewed. A mass of statistics were submitted with the petition showing the lack of patronage and the cost of transportation, but these were not made public.

While no other public transportation service is available with the convenience of the bus line, which runs over Reservoir and Conduit roads, the Glen Echo street car line connects with a part of Foxhall Village.

Residents of Kennedy street, between Thirteenth street and Colorado avenue, yesterday filed a "remonstrance" with the commission against the plan of the Capital Traction Co. to establish a side track within that area as a part of the undertaking intended to improve service to and from Takoma Park.

The petition declared that the switch would injure the property values in the district, would interfere with parking, and is unnecessary.

Earl V. Fisher, executive secretary, wrote in reply that the commission had already approved the plan and considered the side track necessary, but that it would give consideration to the protests.

Warners to Make Bicentennial Film

Washington to Be Setting for $60,000 Talking Picture in 1932.

Washington will be the setting for a $60,000 talking motion picture to be produced by Warner Brothers in connection with the George Washington Bicentennial celebration, it was announced yesterday at a meeting of the bicentennial committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The film will be distributed during 1932 as a contribution to the celebration, and will be made available for schools and colleges and will be shown in Warner Brothers theaters throughout the country, a subcommittee composed of Sidney Lust, local theater operator, and Julian Brylawski, official of the local Warners' branch, reported.

They said that arrangements with Samuel Morris, vice president of the company, had assured the production of the film here this summer. A theme has not been decided upon, but the committee proposes to sponsor a city-wide scenario contest for suggestions on which to base the picture.

Park Commission Discusses Purchases.

Proposed land purchases were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the National Park and Planning Commission. A tour also was made of recreational centers in various parts of the city for which improvements and land additions are being considered.

Wife, 19, Held on Bond On Forgery Charges

Given a preliminary hearing in Police Court on a charge of forging a traveler's check, Mrs. Dorothy Belodeau, 19 years old, was ordered held under a $2,000 bond for the action of the grand jury.

According to Assistant United States Attorney Michael Keogh, Mrs. Belodeau and her husband, William, now being held at Gallinger Hospital, were married in Wyoming several months ago and have traveled eastward since that time. He asserted the couple is the subject of inquiry by several States. The husband is being held under $10,000 bond.

The conference is one of a series provided by the District of Columbia Council for the benefit of Scout leaders of all troops in the District and in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

$25,000 Suit Claims Injuries From Trees

Alleging that trees on a truck of the Westcott Nursery Co. projected over the sides and pierced the windows of a street car in which she was riding, cutting and bruising her, Myra P. Collins, of 3700 Massachusetts avenue northwest, yesterday sued Milton R. Westcott, Ida G. Westcott and Walter I. Westcott, trading as the nursery company, for $25,000 damages.

She declared that the truck ran into the street car December 17, on Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Alleged Letter Brings $10,000 Damage Suit

Asserting that the Liberal Credit Clothing Co. wrote a letter to school authorities stating that his bill with them was overdue, when, he charges, as a matter of fact he never at any time owed any money to the clothing concern, William R. Pruitt, an engineer at McKinley Manual Training School, yesterday sued for $10,000.

Pruitt claims that he was maliciously libeled by the letter and that he had been forced to accept a lower salary and will, in turn, have to receive a smaller pension.

4 WITNESSES TELL OF WOMAN'S DEATH

Murder Indictments Desired Against Duo as Illegal Operation Is Hinted.

Four witnesses were sent before the District grand jury yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney M. Pearl McCall, in an effort to secure two murder indictments in connection with the death of Miss Thelma Cain, 20, of Chapin street near Fourteenth street northwest, allegedly caused by an illegal operation.

One indictment was sought against David Leroy Russell, 36, of Harvard street near Fourteenth street northwest, who has been arraigned in Police Court on a murder warrant. The other is sought against Miss Hazel Chinn, who is held at the House of Detention, booked on a murder warrant issued under instructions of Miss McCall.

The witnesses before the grand jury yesterday included Dr. A. Magruder McDonald, a young man, and a Negress employed in Russell's home. Returns on both requests for indictments will probably be made Tuesday.

Three-Foot Blade Traps Boy Visitors

Baltimore Trio Is Held as Policeman Sees "Dagger."

Because they were interested in the development of the National Capital and had not seen all its wonders, three young men from Baltimore came hiking over yesterday, armed to the teeth against highwaymen with a 3-foot weapon that the police called a "dagger."

Their sightseeing was progressing when Traffic Policeman H. B. Johnson, stationed at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, also saw unusual things. He caught a glimpse of the blade protruding from under one young tourist's coat and promptly conducted the trio to the First Precinct Station on a little inspection trip.

At the station they gave their names as George Appleby, 15; Melvin Luby, 16, and Clarence Dowgher, 15, all of the Monument City. They were taken to the Receiving Home and were being held last night pending the arrival of their parents from the Maryland city, who were notified of their sons' plight.

Company Asks Bankruptcy.

Listing assets at $3,646.25 and liabilities at $10,959.82, the Grocers Specialty Co., through Herman Levine, secretary-treasurer, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to adjudge it a voluntary bankrupt. Justice Jesse Adkins referred the case of Fred J. Eden, referee in bankruptcy.

Fireman's Wife Asks Divorce.

Suit for absolute divorce was filed yesterday by Mrs. Margaret Wernig, wife of Anthony J. Wernig, a District fireman. Just three days ago, Mrs. Wernig filed a maintenance suit against her husband.

The wife named a corespondent.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Seldom does history mention Mary Ball, yet the quiet, unassuming role she played in the life of the Nation finds few counterparts. Known to comparatively few by her maiden name, as the mother of George Washington she is universally revered. A very human article appears in the magazine section of tomorrow's Washington Post giving hitherto unpublished facts regarding her life.

Potomac Basin shortly will blossom in a riot of color. "When the Cherry Blossoms Open" is the apt title of an interesting article in Sunday's Post.

Soon, too, disciples of Izaak Walton will hie away to many well-stocked streams and tidal waters for unexcelled fishing. Another article tomorrow will name and locate a variety of choice fishing nooks within easy motor distance of Washington.

In "The Return of the Native," the athlete and dancer who turned artist has brought back in canvas the spirit of the Orient after a long stay there.

Problems of the day are entertainingly discussed by Edith Johnson in another article sharing interest with various other Post features.

BLAIR ROAD ACTION ORDERED BY GROUP

Condemnation Proceedings' Continuance Favored by Engineer.

Continuation of condemnation proceedings instituted in connection with the proposed widening of Blair road and the extension of Kansas avenue, North Dakota avenue, Quackenbos, North Capitol and Oglethorpe streets was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner.

Representatives of the Manor Park Citizens Association recently were granted a hearing, in which they protested the development at this time because of economic conditions, even though they had previously indorsed the project.

After reviewing the objections, Maj. Gotwals said: "It seems unnecessary to halt this meritorious road opening. In view of the fear of excessive spread in benefits, when these benefits are definitely assigned by the jury, the Commissioners will have another opportunity to determine whether any exorbitant assessment has been made to such an extent as to offset the very worthwhile project in view.

"Blair road should be widened and opened or abandoned. It can not, in my view, be abandoned. The other street openings are very worthwhile and were not the subject of any elaborate discussion in the hearing."

Further explaining the road improvements, Maj. Gotwals stated that Blair road is "narrow and tortuous," but that it "carries such traffic that it can not be closed. On the other hand, its continued use in its present location and condition is intolerable."

$30,000 Suit Charges Bank Refused Checks

Refusal of the North Capitol Savings Bank to honor two checks for a total of $509.85 when he had sufficient funds in the bank to cover them was claimed by Sam Freeman, trading as the Rainbow Meat Market, of 520 Florida avenue northwest, in a $30,000 suit against the bank, filed yesterday.

WHOLEAN ADOPTION ARGUED, BUT COURT RESERVES DECISION

Counsel for Mrs. Henderson Seeks to Have Decree Ruled Invalid.

KIN OF SOCIAL LEADER ASKS TO PARTICIPATE

Appears as Heir Presumptive in Proceedings; Mild Clashes Frequent.

After a lengthy argument by attorneys for both sides, Justice James F. Proctor yesterday took under advisement the motion of Mrs. Beatrice Wholean Henderson to dismiss the petition of Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, social leader of Washington for a score of years, which sought a voidance of the decree of the District Supreme Court which permitted Mrs. Henderson to adopt Mrs. Wholean.

The hearing was marked by frequent mild verbal exchanges between Spencer Gordon, attorney for Henry Arnold, who, as a nephew of Mrs. Henderson, sought to join with her in the annulment proceedings, and H. Prescott Gatley, attorney for Mrs. Wholean.

Held Errors Unimportant.

Mr. Gatley contended that the so-called "clerical errors" in the filing of the papers were of no great importance, and that the failure to spread the adoption minutes on the record of the court was done at the instance of Justice Hitz, before whom the adoption decree was heard in 1924.

Mr. Gatley declared Mrs. Wholean had never had a voice in the entire proceedings, from the time she was taken into the home of the late John B. Henderson, jr., as a "daughter" until the present situation arose. She was raised as a granddaughter of Mrs. Mary F. Henderson through John B. Henderson's efforts, he said.

Mr. Gordon, who sought the permission of the court to intervene on behalf of Henry Arnold, an "heir presumptive," declared that his client had an interest in the proceedings because of a future possibility of sharing in the estate of Mrs. Henderson. He said that while there were no citations of an heir presumptive ever having intervened in a similar case, there were no citations to the contrary. For that reason, he said, Mr. Arnold had a right to intervene.

Contended Adoption Void.

On Mrs. Henderson's behalf, George C. Edelin contended the adoption was void because Mrs. Wholean was not a minor at the time of the adoption; that no guardian ad litem had been appointed; that there was no permission of any parent given, though there was a possibility that the mother still lived; and that the "adoption was never judicially consummated because of the failure of the court to spread the minutes on the court record."

He declared further, that every provision of the statute relating to adoption in the District had been ignored in the proceedings, and he questioned the jurisdiction of the court, because Mrs. Wholean was over 18 years of age when Mrs. Henderson sought the adoption. Numerous references were given the court in the form of a memorandum, and Mr. Gordon was told to file supporting papers as soon as possible.

None of the principals was in court.

2 COMPANIONS FREE IN DEATH OF NURMI

Montgomery Grand Jurors Refuse to Indict Pair Held in Inquiry.

The Montgomery County grand jury yesterday exonerated two companions of Aarvi Nurmi, 26-year-old Census Bureau clerk, who was found shot to death on the driveway of his Takoma Park home after a drinking party, when it failed to return indictments against them.

The two companions, John J. O'Brien and Henry W. McGuire, had been held on technical charges of manslaughter pending the inquiry into the death by the grand jury. It is expected that these charges will be nolle prossed by State's Attorney Stedman Prescott.

The two men told police Nurmi had left them to go to his room and that the first they knew of his death was when they found him on the driveway beside the house. They at first believed he had fallen from his second-story window until a physician at the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital discovered that he had been shot in the head. Nurmi was proven to be the owner of the death pistol.

RECENT BANK HEAD MUST STAND TRIAL ON FRAUD CHARGES

Move to Quash Indictment Meets Adverse Ruling of Justice Gordon.

FAULTY WRIT PLAINT LOST BY H. V. HAYNES

Misapplication of Funds and False Figures Laid to Washington Man.

Harry V. Haynes, former bank president at one time prominently connected with the District Bankers Association, must stand trial on an indictment charging him with making false entries in the books of the bank, with misapplication of the funds and credits of the institution, and with abstraction of bank securities.

Justice Peyton Gordon, in ruling adversely upon a motion filed by Attorney H. Winship Wheatley, to quash the indictment turned a deaf ear to the pleas of illegally drawn papers.

Mr. Wheatley contended that the indictment was faulty because it was returned by a grand jury on which women had sat, which, he claimed, was without provision in law and which had been impanelled in July, during the summer recess of court without lawful authority.

Other claims presented by Haynes' attorneys proved equally insufficient in the eyes of Justice Gordon. Among these "faults" were the claims by Mr. Wheatley that the grand jury room was invaded by a Department of Justice employe and that the appointment of Mrs. Lilian S. Pritchard, a member of the jury commission, with no date set for the beginning of her term of office made the validness of the grand jury subject to question.

Attorney Wheatley noted an exception to the Court's ruling. He later said, though, that the trial date would be set after a conference with District Attorney Rover.

Speeding Small Auto Causes Driver $25 Fine

One of those miniature automobiles upon which the wags have tacked innumerable jokes proved its mettle on Georgia avenue yesterday, when it led a policeman a merry chase and was finally overhauled after the driver had gotten some 55 miles an hour out of it.

The driver, Pvt. Perry Staughton, was haled into court and charged with speeding. He was fined $25 by Judge Gus A. Schuldt. Another charge, that of failing to produce his driver's permit, was presented and his personal bond taken.

POLK TEACHER TO GO BEFORE BOARD BODY

Child, Allegedly Struck, to Continue Studies Under Another Instructor.

A hearing before the Board of Education committee on complaints is scheduled for Miss Ada L. Wagoner, teacher at the Polk School, on a charge of having struck Edward J. Walker, of C street, near First street northwest, a pupil under her charge. Meanwhile the child, who has not attended school since March 2, will probably start again with his studies when the school officials find another teacher or school for him.

The decision to submit the case to the school board committee was reached yesterday afternon at a conference between Robert L. Haycock, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of elementary schools; the child's parents, their attorney, Alfred D. Smith; Mrs. S. P. Johnson, principal of Polk School; W. B. Patterson, supervising principal, and the child in question.

Hearing before the complaint committee will probably follow a recommendation to be made to the Board of Education by Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, at the next meeting, April 1, Mr. Haycock said.

Meanwhile, it is understood that Miss Wagoner will continue to teach and a new teacher or school will be found for the child.

Attorney Smith said last night that Mr. and Mrs. Walker presented testimony tha teveral of the child's fellow pupils had seen their classmate struck by Miss Wagoner. They also related, he said, that another child had been found who had been hit by the teacher.

Miss Wagoner denied, during the conference, that any such incidents had taken place. She said thatshe had never struck any of the pupils under her care.

Winter Reaches End Today; District's Driest Since 1826

Entire Country Reports More Arid Conditions Than Last Summer; Northern States Bask in Warm Sunshine, While South Shivers With Cold.

The driest winter Washington has experienced since 1826 will pass officially and astronomically this morning promptly at 9:07 o'clock. Winter is theoretically at an end when the sun appears to cross the equator and to shine more strongly on the northern half of the earth.

While the season has been extra dry for the District of Columbia, it has been decidedly out of character over the rest of the country. Some of the more northern States have reported the warmest winter weather on record, while the southern States have felt the cold more than is usual.

Not only has the heating arrangement of old Mother Earth been reversed this winter, but the United States Weather Bureau reports that for the entire country winter has been more arid than 1930's drought-ridden summer. Precipitation for the country was only 73 per cent of normal last summer, but it fell to 89 per cent during the winter months.

Weather bureau records show that Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oregon, Wisconsin and Wyoming had the driest winter known.

It was the driest in 30 years for Kentucky, Maryland, and West Virginia, among others. Only Arizona, Florida, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Texas had normal winter rainfall.

There were few cases of subzero weather during this winter. Of course, New Zealand, as usual had its cold weather, but the Middle West, where blizzards usually rage, found the temperatures ranging from 4 to 16 degrees above normal.

On the other hand, in the Gulf and South Atlantic States, the thermometers registered an average of from two to three degrees colder than usual.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TO THE POLE BY SUBMARINE.

CAPT. Sir Hubert Wilkins is to attempt to visit the North Pole by submarine. This is the first time most of us realized that traffic the other way was getting too congested for comfort.

• • • •

Sir Hubert has already taken over the reconditioned underseas boat U-13, named it the Nautilus and prepared for a voyage where he can be certain there will be no competition.

• • • •

Many explorers have been to the North Pole, but they have seen only the dry end. Capt. Wilkins will be able to report back whether the other end has barnacles.

• • • •

Some people can't get enough adventure. Sir Hubert is a pioneer Graf Zeppelin hitchhiker, but wants something more dangerous. In a submarine dash to the Pole he will get it.

• • • •

Even if he doesn't locate the Pole it will still be a good trick. One thing the movie audiences are guaranteed in advance by a submarine Polar dash is that the film won't show any penguins.

• • • •

That's something. A four-minute film of an Arctic trip without a single penguin would be the biggest screen novelty in years.

• • • •

Sir Hubert doesn't plan to linger around the Pole. He will merely see how it looks from below and proceed under the ice to Alaska, sailing by dead reckoning, which is very much like swimming the English Channel in a sack.

• • • •

SIR HUBERT thinks he will find clear sailing under the ice and won't have to worry about the weather. But there will probably be moments when he and the crew will wish they were up on a nice big floating iceberg in a blinding blizzard.

• • • •

There is no more embarrassing moment imaginable than being under the ice in a submarine when your engine stalls. The more you think of this kind of Polar trip the more you wonder why Houdini never included it in his repertoire.

• • • •

But Sir Hubert is not sailing without an eye for such an emergency. He realizes that engines go bad at the most inopportune moments, and that even under the ice a famous man may run into autograph hunters. He has therefore provided a device for boring through the ice.

• • • •

By means of a huge steel drill he hopes to be able to cut holes in the Arctic waste. Engineers have told him it can be done. But they are going to stay home and read the newspapers to see if they were wrong.

• • • •

Anyway, here's wishing Sir Hubert bon voyage! If a man wants to take a blindfold test in Arctic exploration it's his own business.

The National Aeronautical Association has officially credited Miss Ruth Nichols with having flown an airplane to the world record height of 28,743 feet. But plenty of women have gone into the air higher than that over a simple remark like, "You're getting a double chin, aren't you, dear?"

"IT is quite possible to make good use of the subway by sleeping when traveling in it. It is a question of developing the technique to relax easily. Resting during rush hour would certainly be better than reading."—From an address at Barnard College by Dr. Lillian Moeller Gilbreth. Loads of people seem to have developed the technique of sleeping in the doorways, you may have noticed.

SUBWAY SONG FOR A BARNARD GIRL.

Upon the I. R. T.—
Close your weary eyes, my dear,
And ride unconsciously.
Sleep, my pretty one, sleep—
A fig for all the dangers
Of slumbering, my little girl,
With all those perfect strangers.

RENEWAL OF WORK ON BIG AGRICULTURE BUILDING EXPECTED

Significance Seen in News Company Will Finish Court for State.

CRAFTSMEN GATHERING TOOLS AT STRUCTURE

Concern or Receivers to Carry On Work Here, Is Belief.

With suspension of virtually all work yesterday on the $2,074,000 Agriculture Extensible Building due to receivership of the Nelson-Pedley Construction Co., of Philadelphia, came indications that completion of the partially-finished project will be undertaken shortly either by the firm or by its receivers and jobs given back to the approximately 350 skilled laborers made idle.

Upon the heels of an exclusive announcement here by The Washington Post yesterday that the large firm had gone into receivership, the concern's representatives made public that while work was held in abeyance on the large structure Thursday due to rain, yesterday marked the beginning of enforced idleness.

Will Finish Courthouse.

Less than a score of concrete mixers, electricians and other artisans were engaged a part of the day in assembling articles of their crafts to prevent loss and in performing minor tasks.

While jobless laborers loitered about the skeleton edifice, occupying an imposing site at Thirteenth and B streets southwest, directly behind the Agriculture Department's new administration building, word came from Pottsville, Pa., that the firm had announced it would complete at least one of its unfinished projects, notwithstanding the court action.

Its announced decision yesterday to finish the new Schuykill County Courthouse, a $321,000 contract, led to belief that the firm will go ahead with its other unfinished work, or that the receivers may assume the responsibility. It was stated in Pottsville that all jobs on which the company has been at work will show a profit, including the Extensible Building here.

Officials Not Notified.

The firm's representatives here explained that any announcements of plans will be made from headquarters in Philadelphia or by the three receivers, all Pennsylvanians. The office of the Supervising Architect of the Treasury, which acted for the Department of Agriculture in awarding the contract, has announced that it had not been notified of receivership nor of any suspension in work here.

The firm was forced into receivership several days ago in Harrisburg, Pa., following a Pennsylvania Supreme Court decision holding the firm liable for a $750,000 fire loss to a partially completed State government building on which it was working in Harrisburg.
